BYRNES BITTERLY ATTACKED AT KIEL THIRD-TERM RALLY

State Senator Blodgett Asks, "Do We Want an Irishman for Mayor?" "Are They Fit to Govern?"

DECLARES BYRNES' PLATFORM IS "BUNK"

Asserts Newspapers Have Combined to Oppose Mayor Despite His Proven Character and Ability.

An attack on James W. Byrnes, Democratic nominee for Mayor, who is running on a non-partisan platform of business administration, was made by State Senator Henry W. Blodgett at Mayor Kiel's third-term rally in the old North St. Louis Y. M. C. A., at 1909 St. Louis avenue, last night.

"Do we want an Irishman for Mayor?" Blodgett asked. "Are the Irish fit to govern anybody? Look what they are doing with themselves."

Alluding to the fact that Mrs. Joseph Bray, a Republican, has become chairman of the Non-Partisan Woman's Committee, which is backing Byrnes, Blodgett said:

"Their candidate is an ass, and now they have the bray."

Mayor Kiel spoke of Byrnes as a "double-face, double-edged," candidate. He promised that, in the event of his re-election, the improvement of street paving conditions would begin, as obstacles had been removed in the last few months. He also said a garbage incineration system would be established in a short time.

Because this is Good Friday, it was announced, there will be no Kiel meeting tonight. Meetings are scheduled for next week, beginning with three on Monday night.

Speaks of Newspaper Opposition.

Senator Blodgett spoke of newspaper opposition to a third term for Mayor Kiel, saying that the newspapers had combined to oppose the Mayor, despite his proven character and ability. Speaking of the Globe-Democrat particularly, he said that it should learn to be "a good loser." He charged the paper's present attitude to the defeat of "its brother-in-law," Robert Burkham, in the primary.

"When I pick up the Globe-Democrat in the morning now, I do it with regret," he said, "but I can't get the news any other way."

"You can on Sunday morning," a man in the audience called to him.

He declared that St. Louis streets were good, compared to those of other cities, and that existing defects would be remedied. He said he had found holes in the streets in Cleveland.

Taking up Byrnes' platform, Blodgett said:

"His stuff is bunk. He knows as much about building a platform as I know about heaven. He doesn't know anything about St. Louis. He demands that the city's accounts shall be open. They are open now. He wants a healthy and clean city. If he knew the facts, he would know that St. Louis is the cleanest city, and the second healthiest one.

Transportation at Cost.

"When he talks about 'increased and rapid transportation at cost,' he simply shows that he is unfit to hold any office. Who sells anything at cost? Does the Byrnes Belting Co.? No one outside the big house on Arsenal street should talk about transportation at cost.

"The Mayor has nothing to do with transportation. Mr. Byrnes ought to know that. The Public Service Commission at Jefferson City controls our transportation. I know the members of this commission, and I hardly think they would care to meet a man who shows such ignorance about the matter of transportation as Mr. Byrnes shows.

"All Byrnes gives you is idle promises. Here you've got a Mayor who has blown his name in the bottle."

Blodgett then attacked Congressman Harry Hawes, saying that the election of Byrnes would bring Hawes and the Democratic machine into power. The same line of argument was followed by Police Judge Mix, the next speaker.

Says Hawes Would Be Mayor.

"Mr. Byrnes has just started reading the city charter," Mix said. "If he should manage to be elected Mayor, Harry Hawes would be the real Mayor. We know Hawes. He is the dominating sort, and he would soon dominate the Mayor. The press fought to eliminate Hawes when he was in control years ago, and now the press is fighting to bring him back."

Mix said that, in the days when Hawes and Edward Butler were controlling forces, the names of dead men, taken from tombstones in cemeteries, were voted in the Third Ward. He said he had recently visited 22 cities, in order to speak on traffic laws, and that everywhere he

Kiel Issues Statement on Blodgett's Reference to the Irish People

"To the People of the City of St. Louis:

"According to the Globe-Democrat of this day, in its write-up of an address made by Senator Harry W. Blodgett before a joint meeting of the Third and Eighteenth wards last evening, wherein he was quoted as saying: 'He is a descendant of the men who are making such a mess of their Government over there and who are not fit to govern anything.' I want to state emphatically that I do not subscribe to such a doctrine. I am a firm believer in self-determination of smaller nations to say as to just what character of government they shall have. I have taken this position, not recently, but have always been an advocate of the Irish people fighting for their freedom. If it was right for the American colonists in 1776, it is right for the Irish people in 1921, and I am sorry indeed that anyone in this campaign would say anything reflecting upon the nationality of anyone. This election in St. Louis has nothing to do with a man's nationality, but it has something to do with the future progress and prosperity of our city and if I am re-elected Mayor I shall continue, as I have in the past, to be fair and friendly with all nations, races and creeds, and shall continue in the future, as I have in the past, to follow the dictates of my own conscience as to my procedure with reference to any international proposition.

"Very respectfully,
"HENRY W. KIEL."

'VOLUNTARY' GIFTS TO KIEL FUND BY CITY EMPLOYES

Treasurer of G. O. P. Fund Says "There Is No Assessment" and Adds, "They Are Not All In Yet."

City employes have begun making "voluntary" contributions to the fund for Mayor Kiel's third-term campaign.

The city charter makes it a misdemeanor to solicit directly or indirectly any assessment or contribution for any political party from any person in the classified service. Violation of this provision is punishable by a fine of $10 to $500, or imprisonment for not more than 100 days, or by both fine and imprisonment.

George Hohmann of the Twenty-second Ward, treasurer of the Republican City Committee, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter today that city employes are making contributions, and that they have been told that their contributions will be welcomed.

"There is no assessment or duress about it," Hohmann said. He declined to make any estimate of the number of employes who had contributed, or the amount, saying that "they haven't all come in yet."

Last fall the same statements were made by Republican committee representatives as to the "voluntary" character of the gifts of city employes. When the sworn report of campaign contributions was made it was seen that scrubwomen employed by the Park Department at $80 a month had given 5 per cent of their monthly pay, or $4, and that day laborers in the Park Department, earning $3.23 a day, had given a day's pay each.

Mayor Kiel, when his attention was called at that time to the list of city employes' contributions, said he believed they were all voluntary.

KOERNER ADMITS WHISKY SALE MARCH 10 AND GETS $100 FINE

Head of Merchants' Catering Co. Is Under Six Months' Sentence on Second-Offense Charge.

Ernest A. Koerner, president of the Merchants' Catering Co., 408 Washington avenue, pleaded guilty in the Court of Criminal Correction today on a charge of selling intoxicants in violation of the State law and was fined $100 and costs. Patrolman William Forthman of the cleanup squad testified that he bought a pint of whisky from Koerner March 10 last.

Koerner, on March 12 last, was found guilty by a jury in the United States District Court on a charge of selling whisky in violation of the Volstead act and his punishment was fixed at six months' imprisonment in the St. Charles jail and $1000 fine. This was punishment for a second offense. He has appealed this case. On a first offense arraignment in the Federal Court he pleaded guilty and was fined $500.

FRANCIS' ARREST MAY EXPOSE BIG BOOTLEG BUSINESS

He Is Said to Be One of 60 or 70 Men on a List of "Good Prospects" for Sale of Liquor.

ARREST BASED ON LIQUOR IN TRUNKS

Federal prohibition enforcement officers today started an investigation which they believe will throw further light on the operations of bootleggers on a large scale in St. Louis as a result of information which came into their hands after the arrest yesterday of Talton T. Francis of 310 North Newstead avenue, son and business partner of former Gov. D. R. Francis, Ambassador to Russia in the Wilson administration, on a charge of transporting whisky without a permit.

Information has been obtained that there is in existence a list of 60 or 70 names of men of wealthy families in the West End who were set down by bootleggers as "good prospects" in the unlawful sale of whisky. Talton T. Francis' name was one of those on the list.

An effort will now be made to learn how many, if any, of these St. Louisans listened to the blandishments of the bootleggers and made purchases of whisky.

Francis was arrested near his home after a truck containing two trunks had stopped there. The trunks were found to contain 59 quarts of a brand of whisky made in Canada, and a broken bottle.

Information given out at the Federal Building after the arrest was that Francis was arrested after he had met the truck at Lindell boulevard and Newstead avenue, and had boarded the truck and ridden on it a block and a half to his home in front of which it stopped.

Francis Denies Owning Liquor.

When a Post-Dispatch reporter called at Francis' home last night for a statement, Francis said that he was driving his automobile west on Lindell boulevard when he noticed a truck ahead of him turn north into Newstead avenue, and stop near his home. Two men were on the truck and a third man on the sidewalk, he said, when he drove up and alighted from his car. He said one of the men on the truck beckoned him, and as he approached the truck to speak with the men, four other men drove up in an automobile and announced they were Federal officers.

"They said I would have to go with them," Francis continued, "and they took me and the men on the truck to the Federal Building. I did not know what was in the truck, as it was a covered vehicle; I had never seen the trunks; I had purchased no whisky, and I did not leave my automobile at any time and board the truck, as has been stated."

When asked what the men on the truck said when they beckoned to him, Francis stated that he had no more to say for publication.

Alex Rothschild and Julius Buckey also were arrested.

WILSON SUFFERS ATTACK OF INDIGESTION, SOON RECOVERS

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Former President Wilson suffered an acute attack of indigestion today which caused hurried calls for medical assistance. It was said, however, that he had entirely recovered an hour after the attack.

Dr. Sterling Ruffin, who attended Mr. Wilson in the White House during his serious illness, arrived at the former President's Washington residence first, in answer to the call, and on leaving at 2:20 this afternoon, said Mr. Wilson had so completely recovered that he was able to eat a light lunch.

The attack occurred about 12:30 p. m., Dr. Ruffin said, but had passed before he left the house. He said that "it was not serious in any way," and that the former President was in as good health as ever when he left him.

Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, Mr. Wilson's personal physician, also was summoned and reached the Wilson home after Dr. Ruffin arrived. Mr. Wilson has been subject to nervous indigestion for some years.

ERRORS MAY CAUSE GOVERNOR TO VETO THE JUDICIAL BILL

Measure Has Been Referred to Attorney-General Barrett for His Opinion on Its Validity.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—So many errors were found in the judicial redistricting bill passed by the Legislature that Gov. Hyde is likely to veto it. After several serious omissions were pointed out to him, he sent the bill to Attorney-General Barrett today, asking an opinion on its validity. If it is found extremely defective, he said, he will veto it.

The bill, introduced by Representative William P. Elmer, of Dent County, seeks to abolish four of the 38 Circuit judicial districts in the State, and to abolish the Common Pleas Courts at Louisiana and Sturgeon. This action would necessitate the appointment b ythe Governor of 13 new Circuit Judges, seven of whose benches now are occupied by Democrats. It had been anticipated that Gov. Hyde would appoint Republicans in their places.

While providing for the litigation of cases now heard in the Common Pleas Court at Sturgeon, the bill fails to make any provision for taking care of the Louisiana Common Pleas Court. Also, it fails to state, in its title, all the purposes of the bill, as required by the State Constitution. More than that, it fails to repeal the old law by which the Common Pleas courts were created.

A committee of lawyers has been examining the various bills presented for the Governor's signature, for the purpose of advising him as to their proper construction. This committee, after reading the Elmer bill, pronounced it so defective as to be invalid.

A convention of all the Circuit Judges in the State is to be held at Jefferson Monday, to urge the Governor to veto the measure.

2500 'REDS' FIGHT 2000 POLICE 2 DAYS IN GERMAN CITY

Hostilities Continued Along Half-Mile Front in Eisleben After Brief Lull; Peasants Join Communists.

By the Associated Press.

EISLEBEN, Germany, March 25.—Fighting between the Communists and Security police for possession of Eisleben had extended this morning to a half-mile front in the western section of the town with the position of advantage changing hands from moment to moment. The Communist force of 2500 was being re-enforced steadily by peasants and villagers coming to town on foot and on bicycles. They carried army guns in the hope of surrounding the 2000 Security police and destroying them.

Rifles, machine guns, grenades and dynamite, which were heard continuously throughout the night, kept up a rumble resembling drum fire. From the Post and Telegraph building, the combat was visible, and above the roar of firing could be heard calls of encouragement to both sides and the cries of the wounded, lying where they fell.

The intensity of the fighting may be judged from the fact that the railroad station changed hands twice in the 20 minutes preceding 7 o'clock last night.

Bodies of the dead and severely wounded were still lying last night in the streets where they fell 20 hours ago. The less severely wounded were crowded in sheltered doorways, with bullets raising puffs of dust about them.

The extent of the casualties on either side is not definitely known, but at least 20 were killed and 50 wounded in yesterday morning's fighting.

Railroad and telegraph communications with Eisleben have been cut, and no automobilist having been found daring enough to enter the city in his car, the correspondent came into the town on foot.

The telegraph office was found in the hands of the police, who consented to transmit this report of the fighting, the sending of the message proceeding while machine guns raked the adjacent streets and the people living nearby were huddled in their darkened houses, peeking through the blinds.

The workmen were holding the municipal lighting plant, but permitted its continued operation.

30 Persons Killed, 28 Wounded, in Rioting in Hamburg.

By the Associated Press.

HAMBURG, March 24.—Not less than 30 persons were killed in the riots here Wednesday. Thus far 28 are known to be seriously wounded.

The Communist revolt in the middle-German industrial area is believed to be receding, although minor outbreaks are reported in new sections. The situation is critical at Eisleben.

Youthful rioters are looting the shops in Eisleben, Mansfeld and other nearby points. The Communists are not being given the support of organized labor, and it is believed the present outbreak, on this account, will be shortlived.

In Hamburg the police are succeeding in breaking up Communist gatherings and protecting the three big shipyards.

At 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon 100 radical workers who invaded the premises of the shipyards Wednesday were still locked up, as the Security Police are guarding all the outlets.

Business everywhere is proceeding normally in Hamburg. The Volks Zeitung has been suppressed.

Union Labor Refuses to Support Communist Revolt.

DEPOSITIONS IN THE JACOB LAMPERT WILL SUIT TAKEN

HEARING AT REQUEST OF ADMINISTRATOR

Object Is to Ascertain Particulars Concerning Allegations of 11 Nieces and Nephews in Contest Action

Details of a family quarrel participated in by Mrs. Rosa Graff of 5349 Pershing avenue and Miss Sylvia Geist of 5877 Nina place at the Graff home last Dec. 18, just 37 days before Jacob Lampert, cigar manufacturer, who died Feb. 19, made a will bequeathing his entire estate of $1,264,813, with the exception of $60,000 left to charity, to his sister, Mrs. Graff, and cutting off 11 nieces and nephews, including Miss Geist, were related yesterday in depositions given by Miss Geist and her sister, Mrs. Rosalind Epstein, in the office of former Circuit Judge Moses N. Sale in the Federal Reserve Bank building.

The depositions were ordered at the request of the administrator, who desired to ascertain particulars concerning allegations made by the 11 nieces and nephews in a suit to have the will set aside on the ground that Mrs. Graff influenced Lampert against them by carrying tales to him, and by repeating to him things they had said which she construed as uncomplimentary to him, and indicating a lack of respect and affection toward him on their part.

Says Uncle Mentioned Incident.

Miss Geist, who is a daughter of William Geist, Recording Clerk in the Circuit Attorney's office, told of the quarrel. She testified that Mrs. Graff had taken her and her sister, Willmett, to task in the presence of Mrs. Epstein and a cousin, Dorothy Van Raalte, for having neglected to introduce Dorothy Van Raalte to a group of young men they had met at a social function. She said there was a heated argument in which all of those present took part. Several days later, she said, she met her uncle, Jacob Lampert, on the street, and he mentioned the quarrel. That was one of several incidents, she said, which convinced her that Mrs. Graff had been carrying tales to Lampert.

When asked to repeat her uncle's exact words, Miss Geist said that she could not recall them. She used similar expressions when asked to give details of other incidents pertaining to family affairs. She said that she recalled only one occasion when her uncle visited her father's home and that was when her mother died several years ago. She could not recall whether it was the day of the death or the day of the funeral. Her memory was refreshed by Attorney Dorsey Jamison, executor of the estate, who was prompted by Mrs. Graff, when he asked her if she recalled an incident of her uncle, opening a window. She recollected that she closed the window after her uncle had opened it, but when asked if she remarked, "you may open windows in your own home, but you can't do it in our home," she replied that she did not remember what she had said as she was exicted and nervous at the time.

Not Friendly With Aunt.

She said that she could not say that she had ever been on exactly friendly terms with her aunt, Mrs. Graff, but, she added, in response to questions, that she had never spoken uncomplimentary about "Uncle Jake." She said that she had treated him as she had treated her other uncles. She denied having ordered Lampert to "shut up" once when members of the family were visiting a sick relative at a hospital.

In reply to questions by counsel for the estate she admitted having attended a dance at the Columbian Club on March 3, which was 12 days after her uncle's death, and that she met her cousin, Dorothy Van Raalte, another of the will contestants, there. She also admitted having attended a fortnightly dance a few weeks after her uncle's death, but denied having taken part after his death in rehearsals for an amateur theatrical, "The Melting Pot," which was given Feb. 27.

She said that her sister, Willmett, had attended rehearsals for the play, but had stopped several days after the uncle's death.

"What was Willmett going to do in the play?" asked Jamison.

"A song and dance," replied the witness.

"In fancy costume?"

"I don't know."

"Did she not attend one rehearsal after Uncle Jake's death?"

"I don't remember."

Mrs. Epstein Questioned.

Mrs. Epstein, who resides with her father, was asked to specify the allegation that Mrs. Graff had ex-

TRADE TO DEPEND ON CHANGES IN POLICY, U. S. TELLS RUSSIA

Secretary Hughes in Note to Soviet, Lays Down Conditions for Protection of Life and Property.

U. S. MUST HAVE ROOF OF GUARANTY

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Resumption of trade relations with soviet Russia will depend upon satisfactory assurances that "fundamental changes are contemplated involving due regard for the protection of persons and property and the establishment of conditions essential to the maintenance of commerce," Secretary Hughes says in a message sent today to the Russian soviet representatives at Reval.

U. S. Note to Russia.

"The Government of the United States," says the communication, "views with deep sympathy and grave concern the plight of the people of Russia and desires to aid by every appropriate means in promoting proper opportunitties through which commerce can be established upon a sound basis.

"It is manifest to this Government that in existing circumstances there is no assurance for the development of trade, as the supplies which Russia might now be able to obtain would be wholly inadequate to meet her needs and no lasting good can result so long as the present causes of progressive impoverishment continue to operate.

"It is only in the productivity of Russia that there is any hope for the Russian people and it is idle to expect resumption of trade until the economic bases of production are securely established. Production is conditioned upon the safety of life, the recognition by firm guarantees of private property, the sanctity of contract and the rights of free labor.

"If fundamental changes are contemplated involving due regard for the protection of persons and property and the establishment of conditions essential to the maintenance of commerce, this Government will be glad to have convincing evidence of the consummation of such changes, and until this evidence is supplied this Government is unable to perceive that there is any proper basis for considering trade relations."

Considered by Cabinet.

The Russian situation was considered at length at the regular Cabinet meeting today.

The message from Secretary Hughes was in reply to the recent appeal of the soviet Government at Moscow that the United States again trade with Russia and that it negotiate with a delegation to be sent to this country for the purpose by the soviet authorities. The note was transmitted through the American Consul at Reval as the original message from the soviet Government was received from the soviet representatives here.

The atSte Department is known to take the position that there was no occasion at thi stime to reply specifically to the proposal of the bolsheviki that a trade delegation be received by the American Government.

Sufficient opportunity, it is held, is given in the request of the American Government for assurances from the soviet Government of a change in heart as affecting their communistic principles and the rights of private property for later consideration of the question of the reception of a soviet delegation.

It is known that no intimation of recognition of the soviet Government was meant to be contained by the State Department in the reply to the soviet message. It was made plain, however, that the American Government was not disposed to question the holding by Russia of any political philosophy which she pleased, but was concerned principally and solely with the question as to whether the underlying bases of trade were to be respected by the soviety Government.

NAVY BALLOON WITH FIVE ABOARD ADRIFT

Scores of Air and Surface Craft Searching for Bag Last Seen Near Open Sea.

By the Associated Press.

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 25.—Scores of naval air and surface craft today took up anew the search for the free balloon from the naval air station here which was reported adrift at sea yesterday with five men aboard. The last heard from the balloon yesterday was that it was then off St. Andrews Bay, drifting toward the open sea and only about 100 feet above the water. Two messages brought in by carrier pigeons told the plight of the balloonists. The last said all the ballast had been thrown overboard, but at that time the big gas bag was slowly sinking.

A dirigible and a number of seaplanes were immediately dispatched to the location given, but they found no trace of the balloon, either in the air or in the water. Later surface craft was sent out and a wireless message was sent out to all boats in the vicinity to look out for the balloon.

The balloon left the air station at 5 o'clock Tuesday evening for an all-night flight.

Naval officers said it was possible that the men had landed on the coast in some out-of-way place and that it might be a day or two before they could reach a point from which they could communicate with the air station.

GLENNON TO GIVE CARDINAL GIBBONS' FUNERAL SERMON

Many Prominent Churchmen From All Over Country Expected at the Services Next Thursday.

BURIAL TO BE IN CATHEDRAL CRYPT

Monsignor John Bonzano, Apostolic Delegate to America, to Pontificate at the Requiem Mass.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, March 25.—The death of Cardinal Gibbons will not precipitate the removal of the primatial see of the Catholic Church of America. This is definitely announced by the Rev. Albert E. Smith, secretary of the late Cardinal. The seat of the hierarchy will remain in Baltimore. As the appointment of a successor to the archbishopric here involves no issue or question of rank or seniority, any clergyman in the hierarchy dominion becomes eligible. A selection will be made by Pope Benedict. In the interregnum an administrator will serve. Bishop Owen B. Corrigan probably will be named to this post by the diocesan consultors today.

Grave Under Cathedral Altar.

The Cardinal's grave will be a niche in the north wall of the crypt under the high altar of the cathedral. A slab of marble carved with an inscription in Latin will mark his resting place. Above this vault, behind whose south wall lie the six Archbishops of Maryland who preceded him, is the sanctuary of the cathedral to which Cardinal Gibbons' parents brought him as a baby to be baptised, where he was consecrated a Bishop, where he was later consecrated an Archbishop, and where, on June 30, 1886, he was invested with the robes of the cardinalate. There, too, stands the throne of the Cardinal. Above the throne will hang the Cardinal's hat, symbol of princedom in the Catholic hierarchy, so long as the cathedral stands.

Attired in his archiepiscopal vestments the Cardinal's body lies in the bed in which he died. Prayers for the repose of his soul are being said without intermission day and night. Members of the Christian Brothers perform this duty at night, while seminarians from St. Mary's Theological Seminary recite the office in day time.

"This will continue until the body is taken into the Cathedral Sunday evening, when a guard of honor taken from the Knights of Columbus, Ancient Order of Hibernians and other Catholic organizations will keep constant vigil at the bier, until the day of the funeral. The Cathedral will be open continuously during this period.

Churchmen to Attend Funeral.

At the funeral will gather the greatest company of churchmen ever assembled in the United States. Monsignor John Bonzano, apostolic delegate at Washington, will pontificiate at high requiem mass on Thursday.

The funeral procession will include the Cardinals, the Archbishops, the Bishops, the Apostolic Delegate and virtually all the priests in the diocese of Maryland, which includes the District of Columbia.

Representatives of all the church's ers will be there—the abbots from e monasteries in robes of white, own or black.

Archbishop J. J. Glennon, of the rchdiocese of St. Louis, will preach e funeral sermon. It is noteworthy that it was Archbishop Glenn who preached the sermon at rdinal Gibbons' golden jubilee at e cathedral in October, 1911.

Mourning City-Wide.

News of the Cardinal's death read through the city rapidly and e mourning was city-wide. Prac- ally all the courts in the city ad- urned when the tolling of the bells nounced the Cardinal's death. oceedings were suspended in the perior Court for five minutes, and ere was profound silence in the urtroom. The same solemnity was served in other courts. Mayor oening called a special joint ses- n of the City Council for 5 o'clock onday afternoon, to take suitable tion on the Cardinal's death. The ayor ordered the bell in the dome e then directed that the flag be aced at half mast on the city hall d other municipal buildings.

ROME, March 25.—News of the death of Cardinal Gibbons caused the most profound grief at the Vatican, coming as a particular shock to Pope Benedict who had just written a letter of congratulation to the Cardinal, having heard he had recovered his health.

"Both the church and America have lost one of their greatest men," exclaimed the pontiff. "The name of Cardinal Gibbons will go down in history." His holiness knelt after thus voicing his grief, and remained a long time at the prie-dieu in the deepest prayer.

"By the death of Cardinal Gibbons," said Cardinal Dougherty, "the church in America has lost the greatest man in its history and our country its foremost citizen. He was the only survivor of the Vatican council which met under Pius IX, and also of the bishop's third plenary council in Baltimore, and was the oldest member of the Sacred College of Cardinals. Several generations of Catholics in the United States looked up to him as their leader. Americans, irrespective of creed, regarded him as a patriot and guide.

"Cardinal Gibbons' salient traits of character seem to have been his keen interest in men and the progress of the world, and his rare judgment, his tact, and his kindly sympathy for everything human. I had the honor as a student in the American College to serve as an acolyte when Cardinal Gibbons took possession of his titular church, Santa Maria, in Trastevere, in 1887, the year after he was created a cardinal."

Archbishop to Depart for Baltimore Monday or Tuesday.

Archbishop Glennon, who will preach the sermon at Cardinal Gibbons' funeral, will depart Monday or Tuesday for Baltimore.

German Reply on Default in Reparations Rejected; Text of the Allied Note

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 25.

THE German delegation here today delivered to the allied reparations commission the German reply to the note sent by the commission yesterday giving Germany warning of the infliction of penalties under the peace treaty unless she paid before May 1 the 12,000,000,000 gold marks' balance of the 20,000,000,000-mark payment under article 235 of the treaty. The commission decided that the reply was unacceptable in its present form and refused to accept it from the German delegates. The Germans agreed to draft another reply which, however, will not be ready before next week.

Following is the text of the Reparations Commission's note to Germany, replying to the German note of March 22, which informs Germany that additional penalties will be applied if Germany does not pay sums due on the reparations account by May 1:

"Replying to your letter the Reparations Commission has the honor to inform you:

"Firstly, according to the treaty of Versailles, the Reparations Commission alone has the right to place a valuation upon the deliveries made by Germany.

"Secondly, the Reparations Commission by the same treaty is authorized to decide which, among the deliveries made up to date, may be deducted from the 20,000,000,000 gold marks referred to in article 235.

"Thirdly, neither paragraphs 9 nor 10, annex 2, part 8, concern an eventual hearing of the German Government concerning Germany's capacity for payment.

"There is nothing in the treaty of Versailles which obliges the commission to hear the German Government upon the conditions under which deliveries to make up the 20,000,000,000 marks mentioned in article 235 should be made or appraised.

Waited as Long as Possible.

"The commission has awaited as long as possible, thinking the German Government would take the necessary steps faithfully to fulfill its obligations under article 235. It now is persuaded such is not the case. The commission demanded payment of 1,000,000,000 gold marks because of the certainty that Germany possessed the sufficient funds to make immediate payment.

"Anxious to execute the treaty in a spirit of fairness, the commission did not fail to add that after the 1,000,000,000 gold marks had been paid it would be ready to discuss any further propositions which might be presented by the German Government before April 1 with the view of partly substituting for gold and foreign securities goods, merchandise or the proceeds for a foreign loan.

"We cannot agree with the German Government that in the event of the 20,000,000,000 marks remaining unpaid on May 1, the balance may be settled by the delivery of the German bonds provided for in paragraph 12. The 20,000,000,000 gold marks in article 235 in no way can be confused with the 20,000,000,000 gold marks representing the amount of the first issue of bonds referred to in paragraph 12 of annex 2. The 20,000,000,000 marks in bonds of annex 2 are simply an acknowledgement of debt to be deducted from the reparations general account. The 20,000,000,000 gold marks of article 235 must be paid in cash, securities or the equivalent and be used partly, first, to defray the cost of the armies of occupation and the revictualling of Germany in foodstuffs and raw materials, what balance being left to be applied to reparations.

"Absolute Obligation Taken."

"The dispositions of annex 2, paragraph 12, concerning the issue of new bonds, in no way modify the absolute obligation taken by Germany to pay the 20,000,000,000 marks under article 235. In any event, the total amount of 20,000,000,000 marks gold under article 235 must be paid before May 1. The text is imperative, and nonfulfillment of this article, as in any other failure of Germany to fulfill her obligations would entail penalties.

"The above fact being stated there results that the German Government, by replying negatively to the commission's request that it execute the stipulation of article 235 and especially by refusing to make the payment of 1,000,000,000 marks gold due March 23, must be considered in default of fulfilling its obligations and undertakings. Consequently, the commission has decided, in conformity with paragraph 17, annex 2, part 8 of the Versailles treaty, immediately to call the attention to such default of each of the interested Powers.

"DUBOIS, President."

DEBS, UNATTENDED, VISITS CAPITAL TO SEE DAUGHERTY

Attorney-General Summons Socialist, Whose Case He Was Directed to Review by President.

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 25.—Eugene V. Debs, Socialist leader, reached Atlanta about noon today on his way back to his cell in the Federal penitentiary after his visit to Attorney-General Daugherty at Washington. He would not discuss his trip to Washington and, accompanied by Warden Zerbst and his attorney, left the city immediately for the penitentiary.

Debs and Warden Zerbst shook hands when they met. He said: "Enjoyed the trip immensely," and "appreciated the confidence shown in me."

"Are you going directly back to the penitentiary?" he was asked at the station.

"Yes, I'm going back to be a good convict again," he replied, smiling.

Wearing a dark suit and carrying a light overcoat and black bag, he was hardly noticed by the usual crowd of travelers until moving picture cameras began to grind.

"Oh, I can't pose," he said to the camera men, but they snapped his picture as he walked along and finally with an apology to the Warden the Socialist leader paused a moment and permitted the Camera men to satisfy themselves.

A few minutes later he had climbed lightly into the Warden's automobile and with Zerbst driving they whisked away. A little sign "U. S. Pen." in the place of the usual Georgia license was the only thing to indicate that the close of the unprecedented trip was anything out of the ordinary.

Debs' departure from the penitentiary on Wednesday was carried out with such secrecy that his local attorney, Samuel M. Castleton, said that even he did not know it.

First Announcement of Trip Came After Departure From Capital.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Surprise lingered in the wake today of the unheralded visit to Washington, unattended, of Eugene V. Debs, imprisoned Socialist leader, to discuss his case with Attorney-General Daugherty.

Slipping into Washington early yesterday, Debs had gone to the Department of Justice, held a three hours' conference with the Attorney-General and started on the return to the Atlanta penitentiary before his visit was announced by Daugherty to a group of newspaper men whom the Socialist leader had successfully evaded throughout the day.

In announcing the visit of Debs, whose case he recently was directed to review by President Harding, the Attorney-General said he called the Socialist leader to Washington after conferring with the President. Inasmuch as Debs had defended himself at his trial, Daugherty said it was decided that he should come here to answer such inquiries as the Government desired to make.

The Attorney-General refused to comment on the present status of the case or to indicate what recommendations he might make in the matter of clemency. The Socialist leader is serving a 10-year sentence for violation of the espionage act.

Daugherty's Statement.

"In connection with the investigation of the Debs case," the Attorney-General said, in a formal statement, "and after conference with the President and with his approval, I had Debs come here for the purpose of making certain inquiries of him. He has returned to Atlanta. I have asked him to refrain from saying anything for publication or otherwise regarding the subject of inquiries made. I am sure no well-meaning person will urge him to discuss this matter or anything that took place on his journey or during his stay here. Debs presented his own case to the trial court and jury. He was permitted to do so here.

"The Debs case, as I have said before, stands alone. I could not, of course, go to him. What took place and the information I have acquired will be reported in due time only to the President and that in connection with any recommendation that may be made when the investigation is concluded. Debs came here without guard and so returned to Atlanta. Col. Guy D. Goff, assistant to the Attorney-General, was present during the inquiries.

Debs arrived in Washington early in the day, went to the Department of Justice about 9:45 o'clock, conferred with Daugherty and Guy D. Goff, assistant to the Attorney-General, from about 10:30 to 1:30 o'clock, and left Washington at 3:30 o'clock on the return trip to prison. His movements from the time he left Atlanta yesterday were kept strictly secret, except to a few officials of the Department of Justice.

COAST-TO-COAST FLYER INJURED IN FALL IN LOUISIANA

Lieut. W. D. Coney Strikes Tree When Attempting to Make Landing—Back Probably Broken.

By the Associated Press.

MONROE, La., March 25.—Lieut. W. D. Coney of the army air service, received probably fatal injuries today when his airplane struck a tree while he was attempting to make a landing near Crowville, La., on an attempted 24-hour flight from Jacksonville, Fla., to San Diego, Cal.

The landing was attempted after engine trouble had developed, and the plane fell about 75 feet. Lieut. Coney was flying over a swamp wilderness in Northeast Louisiana when the engine got into difficulties. His back is believed to have been broken.

The injured aviator was moved to Natchez, Miss., for hospital treatment this afternoon, being taken over swamp roads for a distance of 11 miles to the railroad at Winnsboro.

The officer was unconscious when found. He regained consciousness some time later, saying he had had engine trouble and was seeking a landing place when he smashed into the tree.

Lieut. Coney started at 1:40 o'clock this morning from Pablo Beach, near Jacksonville, Fla., in an effort to make a one-day, one-stop airplane flight from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, landing at San Diego, Cal. He was to make his only stop at Dallas, Tex.

Golf Ball Driven by Hyde Injures Hughes.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—A ball driven by Gov. Hyde in a golf match at the Country Club yesterday afternoon struck J. G. Hughes, State Bank Commissioner and chairman of the Republican State Committee, in the body and he was unconscious 20 minutes. E. P. Griffin, a St. Louis attorney, and Gov. Hyde hurried to the aid of the Bank Commissioner. Hughes was brought to the city, where a physician said he had not suffered any permanent injury. Hughes was at his office today.

C. OF C. REQUESTS THAT HYDE VETO 2 MEDICAL BILLS

Public Health Section of Chamber Reports That Many Hospitals Would Prefer to Close Doors.

The Chamber of Commerce today joined the effort to induce Gov. Hyde to veto two bills affecting medical licensure and education passed by the Legislature. President W. Frank Carter of the chamber sent the following telegram to the Governor:

"After conference with the leading physicians of St. Louis, I feel justified in asking you not to sign the bills on medical practice and education passed by the Legislature. I am convinced that in the form as passed they represent a step backward in medicine, education and licensure. If you care to have any number of leading medical men appear before you for a hearing, I will gladly arrange it."

Carter's action was based upon a recommendation of the public health section of the chamber, which stated that many hospitals would rather close their doors than submit to the bill which compels them to admit for treatment of patients any licensed physician of whatever school. The report on the section was:

"In each instance the bills represent a backward step in medicine, education and licensure.

Authority Taken From Board.

"By eliminating the term 'reputable' as applied to the medical colleges from the old law, the licensing board has no discretion and cannot refuse to admit to examination graduates of irresponsible and unfit medical institutions without inviting a suit; the practical effect will be that such applicants will be able to qualify, particularly as even the grading is subject to court review.

"Not only will unfit and unqualified practitioners who cannot practice in most of the other states swarm into the State, but proud Missouri will be the breeding grounds for hundreds of this type. Any three men can start a medical school, accept students for four years, establish a pseudo-hospital connection and graduate men whom the board must admit to examination, reviewable by the courts.

"Graduates from all the recognized schools in the State (both in St. Louis) can now practice in all of the states. They have re-established the good name of Missouri in medical education. To add a number of unfit schools would detract from the reputation which has been achieved.

Reciprocal Arrangements.

"The Missouri Board has established reciprocal arrangements with the boards of 26 States by which physicians licensed in Missouri can be admitted to practice in those States without examination. It is certain that these relations will be immediately discontinued if the bill becomes a law.

"The bill which permits all types of licensed practitioners to practice in all hospitals, State, municipal or private, strikes at the heart of hospital organization for the health of the people and nullifies all of the wonderful advance in this regard that has been made in the last quarter of a century. The directors of any hospital of standing would certainly prefer to close their doors rather than submit to the provisions of this bill.

"The time has come when the people, through their recognized agencies, must insist on a broad and an exacting qualification for everyone upon whom the State confers the right to practice the healing art. In no other way can there be assurance that those who guard the health of the people have the training, mentality and character to justify the confidence required."

Deans of St. Louis Schools of Medicine to Ask for Personal Hearing.

A statement of their intention to adhere to their original request for an opportunity to personally state to the Governor their interpretation of the effect of the bills upon public health was made today by Dr. Nathaniel Allison, dean of the Washington University School of Medicine, and Dr. Hanau W. Loeb, dean of the St. Louis University School of Medicine.

Gov. Hyde said to a correspondent for the Post-Dispatch yesterday that he would request the deans to submit their statement in writing. On Wednesday, the Governor had said he would receive them personally. Supporters of the bill in the Legislature now are urging the Governor to disregard the protests and sign the bills.

Dr. Allison and Dr. Loeb said they felt they could not anticipate the questions the Governor might find it necessary to ask for a thorough understanding of the bills and for that reason preferred to meet him on the bills. They will be accompanied to Jefferson City by men representing hospitals, public health organizations, educational institutions and the general public.

Dr. Ottofy Asks Hyde to Sign Bills.

Dr. L. M. Ottofy, an officer of the International Independent Medical Association, yesterday sent the following telegram to the Governor:

"As chairman of the Board of Governors of the International Independent Medical Association, the fellowship in which is open to and includes reputable practitioners from all medical schools and cults, I am authorized to petition you on behalf of the fellows of our association to sign Senate bills Nos. 342 and 433.

"The hospitals of St. Louis, fostered by a medical "clique" and run for pelf and profit and receiving moneys from the charitable public from "Saturday and Sunday Hospital collections" under false pretenses for the maintenance of free beds, which are never obtainable, should be compelled to pay taxes and be open to practitioners of all schools of medicine or cults, if said practitioners are recognized and authorized to practice in this city and State.

"The great State of Missouri, and St. Louis as its metropolis, should be greater than any medical 'clique,' association or organization; and on behalf of the Fellows of this association I respectfully urge your signature to above bills as an aid to the suffering and to permit patients to receive at any hospital whatever treatment they may desire; which will also place all reputable practitioners on an equal basis.

"Only mountebanks, those seeking personal aggrandizement, and incompetents, who are afraid to compete with a treatment more curative than their own in medicine, can and will oppose the open door to other recognized practitioners and confreres in the profession. I also add my personal indorsement to above bills as a medical practitioner in this city for 33 years.

Indorses Measures.

Dr. G. C. McCormack, an alumnus of the College of Physicians and Surgeons of St. Louis, whose graduates are not now accepted for examination by the Board of Health, but whom the board would be compelled to accept by the new bill, gave the following statement yesterday:

"There has been a long and pronounced fight on independent medical colleges throughout the country. Certain interests want to impound the medical science in certain universities and with this object in view have fought to discredit all independent schools. A success of this move will mean that the intelligent young man of modest means will have to stick to the counter or the plow. His possibilities of lifting himself out of an employe's shoes to a position of distinction as a physician will be remote."

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 25.—The Committees on Education, Hospitals and Public Health of the Jackson County Medical Society, at a joint meeting yesterday decided to join the St. Louis Medical Society in a protest to Gov. Hyde against the signing of two bills passed by the Legislature. One of the measures would throw down the bars of the hospitals and permit any physician to practice there, and the other would take from the State Board of Health the power to decide what medical schools are "reputable." a meeting of the committees and the lay heads of local hospitals will be held tomorrow afternoon to discuss the sending of a delegation early next week to Jefferson City to urge the Governor to veto the two bills. A delegation probably will be sent at the same time by the St. Louis Medical Society, which also has entered a strong protest against the measures.

If the bills are signed, Kansas City physicians say conditions in this State will be the same as 21 years ago, when the small, poorly equipped medical schools thrived and the educational standards were so lax that the "quacks" and the "specialists" practiced with impunity.

The committees of the Jackson County Medical Society also approved a statement issued early this week by the St. Louis physicians in protest of these bills.

TAFT CALLS AT WHITE HOUSE

Former President Has Short Talk With President Harding.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Former President Taft, in Washington on personal business, looked in at his old offices at the White House today and paid his respects to President Harding.

The former President came to the capital to deliver a lecture, and said his call on Mr. Harding was merely a visit of courtesy. His appearance revived speculation about his possible appointment to the Supreme Court bench, but if that subject was mentioned in his short talk with the President it was not made known.

OPPOSES OUTSIDE WORK BY COURT STENOGRAPHERS

Attorney in Report to Judge Grimm Recommends That Practice Be Discontinued.

Charles F. Krone, an attorney, in making a report to Judge Grimm today on a case in which he was appointed commissioner to take depositions, recommended that the practice of permitting court stenographers to do outside work should be discontinued.

In the case in which he acted as Commissioner, he said, influence was brought to bear to induce him to appoint a court stenographer to report the case, and when he failed to do so this stenographer was employed by one of the lawyers in the case to make a record of the proceedings.

Krone, in his report, said outside work by court stenographers tended to make them neglect their court work, and might put them under obligations to certain lawyers to the detriment of their fidelity and accuracy in reporting cases in court in which those lawyers were interested. Judge Grimm took no action on the report.

Court stenographers are appointed by the Judges of courts in which they serve. There is no law against doing ouaside work. The stenographers receive $250 a month salary and 45 cents a page for transcripts, the total emolument being about $6000 a year.

NEITHER STILLMAN NOR WIFE LIKELY TO GET A DIVORCE

Both Said to Recognize Improbability of Getting Decree—Parentage of Guy Principal Issue.

RIGHT TO $2,500,000 INHERITANCE INVOLVED

Mrs. Stillman, in Amended Answer, Denies All Charges as to Behavior With Guide.

NEW YORK, March 25.—With the submission to Justice Morschauser in the Supreme Court in White Plains last Wednesday of the alimony motion of Mrs. James A. Stillman, it can be stated that the matrimonial litigation between the president of the National City Bank and his wife has taken on an entirely new character.

Stillman, it is said by persons authorized to speak for him, recognizes the improbability of his success in an action for divorce. Mrs. Stillman also, it is said, has little expectation of obtaining a decree of divorce. In the view of a court of equity, which must finally adjudicate on the divorce suit, neither husband nor wife, if the charges against each are true, can come into court "with clean hands."

But the banker, his friends say, will be quite satisfied with such an outcome in so far as his marital relations are concerned. The one thing that his fight is now centered on, and the one thing which has inspired him since the action was begun last June, is to prevent the child, Guy, born to Mrs. Stillman November 7, 1918, from inheriting any part of the trust estate left by James Stillman, father of the present litigant and founder, for all practical purposes, of the National City Bank as it is today.

Chief Point at Issue.

If Guy should be acknowledged by the court as a son of Stillman he will inherit something less than $2,500,000 when his father dies. If the court should determine that he is not Stillman's son, the shares of the other children, Anne, James Jr. and Alexander, will be proportionately increased. From this point of view, therefore, the litigation takes on an entirely new aspect and presents for the determination of the Supreme Court of this State one of the most interesting questions ever offered, especially in view of the prominence of the family and the amount of money involved.

The amended answer of Mrs. Stillman alleged that her husband has spent more than $500,000 on Mrs. Leeds.

Refers to Charges.

Referring to the charges of Stillman relating to alleged indiscretions with Fred Beauvais, an Indian guide in Canada, Mrs. Stillman's answer recited:

"I have read the statements of those witnesses as to occurrences in Canada. I repeat the denial here, and solemnly deny under oath each and every one of the said statements made by these witnesses before the referee as to my behavior with a certain corespondent named by the said witnesses.

"I also wish to add that it is my intention seriously to contest on the trial of the allegations contained in the plaintiff's complaints as to any adultery alleged to have been committed by me with anybody at any time."

Counsel for Mrs. Stillman intimated that a letter, alleged to be couched in affectionate phrases, which Stillmann wrote to his wife in 1919, will form part of the evidence in the case. The banker's attorneys let it be known that a letter, alleged to have been written by Mrs. Stillman to her husband in the spring of 1918 in which the name of Beauvais is mentioned, forms the basis for some of the allegations made in their complaint.

Stillman Files Affidavits.

When the arguments on the alimony motion were ended Wednesday, counsel for Stillman submitted affidavits which contain copies of letters which it is alleged passed between Mrs. Stillman and Beauvais. There are five or six letters said to have been written by Beauvais to Mrs. Stillman and intercepted before they reached her. These letters, it is reported, contain expressions of affection and endearing terms, references to "our boy, Guy," and remarks concerning the responsibility of the "sense of parenthood which united us."

All these letters, or copies of them, are now in the possession of Justice Morschauser, and until his decision on the alimony motion is handed down they cannot be made public in full. But from Stillman's side of the litigation, it is averred, they are sufficient, in his opinion, to justify him in taking every step possible to prevent Guy from inheriting any share of the Stillman estate.

There is no specific demand by Mrs. Stillman for a decree of divorce, but she does ask that her husband's prayer for a judgment of divorce be denied and that she be granted "such other and further relief" as may seem just and proper to the Court. Under such a prayer she could obtain a decree in her favor if the Court determined that she was entitled to a divorce.

Complaint and Answer.

There are 11 paragraphs in Stillman's complaint, and in the amended answer there are 11 replying paragraphs, outside of the separate defense. Mrs. Stillman admits her marriage and the birth of the various children and categorically affirms that Guy Stillman is one of the lawful issue of the marriage.

It is now known that at the one hearing in the divorce case, before Daniel J. Gleason, Surrogate of Dutchess County, as referee, six witnesses were examined—five men and one woman. Stillman was examined on the same occasion to prove his marriage.

The banker was asked to name his children and named only three—Anne, James Jr. and Alexander. When a question was put to him concerning the fourth child, Guy. John E. Mack, who is guardian ad litem for Guy, objected on the ground that no answer by Stillman concerning the paternity of the child could be admissible and the objection was sustained.

French Canadians Testify.

The French Canadian witnesses who were examined before Referee Gleason told of observations they had made of the friendly relations of Mrs. Stillman and Beauvais. One man told of climbing a ladder and peeping through a window of a boarding house; his wife, a Mrs. Pontaine, gave other details of life at the Stillman camp when Stillman was away.

These witnesess could not speak English and an interpreter was necessary. Their testimony, it is said, was deemed almost sufficient by Stillman's attorneys to establish cause for a divorce, but there was nothing introduced to bear upon the paternity of the boy, Guy, under the referee's rulings.

It was after this testimony had been taken that Mrs. Stillman began to take a most active part in her own defense, it is said.

GEORGIA FARMER ACCUSED OF MURDERING 11 NEGROES

By the Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 25.—A statement that he had "knocked four negroes in the head with an ax in one week and buried them in a pasture" on the Williams plantation in Jasper County was contained in a confession said by officers to have been obtained from Clyde Manning, a negro, held as a material witness in connection with murder charges against John Williams, white, owner of the plantation.

Manning was sadi previously to have confessed that 11 negroes, held in peonage on the Williams place, had been killed. Three negroes' bodies, weighted with rocks, recently were recovered from the river.

Supplementing his earlier confession, the officers said today Manning had declared large numbers of negroes were held under guard on the Williams plantation. He explained, they said, that it had been necessary to kill the four he knocked in the head, in order to escape with his own life.

Another negro witness named Freeman declared he knew nothing of the cases except that "them negroes disappeared; but I didn't help do it," the officers said.

Williams was indicted by the Newton County grand jury at Covington, Ga., yesterday, charged with murder in connection with the deaths of the three negroes, recently found in a river.

The negroes, who it is alleged, had been held in peonage on the Williams plantation, had threatened to inform the authorities of their conditions, according to Deputy Johnson's version of the confession which he attributed to Manning.

The bodies of three negroes were found recently weighted down with rocks in Yellow River, Newton County, and Manning's alleged confession stated that six negroes in all had been weighted down and thrown into the river and five others killed in other ways and their bodies buried.

The grand jury investigation at Covington is expected to be continued and meanwhile Williams and the two negroes are being held without bail. The negroes were held as material witnesses.

erted undue influence over Lampert, and she replied that Mrs. Graff carried tales and repeated to him arguments and discussions which arose in the family. She said she could not give details as she could not concentrate her mind on the subject. She said that she had a memorandum at home, but admitted, in reply to a question, that it had been compiled since she and the other petitioners had decided to contest the will.

"Why can't you concentrate?" she was asked.

"Because I am nervous," she replied.

"Can you concentrate tomorrow?"

"If I am allowed to bring my memorandum."

Memorandum Ruled Out.

Judge Sale ruled that the memorandum would not be permissible for the purpose of refreshing the witness' memory, as the entries were not made at the time of the incidents to which they referred.

The witness admitted, when asked, that she had not witnessed the ceremonies when Lampert was installed as the Missouri Grand Master of the Masonic order and when he was promoted to the thirty-third degree. She also said that it was true that Lampert had never taken her or any of the other petitioners on any of his frequent trips to other cities, although he had taken Mrs. Graff's daughter, Esther, on many of them.

She said that when he was sick she visited him, but she admitted, in response to a question, that she did not send him any flowers.

She also admitted that after her mother's death she had never gone to Lampert's cigar factory to pay her respects to him, but she added that she always treated him the same as she did her other uncles.

SCHOOL TAX CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE PRESENTS ARGUMENTS FOR INCREASE

Pamphlet on "The School Question" Includes Questions Relating to Proposed 85-Cent Tax, and Answers.

"Ten cents more, and progress, or 15 cents less and calamity."

This is the motto which appears on a campaign pamphlet, "The School Question," issued by the Citizens' School Tax Campaign Committee, with the approval of the Board of Education. The pamphlet relates to the issue to be determined in the special school tax election, to be held April 8.

"1. Why another special school tax increase election?

"Because the State Constitution limits the rate for school purposes to 60 cents on the $100, unless at a special election held for the purpose, a majority of the taxpayers voting at such election, annually agree to a higher levy up to a maximum of $1.

"In November, 1919, such an election approved a levy of 75 cents. This tax was collected on Jan. 1. 1921. The present proposal is for a levy of 85 cents. If approved on April 8 the taxes resulting therefrom will be collected Jan. 1. 1922.

supplied by the taxes to catch up in the building program, and then it must continue to be supplied to keep up with the steady increase of children.

"(f) Buildings that have been abandoned for years either because of being declared unfit for use, or because neighborhoods thinned out, are now being opened and put into partial repair, at great cost because of their unfitness; they will take up some of the congestion that is now pressing east of Grand avenue.

"(g) Unless St. Louis supplies the money for the additional school needs, she has no right to invite into the new industrial districts any industries whose hordes of skilled workers will demand fair treatment for their children.

"Industrial growth in St. Louis must stop if school funds are reduced.

Effect of Failure of Increase.

4. If the increase to 85 cents fails to pass, what will be the result?

"(a) The rate will drop back to 60 cents on the $100. There will be

EMIL N. TOLKACZ JOINS COMMITTEE BACKING BYRNES

BYRNES STANDS ON ECONOMY ISSUE

Candidate for Mayor Asserts Contest Is Between a Business Man and a Machine-Made Politician.

Emil N. Tolkacz, a Republican, who was the first Director of Public Welfare appointed by Mayor Kiel under the present charter, and who was chairman of the Burkham-for-Mayor Campaign Committee, has enrolled as a member of the Byrnes-for-Mayor Non-Partisan Committee.

In a letter to Chairman Lambert of the committee, Tolkacz said: "No party principle is involved; only better, cleaner government for our city."

James W. Byrnes, Democratic candidate for Mayor, today said that he would refuse to be budged from the main issue of the mayorality election, the issue of economical business administration vs. a machine-made political administration, "by any soap box orator with a loud voice and a pin head." He said this when asked for an expression on the reference as "an ass," made to him last night by Senator H. W. Blodgett in a political meeting.

"It's a bright day," Byrnes said. "Politically, it's a beautiful day. The days are getting better every day. I thought at first this was going to be a close race. This morning I think it will be a landslide. I have been unable to do a lot of things that seemed very important, because so many Republicans want to see me and vote for me.

"Watch the taxpayers in the Fifteenth Ward (Mayor's Kiel's ward). Everyone I have seen down there is talking about the Mill Creek sewer. It was a little expensive to me on Locust street, where I have my business, and on West Pine, where I have my residence. I see they feel the same as I, and are going to register on election day. They are not standing at their front doors talking about it, either. Remember one thing, Mr. Voter, you must always deal in facts and tax bills tell the story."

Discusses Blodgett's Speech.

Concerning Senator Blodgett's speech, Byrnes said:

"There is nothing to be gained by misstatement, calumny and abuse. When a man resorts to abuse, he knows he is licked. Isn't it curious that we both came to the same conclusion on the same beautiful day? Let's talk business and put out a few constructive ideas for the benefit of the city. The taxpayers are not interested in hearing abuse of newspapers and individuals."

The membership of the Non-Partisan Women's Committee, of which Mrs. J. W. Bray is chairman, has been announced. The vice-chairmen are Miss Alberta Allen, Mrs. Geo. Dock, Mrs. C. B. Faris, Mrs. Fred D. Gardner, Mrs. J. P. Higgins, Mrs. Geo. Levis, Mrs. Jos. W. Lewis, Mrs. R. E. Oldfather and Miss Fannie D. Robb.

Advisory Committee Members.

The members of the Advisory Committee are Mrs. George Moore, Mrs. E. W. La Beaume, Mrs. H. T. Force, Mrs. W. L. Kline, Mrs. L. L. Renfrow, Mrs. W. R. Blume, Mrs. Maurice Murray, Mrs. J. A. dustrial areas in a general strike the Government will be able to cope with the rioting prevailing in Eisleben, Mansfield, Hettstedt and Leunea.

The local communist organization thus far have not been given open support by the national communist leaders, most of whom are away from Berlin or are in seclusion here.

The majority of the independent Socialists and the independent labor unions continue their vigorous condemnation of the present communist revolt, warning organized labor against giving the communists moral or physical support.

The gas and waterworks in Halle are tied up, although the other municipal plants voted against striking. The communists also are making an effort to shut down the Goethen power plant near Bitterfeld, which supplies a large section of Berlin with current.

Advices from Halle state that the communists there are well equipped with arms and that the workers in the big Leuna nitrogen plant have 6000 rifles.

The present outbreak revealed the hiding place of communist arms, which had been stored away in deserted shafts in the Mansfield mining districts. Most of the rifles discovered are reported to be brand-new.

LABOR CONDEMNS ASSAULT CHARGED TO UNION MEMBERS

East St. Louis Organizations Say Attack on Master Plumber Was Act of Individuals, Not Body.

SIX ACCUSED OF ACT NOW IN JAIL

Resolution Adopted Because Public Censure Held Organized Labor Responsible, Official Says.

The Central Trades and Labor Union of East St. Louis yesterday adopted resolutions condemning the assault made upon Michael J. Kickham, a master plumber and steamfitter, March 10, while he and four helpers were installing heating apparatus in a Collinsville avenue business house.

Six men, charged with having committed the assault, are in jail at Belleville, awaiting the action of the grand jury, being unable to furnish bond in the sum of $30,000 each. They are members of either the steamfitters' or plumbers' union, it is alleged.

The resolution was adopted after President Thomas E. Duffy spoke of the assault and said that public condemnation of the assault held organized labor as responsible. He said: "Every good union man deplores the assault in the extreme, but there is no use to lay at the door of organized labor acts committed by individuals. The police have arrested men, members of union labor bodies, and they are being held under absolutely prohibitive bonds, charged with the offense. I don't admit these men are the persons who assaulted Kickham, but if the charges against them are proven, I feel they should be given the full extent of the law."

The resolutions characterized the assault as a dastardly act, which all law-abiding citizens should condemn. Rumors and inferences, the resolutions state, linked organized labor with the assault as instigating and upholding such acts. The resolutions state that the Central Trades and Labor Union, the bona fide head of organized labor in East St. Louis, condemns such acts of lawlessness, and disclaims any connection with the instigation or performance of the assault or any other breach of the law.

Kickham was unconscious several days, and for a time his recovery was not expected. Yesterday he showed marked improvement.

Steamfitters went out on a strike March 9 in sympathy with the plumbers who had been locked out by the master plumbers because of differences. Kickham engaged four men to help him complete a job which he had under way, and eight men, armed with pieces of gas pipe, assaulted him.

HOME. SEARCHED WITHOUT WARRANT; MAN DISCHARGED

Woman Associate Prosecuting Attorney Enters Nolle Prosequi in Case of Raid Under State Dry Law.

A precedent requiring policemen in their raids on private residences for stills and intoxicating liquors to carry search warrants was set today when Miss Lena Frank, Associate Prosecuting Attorney, upon hearing the evidence in a liquor case in the Court of Criminal Correction, informed Provisional Judge Grodzski she would enter a nolle prosequi in the case. Thereupon the defendant, Frank Bosco, of 4220 Laclede avenue, was discharged.

Testimony showed that the patrolmen had obtained entrance to Bosco's home without a warrant. This is the first time since the State "bone-dry" act went into effect, last November, that any inquiry has been made into the methods used by the police in obtaining evidence. Federal courts have required that search warrants be used by Federal agents making raids.

Bosco was arrested following a raid by four patrolmen of the Eleventh District on March 8 and charged with manufacturing intoxicating liquor. Testimony today disclosed that the policemen had made the raid following the receipt of an anonymous letter. At the time of the raid they found Bosco's wife at the house. They asked her where the entrance to the cellar was and were directed to it. With their own keys they opened a compartment in the rear of the cellar, where they found a quantity of raisin mash and wine and whisky.

When the policemen stated in court that they had had no search warrant, Miss Frank informed the Court she would nolle prosse the case under the section of the "bone-dry" act dealing with search and seizure.

FRANCIS' ARREST MAY EXPOSE BOOTLEGGING ON LARGE SCALE

Federal Building, but was released.

The released driver was Frederick Grass, son of Emil Grass of 927 Withnell avenue, proprietor of the Emil Grass Express Co., 7 South Fourth street. Emil Grass today said a small dark man called at his office yesterday morning and presented orders on the American Railway Express Co. for two trunks and asked that Grass get them. He said his son, Frederick, went to the American Railway Express Co. office and returned to the Grass office and waited there 30 minutes before receiving instructions over the telephone to deliver them at 310 North Newstead avenue. Both Emil Grass and his son said they did not know what the trunks contained and did not know the two men arrested with Francis.

Francis was taken to the Federal Building with Rothschild and Buckey about 10 o'clock in the morning. He was held in the office of Prohibition Enforcement Agent Jacques until noon, when he went to the office of Internal Revenue Collector Moore on the second floor of the building, where he was joined by his brother, J. D. Perry Francis, and his attorney, Charles M. Polk.

The identity of Talton T. Francis was not known until about 3:20 p. m. when the warrant was filed in the Marshal's office. Francis' bond was signed by J. D. Perry Francis and the other prisoners also were released on bond given by other sureties, the bonds in each case being $1000. Preliminary hearings were set for April 28.

Broken Bottle Revealed Contents.

Jacques received a telegram last Monday that two trunks containing whisky, packed in Canada, were on their way to St. Louis, consigned to A. Miller, through the American Railway Express Co. The nature of contents of one of the trunks had been discovered in an express office in Baltimore when one of the bottles broke and whisky leaked from the trunk. This left 59 full bottles and a broken bottle, which tallies exactly with the contents of the trunks seized here when Francis was arrested yesterday.

Jacques notified the local office of the American Railway Express Co., at Ninth and Locust streets, that the trunks were on the way and asked that they be not turned over to any claimant until he had been notified of their arrival at the express office. The trunks arrived Wednesday, and a short time later two men called for them. Jacques was notified and the men were told to call for the trunks yesterday.

Shortly after 8 a. m. yesterday a truck bearing the name of the Emil Grass Express Co. drove up and the trunks were loaded on it. The truck, with the officers trailing it, drove east to Fourth street and south to Market, where it turned west and from that point it was trailed to the place where the arrests were made.

OFFICER KILLED IN IRELAND WAS BROTHER OF SIR WILFRID PEEK

By the Associated Press.

BELFAST, March 25.—The officer killed in the fight Wednesday between a detachment of Lancers and Sinn Feiners, between Stokestown and Longford, was Capt. R. G. Peek, a brother of Sir Wilfrid Peek, whose death in this engagement was originally reported yesterday.

Sir Wilfrid was a Captain of the Royal First Devon Yeomanry and distinguished himself in the European war. His wife was Miss Edwine W. Thornburgh of St. Louis, Mo., and the first announcement that he had been killed caused general expressions of regret.

The foregoing dispatch, similar to one received last night by the St. Louis relatives of Lady Peek, confirmed their doubts expressed yesterday that Sir Wilfrid nad been killed. As told in yesterday's Post-Dispatch, Mrs. John H. Holliday, 20 North King's highway, a sister of Lady Peek, pointed out that Sir Wilfrid was not in the service, whereas his brother, Capt. R. Grenville Peek, was an officer of the Lancers. It was believed that the original dispatch referred to the brother.

This proved to be the case. Capt. Grenville Peek was about 32 years old, and was Sir Wilfrid's younger brother. He was married, and is survived by two small children, Mrs. Holliday said. He was in the army before the war.

ALDERMANIC CANDIDATE QUITS

Democratic Nominee for First Ward Withdraws.

John M. Simons of 8451 Lowell street, a tailor, notified the Election Board today that he wished to withdraw his name as Democratic candidate for the Board of Aldermen from the First Ward. Simons is 42 years old and an Englishman, who has lived in the United States 14 years.

The Democratic City Committee will have until tonight to file the name of a new candidate in Simons' place. He was nominated in the primary March 11 without opposition.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST UPRISINGS IN IRELAND

Crown Forces Posted in the Important Public Buildings for Easter.

By the Associated Press.

DUBLIN, March 25.—Detailed military precautions have been taken against a possible Easter outbreak. Crown forces have been posted in the important public buildings, but officially, no trouble is looked for.

Similar precautions were taken last year, but instead of an armed insurrection simultaneous raids occurred over Ireland on income tax offices and police barracks. This year the curfew is expected to check such activities.

Six Years for Alleged Leader of Sinn Fein Flying Column.

By the Associated Press.

BELFAST, March 25.—A court-martial yesterday sentenced Dr. Patrick MacCarville of Monaghan to six years servitude. He was charged with operating with a Sinn Fein flying column.

Louis Barcy, a fugitive since the discovery of explosives and dum-dum bullets in his home last October, and believed to have been the leader of the Kilroe ambush in January, was arrested at Oranmore, Galway. He was shot dead while trying to escape from a car in which he was being taken to jail.

Sinn Feiners invaded the railroad station at Glarryford, County Antrim, this morning, seized the telegraph and telephone instruments and cut the wires leading from the place. A wide district has been cut off from communication. Signal cabins were burned at Dunloy, and a large railroad warehouse at Antrim Glens was destroyed. Four freight cars standing beside the warehouse were also burned.

had found St. Louis regarded as a progressive city, and had heard Mayor Kiel praised.

Miss Olivia Brueggeman, chairman of the Women's Advisory Committee of the Kiel campaign, spoke of the proposed Girls' Industrial Farm. "Women must learn to be good losers in politics," she said. She repeated the remark of Blodgett as to Mrs. Bray, saying that Blodgett had said just what she intended to say.

Kiel Refers to Street Conditions.

Kiel declared that he was "the Republican candidate, and proud of it." He said the Free Bridge must be kept free, and more streets widened. He said photographs of "shell-holes" in Page boulevard had been shown as exhibits against him, but that the city had offered to contribute $10,000 toward the reconstruction of the street, but that the property owners had been unwilling to undertake the task, even with this help. As to other streets, he said:

"War conditions held up work for two years. Since that, we had the delay caused by the prevailing wage bill, which has now been settled by agreement. In the meantime, trucks carrying 10 and 12 ton loads have come into use on our streets. We can't build streets with six-inch bases any more. The new problem is a big one, but in three or four months people will begin to see a big improvement." The Mayor also spoke of extending electric street lighting to all sections of the city.

WIFE OF W. C. CABANNE, MOVIE DIRECTOR, OBTAINS DIVORCE

Had Charged He Was Attentive to Woman in His Home and Fed Her From Own Plate.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 25.—William Christy Cabanne, moving picture director and member of a pioneer St. Louis family, charged by his wife with having made love to another woman under the family roof, appeared yesterday in Judge Wood's court to present his side of his martial difficulties with Vivian Cabanne. Cabanne originally allowed the divorce action to go by default but the Court refused to allow the plaintiff the decree until her husband should appear and explain why he had promised her a large property settlement in case she should obtain the divorce. The decree was granted.

At the hearing of the suit Mrs. Cabanne testified that her husband entertained Millicent Fisher in their home and that he was so attentive to her that he fed her from his own plate and called her "Mill, Dear."

"My husband and Miss Fisher would remain up for hours after I had gone to bed," she said. "They said they were rehearsing for a picture." She explained that Cabanne told her that Miss Fisher was merely a "student" of his.

The property agreement provides that Cabanne is to make regular payments of $200 a week for her support and in addition was to purchase a home for her and make her a remittance of $5000 when the decree was granted. Fifteen per cent of royalties from future pictures was also to be turned over to Mrs. Cabanne.

Hofmann Funeral Tomorrow.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon for Ernest G. Hofmann, 83 years old, president of the Hofmann Brothers Produce Co., who died at his home, 3641 Cleveland avenue, at 8 o'clock last night, after a brief illness. He was born in Germany, Nov. 20, 1837, and came to the United States in 1848. He engaged in business in St. Louis in 1860. He is survived by five children and 10 grandchildren.

During 1920, the POST-DISPATCH printed 884,626 "WANT" Ads—219,612 more than the THREE other St. Louis newspapers COMBINED.

GIRL WANTED IN $1,000,000 MAIL HOLDUP TAKEN IN CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

TOLEDO, March 25.—Postoffice inspectors from the Toledo district went to Chicago today to bring back Wanda Urbaytis, wanted in connection with the mail robbery here of February 17 when more than $1,000,000 in cash and negotiable papers was taken in a holdup of three mail clerks.

The girl, according to the inspectors, had managed to elude pursuit since February 20, when she locked herself in a compartment of a train going to Chicago and foiled officers at Elkhart, Ind., where her brother, Joe Urbaytis, and a companion, Joe Culbert, were captured. The Urbaytis girl was known to have carried a large traveling bag when she entered the train with Joe and Culbert at Union Station here. No trace of the bag was found on the train.

Wanda Urbaytis first attracted police attention here in 1917 when as a telephone operator at a local brewery she was accused of assisting her brothers in the robbery of the brewery's paymaster of several thousands of dollars. The indictment against her was quashed because of lack of evidence.

SLAYER SAYS LARRY M'LEAN HAD STARTED TO ATTACK HIM

Bartender Declares He Shot When Former Ballplayer Attempted to Climb Over Bar.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, March 25.—John B. P. (Larry) McLean, former major league catcher, was shot to death in a saloon yesterday. His companion, John F. McCarthy, is in a serious condition with a bullet in his stomach. John J. Connor, saloon manager, who fired the shots, is held without bail, charged with murder.

In a statement to the police Connor declared he fired in self-defense when McLean, six feet five inches tall, and weighing nearly 250 pounds, "started to climb the bar and attack" him. McCarthy was helping McLean over the counter when Connor reached for a pistol and fired, Connor said. McLean staggered out to the sidewalk where he fell.

Connor told the police he feared a repetition of "last night's occurrence" when, he said, Richard Kerins, an alternating bartender, was chased up and down the barroom by McLean and finally was "forced to leave his post to save himself from a beating."

McLean had been drinking, Connor said. The saloon manager said McLean had taken offense at him when he refused to give him some cigarettes and threatened to "beat him up."

McLean was married and lived here with his wife and mother. McCarthy also is married.

All Vehicles, Including Street Cars, Must Observe That Maximum Within 400 Feet of Schools.

The new ordinance forbidding motor vehicles, including trolley cars, to run more than 5 miles an hour within 400 feet of any school building, will go into effect Monday. It applies between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. on all days when the schools are in session.

As many of the public and parochial schools are located on street car lines, strict observance of the ordinance will tend to slow down street car schedules during school hours, which do not, however, include the early morning and late afternoon rush hours.

TIRES STOLEN FROM SIX CARS

Spares and Accessories Disappear From Autos Parked in Street.

Six owners of automobiles reported to the police last night their machines had been stripped of spare tires and other accessories while parked in the streets. Two men in an automobile were seen in two of the instances and are believed by the police to have committed most of the thefts.

The victims were Albert Heinrich, 5315 Delmar boulevard, two tires and rims when his machine was parked at 5829 Nina place, $205; Heorhe Hughes, 4358 Evans, Eighteenth and Sidney streets, tire and rim, $60; Abe Schwartzman, 5860 DeGiverville avenue, 18 North Seventh street, tire, rim and tail lamp, $42.50; Samuel Wisebart, 5628 Clemens avenue, Nineteenth and Chestnut streets, tire and rim, $60; Dr. Arthur Juengel, 1847 South Fourteenth street, Eighth street and Lafayette avenue, tools and tube, $26, and Edward F. Meyer, 4446 St. Louis avenue, front of home, chains and tools, $10.

SAYS IRISH WILL FIGHT TO END

Archbishop Mannix States Views of Struggle in Island.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, March 25.—Archbishop Mannix of Melbourne, Australia, who arrived here yesterday from England, declares he is convinced the Irish will "fight to the bitter end for complete independence." This statement has been made by the Archbishop to many high prelates, heads of congregations and chiefs of religious institutions who have called upon him since his arrival here.

Referring to the British Government's "hypocritical offers," the Archbishop said yesterday the Government had made a mistake in ignoring the power, wealth and influence of a larger Ireland abroad. He drew a parallel between Ireland and Canada, pointing out that Canada is autonomous, "although the antagonism between the Protestants and the French-Canadians is far stronger than that between Protestants and Catholics in Ireland."

Esperanto in French Schools.
Correspondence of the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 6.—Esperanto, the artificial, international language, has been ordered introduced as an elective course in the commercial schools controlled by the Paris Chamber of Commerce. The language was studied by a commission whose members reported favorably upon it after several tests. One test was the translation of three complicated documents into Esperanto and then translation of the Esperanto texts back into French. It was found there was no change in the sense.

GOVERNOR SIGNS 11 OF ADMINISTRATION BILLS

County Unit and Consolidation Measures Among Those Which Will Be Effective in June.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—Gov. Hyde this morning signed 11 of his most important administration measures, passed by the Legislature.

The bill abolishing the land reclamation department, is the only one carrying an emergency clause, which makes it effective at once. This will automatically throw Doc Bryden of Essex, the Democratic Land Reclamation Commissioner, out of a job. He is an editor. The other 10 bills, being without emergency clauses, will not become operative for 90 days.

The measures signed today abolish the offices of hotel inspector, held by Judge J. H. Dickbrader of Washington; coal oil inspector, Omar D. Gray of Sturgeon, and beverage inspector, held by Thomas Speed Mosby of Jefferson City.

Among the important bills signed are the budget bill, another creating a department of public welfare, the agricultural consolidation bill, county unit school bill and the bill consolidating the eleemosynary institutions.

The budget bill is the most significant measure enacted by the Legislature from a political standpoint, according to the Democrats. It gives the commissioner of budget supervision over all building and repair work done by the State, and authorizes the commissioner to make all purchases by the State.

The Commissioner of Budget has power to make contracts or to cancel them, which, Democrats say, will enable the party in power to raise campaign funds.

W. R. Hollister, former executive secretary of the Democratic National Committee, charged today that the budget bill was intended to make the collection of campaign funds easy for Republicans.

"Every man or woman holding a contract with the State, whether for vegetables or building steel, will be compelled to contribute to the Republican party," Hollister said.

The Board of Public Welfare takes over the duties of the Food and Drug Commissioner and the hotel and coal oil inspections. The eleemosynary bill consolidates the Fulton, St. Joseph, Nevada and Farmington insane asylums, and the Mount Vernon sanatorium for tuberculosis and the colony for feebleminded at Marshall.

The county unit school bill substitutes a single board of education for the many boards now existing in the various counties.

The Governor also signed five joint and concurrent resolutions, which will be submitted to the voters as amendments to the Constitution at the 1922 general election. The resoltuions are: Authorizing the State to pay interest on the $60,000,000 road fund out of the automobile license tax; providing a bonus of $10 for each month of service for soldiers, sailors and marines who served in the world war, with a maximum of 25 months; giving women the right to hold political office; increasing the salaries of the members of the Legislature from $5 to $10 a day and increasing the regular session of the assembly from 70 to 100 days.

ECZEMA

Chin-Cea Blood

When people suffer from Eczema it signifies a tainted, vitiated blood, due to mal-assimilation and weak elimination of certain poisons and waste. Salves and washes help allay the distress, but a thorough course of alterative Blood Treatment is the only logical way to banish Eczema, Rheumatism, Boils, Pimples, Old Sores, Ulcers and the like. Nature provides plant vitamines which act on the blood and glands of the body and bring about gradual changes of the blood and flesh by a thorough process of elimination. Thus elixir Chin Cea purifies the tainted blood, without resort to mercury or potash mixtures, which often do more harm than good. Dr. Lewis Baker, who has prescribed it for years, asserts that it may be taken with benefit indefinitely, being purely a vegetable alterative. Sold by Wolff-Wilson, Judge & Dolph and all good druggists.

EASTER DRESS PARADE WILL BE A BRILLIANT ONE

Every one recognizes Easter Sunday as the day on which to wear their new spring attire and the parks and boulevards will be thronged with people.

Many people also deem it essential to dress up their homes for Easter. A beautifully furnished home may be dull and uninteresting for the lack of pretty lamps with colorful shades to be had in parchment, silk, mica or leather decorated.

The Prufrock - Litton Furniture Company at Fourth and St. Charles streets are offering their entire immense stock of exquisite lamps at one-half off this week.

MAN AWAITING CAR AT 12:30 A. M. IS HELD UP

Webster Groves Resident Forced to Walk Block Away From Corner, Robbed of $2.

Three men at 3 a. m. today overpowered the watchman at the Texas Oil Co. supply station, Gratiot street and Frisco tracks, in Shrewsbury, and robbed the company safe of about $300. The watchman, Albert Ray, 50 years old, of 7027 Winona avenue, Lindenwood, was passing a pile of oil barrels when the men rushed out, took his revolver and bound him hand and foot with a leather strap.

One man was left to guard the watchman while the others went to the office, forced the door and used an explosive on the safe after knocking off the combination. When the men returned to where they had left the watchman they released him and told him to be on his way.

Man Waiting for Car Robbed of $2 and His Watch.

Eugene M. Russell of 2800 Maple avenue, Webster Groves, was waiting for an owl car at Manchester avenue and King's highway at 12:15 a. m. today, when two men with revolvers accosted him and told him to walk north. He protested that he might miss his car, but they insisted and led him a block away, where they robbed him of $2 and his watch. Instead of allowing him to return to the corner, they made him continue north for some distance before he turned around and discovered they were gone.

David Winter, 2625 Locust street, was held up by two armed negroes in front of 2221 Locust street at 11 p. m. He called for help as they started to search his pockets and they fled, dropping his watch on the sidewalk.

Two men entered a Kroger grocery at 4376 Cote Brilliante avenue at 4:30 p. m. and warned the manager, Tillman Story, of 4753A Northland avenue, not to raise an outcry. A negro customer was warned also. The robbers took $40 from the cash register and ran out, escaping in an automobile.

Purse snatchers robbed Miss Dorothy Miller of 1109A Chouteau avenue and Miss Emma Hohen, 4566 Fair avenue, last night. Miss Miller lost a purse containing $16 near Fifteenth and Biddle streets, and Miss Hohen a purse with $1 near Sixth and Biddle streets.

Miss M. Shapiro of 5338 Enright avenue, owner of a shop in the Arcade Building, last night asked detectives to investigate the disappearance of an Easter hat of brown and yellow trimmings valued at $125 and a box of plumes valued at $100 from the shop, yesterday afternoon.

Jacob Secher, proprietor of a tailoring establishment at 4037 Easton avenue, turned over to the police yesterday two checks, one for $87 and the other for $10, both marked "no such account," which he reported had been given him by a man who had two suits made at his place, explaining one was for himself and the other was for his "twin brother." He paid for his own suit with the $87 check and gave the $10 check as a deposit on the "brother's suit."

War Building Opened to Public.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Further evidence that the present administration is inclined to regard the war as of the historic past was afforded when the Superintendent of the State, War and Navy Building yesterday removed from the main entrance the sign "no visitors allowed" and substituted one giving the hours when the doors are open to the public. Throughout the day tourists wandered about the corridors of the building which had been closed to sightseers since the day the United States joined in the war against Germany.

20,000 FAMINE DEATHS IN ONE COUNTY IN CHINA

Average of 1000 Deaths Daily in 22 Counties in Province of Honan.

By the Associated Press.

PEKING, March 25.—Famine, which holds the Provinces of Honan, Shensi and Chihli in its sinister grasp, is reaping a dreadful harvest, according to reports received at the headquarters of the International Relief Organization, in this city. In 22 counties of Honan, the average daily death rate on March 15 was 1000, while deaths from famine in the six northern counties of the province averaged 300 daily.

Sixteen counties in Shensi covered by relief committees, have suffered terribly, it is showns by reports, the most serious phase of the scourge being found, apparently near Fuping, a small town northeast of Sian-Fu, capital of the province. In the 16 counties there have been 50,600 deaths from starvation since the beginning of the famine, 20,000 of these deaths occurring in Fuping County. The county ranking next to Fuping in the number of deaths is Ankang, with 8000. The others range from 3000 downward.

Penumonic Plague Averted.

Pneumonic plague recently appeared in 20 villages along the border between the Provinces of Chihli and Shantung, 108 persons dying from the malady, the epidemic was brought under control by stopping all traffic through infested areas and the isolation of all persons who had been stricken.

There was a small outbreak in Shantung, but the same strict measures were instituted in four villages where the disease appeared, and the plague averted.

In some counties in Honan there was a dangerous condition arising from an outbreak of typhus, 20 cases being reported daily. Medical authorities there, however, have conditions under control.

Money for Relief.

Funds amounting to 3,250,000 gold taels (normally $4,500,000), including 1,000,000 taels from the American Red Cross, have been apportioned to all famine districts by the Advisory Committee of all working organizations in the stricken regions. This committee is informed the American committee for the China relief fund, headed by Thomas W. Lamont, is doing its utmost to provide food for 6,000,000 persons and assertion is made that there are 3,000,000 more destitute, not counting those requiring economic assistance in resuming their normal pursuits.

It is estimated by the Advisory Committee that 4,000,000 gold taels will be required to carry on the work of feeding the starving people, although this amount might be cut to 1,500,000 taels if corn should arrive from America by the last of April. A campaign for raising famine funds in China, which has been going on for the past month, has netted 140,000 gold taels.

The American Red Cross is feeding 150,000 persons, employing them to work on the roads.

A five-story building devoted to custom tailoring

If you went through our building of five floors you would understand why we are not in the office building section of downtown.

But our location is not inconvenient — on Sixth street, about two minutes' walk north of Washington avenue.

A five-story building devoted exclusively to custom tailoring is unusual. It is very likely indeed that an unusual building is but the result of unusual tailoring.

STATE GIVEN FEDERAL AID FOR 498 MILES OF ROADS

Highway Department Has Contracts Aggregating $7,500,000 Now Active.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—There is under contract for construction a total of 438 miles of roads in the State on which Federal aid is being received, according to figures compiled this week by the State Highway Department. The total mileage represents contracts aggregating $7,500,000. To date, 112 miles of the 438 have been completed.

The department has completed the construction of 791 miles of roads since it was created in 1917, a part of the mileage being completed under the 1917 laws which provided for State aid only. There have been approved by the department, to date, 234 projects from 104 counties for a total of 1850 miles at an estimated cost of $19,864,000, the department reports.

Of the 234 projects, 75 have received final approval by the Bureau of Public Roads, involving $4,745,768 of Federal aid, $741,708 of State aid, and $5,270,987 of local funds. There have been forwarded to the Federal department at Washington 18 projects estimated to cost $2,440,266, on which approval has not yet been received. The State department forces also are at work on 94 projects estimated to cost $5,330,000 and the plans for these will be forwarded as soon as completed for approval.

Field work has been completed on 5552 miles of road under the provisions of the 1919 statutes, known as the $1200 a mile on $60,000, to a county law. Finish plans on 3449 miles of this total have been submitted to the State department, and provisions have been made, either by contracts with the State department, by private contracts with counties or by State survey parties, for the field work on the remaining 634 miles authorized under the $1200 a mile law.

JURY SUMMONS FOR MAN TO TRY MAN ACCUSED OF KILLING HIM

George Erhart on List of Veniremen at Belleville, Shot and Killed in East St. Louis Dec. 7.

A summons for George Erhart of 1814 North Nineteenth street, East St. Louis, to serve on the petit jury in the Circuit Court at Belleville, which will probably try Jesse Otto, a steamfitter, charged with shooting and killing Erhart, was received this morning by Deputy Sheriff Traubel of East St. Louis. He simply wrote "dead" across the face of the summons, and will return it to the Sheriff after the others summoned have been served.

The jury of which Erhart was chosen as a member will try cases in the Circuit Court for two weeks beginning April 12. Traubel said that the trial of Otto is to be on the docket during that period.

Otto shot and killed Erhart in fire engine house at Seventeenth street and Lincoln avenue, East St. Louis, Dec. 7. Otto said he was showing Erhart a revolver which Erhart sought to purchase, when the weapon was discharged. Otto has been indicted on a charge of murder.

CEREMONY OF ADORATION AT ST. FRANCIS XAVIER'S CHURCH

Catholic Professional and Business Men Take Part in Observance.

Catholic business and professional men from all sections of the city participated in the all-night watch and adoration before the Blessed Sacrament at St. Francis Xavier's Church, Grand avenue and Lindell boulevard, last night. Each remained at least an hour in silent private devotion. There were no general exercises.

The private devotions began at 10 p. m., about the time the Holy Thursday evening ceremonies had ended, and continued until 5 a. m. today, when the first of the regular morning worshipers began to arrive.

This is said to be the only church in St. Louis where the nocturnal adoration on Holy Thursday night and dawn of Good Friday is carried out. As the clock in the church tower tolled the passing of the hours throughout the night new adorers took the places of those who arrived an hour earlier. The flower bedecked repository on the side altar was brilliantly illuminated throughout the night.

HOMES SOUGHT FOR BABIES

Children's Aid Society Has Many in Need of Temporary Care.

An appeal was made this morning by the Children's Aid Society that people give "an Easter thought" to the wards of the society, and offer boarding homes to a number of babies who must be placed immediately. There are babies from one month to a year old who need temporary homes badly.

None of the children are offered for adoption as all have one or both parents, and it is simply a case of the homes being broken up for the time being through sickness or other misfortune. Board will be paid by the Children's Aid and clothing supplied, also the care of a nurse or physician. Anyone interested in taking a child for a short time is asked to call on Miss Herta Miller, placing-out secretary of the Children's Aid Society, 318 North Eighth street.

MAIL VOTE ON DAYLIGHT SAVING

East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce Sends Out Letters.

The East St. Louis Chamber of Commerce today mailed out several hundred letters to business men asking for an expression of opinion on daylight saving. The letters request immediate reply by mail or telephone.

Joseph Fining, secretary of the chamber, said that sentiment seems to be in favor of the plan. St. Louis action on the proposal probably will be followed in East St. Louis, he said.

EGG INSPECTORS AUTHORIZED

Two Men Were Thought to Have Collected $2 Fraudulently.

Two egg inspectors who were suspected of having fraudulently collected $2 from George Breidenbach, a grocer at 301 South Fourteenth street, and Steve Pete, a grocer at 4 North Twenty-first street, were found by detectives today to be authorized employes of the State Pure Food and Drug Department.

John P. Leahy, attorney for the department, was shown the receipts given to the grocers and said the inspectors had been sent here from Jefferson City to inspect eggs in grocers' stocks and to issue licenses to dealers in eggs in less than carload lots under a law approved May 26, 1919.

RUSSIAN UNION LEADER SAYS BOLSHEVISM IS FAILURE

Warns U. S. Labor Against System, Declaring Conditions Under Dictatorship Are Miserable.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 25.—George B. Stroomillo, a Russian labor leader, who arrived in the United States this week and conferred with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, last night issued a statement regarding present conditions in his country. He quoted Gompers as upholding the position taken by Russian labor against Bolshevism and promising that Stroomillo's arguments would be distributed throughout this country.

Stroomillo is a member of the Board of Trade Unions of Metal Workers of the Perm district and was delegated by trade unions to proceed to other countries for the purpose of warning labor against Bolshevist principles.

He said he was prepared to show "that the conditions of the working man under the Bolshevist dictatorship of the system of militarization of labor are even worse than those of the peasants.

"As the result of the destruction of industries," said Stroomillo, "the Russian proletariat has shrunk to one-fifteenth of its former size. Freedom of the unions is abolished. The unions are established and work under the control of the soviet authorities, and can act only in the way prescribed by the soviet authorities. Freedom of meetings and of speech is abolished. Workmen who go on strike are punished with a brutality unheard of in Western countries. Strikers are not only imprisoned, but deprived of their rations. Almost all branches of industry are under martial law. Workers cannot change from one factory or occupation to another. They are forcibly enlisted in the so-called 'labor armies' and overtime is compulsory."

Prisoner Guards Hole in Jail Wall.

CASSVILLE, Mo., March 25.—When five fellow prisoners escaped from the county jail during the night Bert Cushey, held for robbing a church contribution box, refused to join them. Cushey was guarding a big hole in the jail wall yesterday when officials learned of the delivery. The escaped prisoners, headed by two robbers, tore out a section of the wall in making their escape.

Rostand Play Great Field for Intellectual Actor

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, March 1.—It is not generally known that Edmond Rostand nearly five years before his death had completed a new play which was to have been produced in Paris during the winter of 1914-1915. It is called "La Derniere Nuit de Don Juan" ("The Last Night of Don Juan") and it was to have been played with Le Bargy as the Don, De Max as the Devil and Jean Coquelin as Sganarelle.

Then came the war and the play was put off to happier times. M. Rostand lived to see these times, for he saw the armistice and the French armies on the Rhine; but he did not live to see his piece on the boards. Edmond Rostand was stricken with the influenza and died Dec. 2, 1918.

"La Derniere Nuit de Jon Juan" was published this week in the Illustration, and with its publication the press had been flooded with speculation as to who will play the leading roles. When it at last appeared on the stage, M. Le Bargy, for some reason, doesn't seem willing to appear as Don Juan, having shown a preference for the part of the Devil, and the general opinion seems to be that either M. de Max of the Comedie Francaise or M. Andre Brule, who oddly enough is at present appearing in another play founded on the Don Juan legend, Henri Bataille's "L'Momme de in Rose," will create the title part.

It is inconceivable that any play of Edmond Rostand should remain for any length of time unacted in America, and, though "La Derniere Nuit de Don Juan" lacks the universal theatric appeal of "Cyrano" or "L'Aiglon," it presents an admirable field for the powers of an intellectual actor, while its pictorial qualities are remarkable. One can well imagine the Barrymores, for instance, seizing eagerly upon it—John as Don Juan, Lionel as the Devil and Ethel as the White Shadow. As for the scenic setting, any of the younger American scenic artists such as Robert Edmond Jones, Norman Bel-Geddes, Lee Simonson or Rollo Peters would revel in the opportunity offered to their fancy. Whoever presents it will place the American public in his debt, for, despite its obvious lack of external dramatic action, the play is a literary effort of a high order and a genuine contribution to both the poetic drama and the literature of the Don Juan legend.

As the name of the piece indicates, Rostand has taken the Don at the end of his career, and so he does not enter into competition with Moliere, Mozart or Byron. In fact, he begins where Moliere and Mozart leave off. In the prologue we see the statue of the Commander leading Juan down a flight of steps to give him into the hands of the Devil, but the Commander, struck with his betrayer's stoical courage, permits him a respite of a further 10 years on earth. The first act—there are only two—opens 10 years later in a Venetian palace and the Don, still impenitent and unafraid, awaits the hour of his expiration.

Shades of Deceived Women Evoked.

Don Juan is at supper and the director of a marionette show arrives and gives an exhibition, at the end of which the director reveals himself as the Devil who has come to claim his prey. Juan, always indomitable, invites the Devil to supper, at which his guest evokes the shades of all the women Juan has deceived. Juan, still proud of his conquests and of the effect he thinks he has made upon the hearts of the women who have loved him, is astonished that he is unable to recognize any of the shades. The shades mock him, telling him he is nothing but a puppet, that because he has never loved his life has been without meaning, no matter how many women he has caused to love him.

One shade alone shows him pity and unveils herself, telling him if he can really love her he will be saved. She is the shade of the soul of all the women who have loved him and he fails to recognize her. He is, however, interested in her and for a moment it looks as if he might be saved, but when the other shades also unveil he is once more seized with his old physical desire and loses his chance.

Juan, still indomitable, tells the Devil he is ready for the fires of hell, but the Devil, with supreme malice, tells him that as he has never really loved his punishment shall be to be made to exist as a puppet; and the Don, finally crushed in spirit, is pushed shrinking into the puppet booth, from which he emerges the next moment as a Polichinelle, who henceforth will entertain children with his antics.

Story Philosophic.

It is evident that the basis of this story is philosophic rather than dramatic and except for a few moments it is intellectual discussion, rather than action driven by emotion, that is supreme. In this discussion M. Rostand gives full play to his extraordinary verbal cleverness. The turns of thought corruscate continually, bursting at the most unexpected moments into brilliant cerebral fireworks. Slang, literary allusion, recondite, yet expressive twists of phrase, philosophic ratiocination, follow one another in extraordinary succession. No one but the man who wrote "Cyrano" and "Chanticleer" could possibly have produced them, and one is left breathless at the virtuosity of it all.

Yet there are moments when the old Rostand, the Rostand of the scene of Cyrano under Roxane's window; the Rostand of the immortal final lines of the same play, the Rostand of "Mon Panache," flames forth in all his old time glory. These are the moments which will carry the play into popular favor, and any actor ought to grasp at the chance to play them. Obviously it would be futile to attempt to give the flavor of the verse, even at these emotional crises, in any prose translation, yet two scenes may be indicated.

A poor man to whom once Juan gave alms, saying that he gave them "for the love of humanity," appears and the Don believes that this good action and the words which accompanied them prove that he accomplished one useful act in his life. The man, however, throws the money into Juan's face, exclaiming:

"I would I could strangle you for having soiled with your lips the words which are our hope!"

Tears of Victims Appear.

And earlier, when the Devil makes appear upon the table the tears Juan has caused his victims to shed, the Don demands of the tear why it fell and the answer comes:

"It was a tear of pity."

"Because of the virtue you had lost?" asks Juan.

And the tear replied:

"No, of pity for your agony. Of your agony which surrounded and with its arms, despite all your pride in trying to conceal it."

And Juan feeles his heart plumbed to its depths and the frightful emptiness within revealed.

In short, "La Derniere Nuit de Don Juan" shows that the romanticism of youth with Rostand, as with so many others, had evaporated.

VICTIM OF KANSAS MOB CHARGES FAILURE TO PROSECUTE LEADERS

Former Senator Burton Says Officials Know Men Who Drove Non-Partisan League Speakers Out.

By the Associated Press.

SALINA, Kan., March 25.—"Would you go to hell to prosecute an imp, with Satan presiding on the bench?"

Such was the interrogative reply made in an address here last night by former United States Senator Burton, one of the victims of a mob which drove Non-Partisan League speakers out of Barton County recently, to Richard J. Hopkins, Attorney General.

The former Senator rented Convention Hall and spoke on "Mob Law vs. Free Speech."

He declared that the Attorney General, the Judge of the Barton County District and the County Attorney there had all the evidence they needed, and charged that they were endeavoring to force him to go back to Barton County into hostile territory.

"For," he said, "Gov. Allen is a mob Governor, Richard Hopkins a mob Attorney General and Judge D. A. Banta, of Barton County, is a mob Judge."

He charged that the cause of the mob in Barton County a week ago was the failure of the authorities to prosecute those in the mob in that county in June of last year. Burton reiterated his former charge that the leader of the Barton County mob conferred with Judge Banta and Sheriff Hill that Saturday afternoon and they knew who he was.

IRON ORE RATES TO GRANITE CITY ARE HELD TO BE UNREASONABLE

Special Examiner C. M. Bardwell of the Interstate Commerce Commission recommended in a report to the commission on Tuesday that the rate on iron ore to Granite City, Ill., from Hurley and Florence, Wis., Iron River, Iron Mountain and Ironwood, Mich., that exceed $3.25 a ton of 2240 pounds, and the rate from Baraboo, Mich., that exceeds $2.35 a ton of 2240 pounds, be found unreasonable. His report is a result of a hearing here last October on a complaint made by the St. Louis Coke & Chemical Co.

The report also recommends that the coke company be granted reparation on its shipments in the last few months. The average difference between the present rates and the proposed rates is about 75 cents a ton of 2240 pounds.

William E. Rosenbaum, consulting traffic manager for shippers, who represented the coke company at the hearing, today said that the commission as a rule accepted the recommendations of its special examiners. He said that the proposed rates, when put into effect, would enable smelting companies here to obtain ore at approximately the same freight rate as that paid by companies at Pittsburg, Pa., and Ironton, O., and would thus stimulate the iron and steel industry here.

CLASSICS WILL COME BACK, EDUCATOR SAYS

Washington U. Professor Asserts Vocational Training "Craze" in Schools Is Passing.

Likening modern high schools to cafeteria grocery stores, in which students are permitted to inspect the shelves and choose such studies as please them, Prof. F. W. Shipley, who occupies the chair of Latin language literature at Washington University, yesterday told the members of the Classical Association that the "vocational training craze" is passing away, and that the classics are likely again to be made compulsory in the high schools.

The association yesterday opened a two-day convention at Hotel Statler and Washington University. It is composed of Latin and Greek teachers from universities and schools of the Middle West and South.

"To make the simile more exact," Prof. Shipley continued, "imagine the cafeteria system applied to a drug store, where the buyer would be not only his own buyer, but also his own doctor, prescribing for his own ailments from the general appearance of the bottles on the shelves, and, without consulting anyone, take down a bottle, pay his money, and walk out with the bottle he had thus selected for himself.

"In giving this latitude to boys and girls of 13 and 14 years, we certainly have gone the limit in the free election of studies."

He added that, however, the business world, which first demanded the substitution of commercial courses and the like for Latin, Greek, English and mathematics, is now asking for their restoration, "having found that a stenographer who cannot spell, punctuate or paragraph is of no value, and that bookkeepers who know not how to add, subtract, divide or multiply, are worse than none."

Fears Greek Has Gone Too Far.

He did not predict that Latin and Greek would regain their old places in the curriculum, however. Greek, he said, likely was too far gone ever to be restored to anything like its former importance. Latin, he believed, would recover largely, if not regaining all its one-time prestige.

This view was echoed at the evening session, when William McChesney Martin, chairman of the board of directors of the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank, told the association that bankers had realized that a classical education gave to young men a background and mental development generally lacking in those who had taken only vocational studies.

Martin related the fact that the modern trust company is not a new institution, and spoke of the public officials of Rome who had power to administer estates and perform similar duties, although they did not occupy so high a place in society as do modern bankers. In fact, he said, one noble Roman once killed another because the other had intimated that he was a grandson of such an officer.

Ancient Orators Described.

An entertaining description of the gestures used by ancient orators was given by Prof. Eugene S. McCartney of Northwestern University, on "Manual Talk." Many of these gestures survive, he said, and related the story of a Neapolitan who found himself unable to talk over the telephone because he could not express his meaning with his voice alone.

"It was said to be a question," he continued, "whether people in the old days went to hear Hortensius speak or to see him. Certainly a Roman orator was never embarrassed to know what to do with his hands."

Illustrating the importance of gesture, he told how, when a feud was raging between the cities of Messina and Palermo, a band of Palermans went at night to Messina and broke the fingers on the right hand of one public statue and knocked the nose off the other, thus signifying that the city had become incoherent or dumb.

A Roman challenged another to fight by pointing his little finger at him, thus suggesting that he had more strength in the finger than his enemy had in his whole body.

Teaches Latin for Amusement.

Miss Helen A. Baldwin, teacher of Latin at the Southern Illinois State Normal College, kept the meeting in laughter with her dryly humorous account of how she teaches Latin—which she does, she said—"solely for my own amusement and entertainment."

She said that she got as weary of teaching grammar and form as the students did of studying it, and that she had resolved to teach solely from the viewpoint of a study of Latin literature. This keeps the interest of the students awakened, she said.

"I admit," she said, "that my enthusiasm for Caesar is an object of benevolent amusement on the part of my pupils. I believe they regard it as rather cute of me to be so wild about Caesar."

This morning's session of the convention was at Washington University, Prof. Harry L. Singer of Woodward High School, Cincinnati, urged the adoption of easier Latin courses in high schools for pupils who find the present ones too difficult, and said experiments had shown that students who failed in Latin during the regular term rarely succeeded in making it up at the summer term.

Body of Man Taken From River.

The body of an unidentified white man was taken from the Mississippi River at the city docks at the foot of Gratiot street yesterday afternoon by watchmen at the docks. The man was about 45 years old, weighed 160 pounds, was 5 feet 8 inches tall and had a stubby mustache. Several of his upper teeth were missing. No identification marks were found in the clothing.

SWORDS FROM PHILIPPINES PRESENTED TO ST. LOUIS U.

Gift Is From Estate of Dr. Robert Hereford, Former Student.

A valuable collection of tribal swords from the various islands of the Philippines, was received by President Robison of St. Louis University this week, the gift of the estate of the late Dr. Robert Hereford of Hereford place, Ferguson, St. Louis County. Dr. Hereford, an old St. Louis University student, was for many years a surgeon in the United States army, and went to Manila with the American army of occupation.

The sword collection will be placed with the other Filipino exhibits of the museum, a large number of which were contributed by Father William Stanton, a St. Louisan and the first American priest ordained in Manila, and by Col. Johnson, U. S. A., commander of the United States troops in Luzon, and prior to the Spanish-American war the commandant of the St. Louis University cadet corps.

EASTER DRESS PARADE WILL BE A BRILLIANT ONE

Every one recognizes Easter Sunday as the day on which to wear their new spring attire and the parks and boulevards will be thronged with people.

Many people also deem it essential to dress up their homes for Easter. A beautifully furnished home may be dull and uninteresting for the lack of pretty lamps with colorful shades to be had in parchment, silk, mica or leather decorated.

The Prufrock - Litton Furniture Company at Fourth and St. Charles streets are offering their entire immense stock of exquisite lamps at one-half off this week.

MAN FREED IN THEFT CASE AFTER 6 MONTHS' DELAY

PROSECUTION PENDING SINCE LAST NOVEMBER

Complainant Says, "If Home Is Ever Robbed Again He Hopes No One Will Tell the Police."

The case against Harry Pallo of 2922 Dickson street, charged with burglary in the second degree and larceny in connection with the theft of three rugs valued at $500 from the home of Lee Meriwether, 5211 Washington boulevard, last Aug. 27, with reference to which Meriwether recently wrote to the Post-Dispatch complaining of the delay of more than six months in bringing the accused to trial, was tried yesterday in Judge Landwehr's division of the Circuit Court, and Pallo was acquitted.

The case was set for trial last Monday, but circumstances which illustrate some of the difficulties arising under modern court procedure, looked upon as legitimate reasons for postponement, made it necessary for the court to carry the case over from day to day, and to require the attendance of witnesses each day. Meriwether was one of the witnesses, who sat in court through the greater part of three and a half days before the case came to trial, and at the end of the third day he was so wearied with waiting that he remarked to a Post-Dispatch reporter that "if his home was ever robbed again he hoped no one would tell the police."

History of the Case.

On Nov. 29, 1920, an information was filed accusing Pallo and George Burton, a negro, with the theft of the rugs. The defendants were arraigned Dec. 22 and pleaded not guilty. The case was set for Jan. 24, and at that time Pallo asked for a severance and the case was continued to Feb. 21, at which time the charge against Burton was nolle prossed after he had pleaded guilty to two other burglary charges. Pallo's attorney asked for and obtained a continuance on the ground that an important witness was absent.

When the case was called last Monday this witness, N. B. Dozier, of 5137 Washington boulevard, again was not present. An attachment was issued for him and he was brought into court Wednesday morning. The case could not be tried Wednesday because another trial, which had been started Tuesday, continued through the entire day, and up to 11 o'clock yesterday morning.

The undisputed facts in the case were that Pallo and Burton were arrested after they jumped from Pallo's wagon, in which the rugs were being hauled, at Union and Delmar boulevards upon the approach of a police patrol wagon. Pallo admitted hauling the rugs, but he said that while he was at the home of Dozier, a few doors from Meriwether's home, delivering furniture, his son who was with him, made arrangements to haul the rugs for Burton, who said the owner wanted them taken to a cleaning establishment. He showed by other testimony that he had no knowledge that the rugs were stolen.

VOTERS, WHO HAVE MOVED, MAY TRANSFER NAMES NEXT WEEK

Registration of Those Who Were Ill or Out of City Feb. 17, to Occur on Wednesday Only.

The Election Board has announced that the final transfers of voters who have removed from one precinct to another, since the supplementary registration of Feb. 17, will be made at the board's office Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The office will be open until 9 o'clock Monday and Tuesday nights, and until 10 p. m. Wednesday. Wednesday will also be the day for registering those who were ill or out of the city on Feb. 17.

The board has obtained the resignations of about 75 precinct election officials who had police records of various kinds, and who were asked to resign for that reason. About 20 others who were asked to resign have not yet done so.

BURGLAR ALARMS IN SAFES

BERLIN, March 8.—German burglars face a new obstacle in a strong box which a Berlin inventor has just placed on the market. The portable steel box is equipped with an alarm which can be set before the lid is closed.

When the box is lifted or moved ever so slightly the alarm sounds and can be stopped only by unlocking the box and adjusting the mechanism which controls the buzzer. Hotel guests are buying the strong box and placing it against their doors at night, or setting it on luggage which they wish to protect. The boxes are produced in various sizes and with alarms varying in strength from an ordinary buzzer to a fire alarm gong.

PATROLMAN WHO SHOT NEGRO IN A DISTURBANCE TRANSFERRED

Policeman's Aim Said to Have Been Pulled Down When He Tried to Fire in Air.

Patrolman Leonard Fleming of the Laclede Avenue District, who figured in a general disturbance at Jefferson and Lawton avenues last Saturday night with a crowd of negroes, in the course of which Herbert Wright, 12 years old, a negro, of 2741 Clark avenue, was shot in the left side by Fleming, was transferred today from the neighborhood where the trouble occurred to a new beat in the vicinity of Compton and Washington avenues.

The shooting created indignation among the negroes living in the neighborhood of the Wright home, and an investigation of the affair was ordered by the Board of Police Commissioners.

The facts as reported by Acting Capt. Gunn of the Laclede Avenue Station were that Fleming made enemies among certain negroes six months ago when he shot a negro who was trying to escape after having committed a highway robbery. The negro later was sentenced to two and a half years in the penitentiary. Last Saturday night Fleming went into a negro poolroom at Jefferson and Lawton avenues to investigate a report that gambling was going on there. He was followed from the place by a crowd of negroes who surrounded him at the corner. One of the crowd hit him on the head with a bottle, and he drew his revolver.

According to Gunn's report, Fleming fired a shot in the air to attract other policemen, and as he was about to fire a second shot one of the negroes pulled his arm down, and the bullet passed through the fleshy part of Wright's side. Although Fleming was exonerated by the report, Chief O'Brien expressed the belief that owing to the ill feeling against him the patrolman should be transferred.

PRESS CONGRESS TO MEET NEAR SITE HISTORIC IN PRINTING

Capitol Building in Honolulu Stands Near Location of Elisha Loomis' First Press.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

HONOLULU, T. H., March 2.—The Press Congress of the World, which will open in Honolulu in October of this year, will hold its sessions a stone's throw from the spot where the first printing was done west of the Missouri River, almost 100 years ago. The old coral building where the Ramage press, brought from Boston by Elisha Loomis, turned out its first work on Jan. 1, 1822, still stands on King street, Honolulu's main thoroughfare. It is but a few steps from the Iolani palace of monarchy days, now the capitol, where the Press Congress will convene.

Entries in the diary of Elisha Loomis, which is preserved here, show that he and his precious printing apparatus left Boston on the brig Thaddeus which carried the first Christian missionaries to Hawaii and landed in the islands Aril 6, 1820.

Loomis' press was used principally for printing educational matter for instruction of the Hawaiians by the missionaries, but an entry in his diary in March, 1822, shows that at that early date the King had realized its value and had sent him two royal decrees to be printed for promulgation.

The first newspapers turned out in Hawaii were printed in the Hawaiian tongue adapted to English letters one at Lahainaluna, Island of Maui, called "Ka Lama Hawaii," or the Light of Hawaii, and the other at Honolulu, called "Kumu Hawaii," or the Foundation of Hawaii.

Both of these papers appeared in 1834. From that day the press of the islands has grown until it embraces papers in Hawaiian, English, Portuguese, Chinese, Japanese, Korean and Filipino.

The press that made history and laid the foundation of educational work in Hawaii is in the Oregon Historical Museum at Portland.

ST. LOUIS SOLDIER'S BODY IN U. S.

Corporal Fred C. Carter Died in France as Result of Wound.

The body of Corp. Fred C. Carter, 28 years old, son of Mrs. Emma Carter, 3359 McRee avenue, who died in France as a result of a wound received on March 1, 1918, has been brought to New York, and will be forwarded to St. Louis.

Carter had been a member of the regular army prior to the war, and had served in the Philippines, and was with Gen. Pershing's "flying expedition" in Mexico. In May, the month after the United States entered the war, he left Mexico for France with the first Americans who went over.

LOW NECKS; HIGH INSURANCE

Swiss Companies Say Extreme Styles Cause Impaired Health.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

GENEVA, March 7.—Swiss women who wear short skirts and low-necked night gowns will have to pay higher rates of life insurance than those who do not. The Swiss insurance companies have announced that fixing the premiums on policies of women's lives, they will take into consideration the women's wearing apparel. The shorter the skirt or lower the decollete, the higher the insurance rate will be.

The Swiss companies justify this action on the ground of a great increase of illness and disease among their women clients which they claim is due to the wearing of short skirts and low-necked dresses.

31 KILLED, 100 INJURED IN MILAN THEATER EXPLOSION

Many Arrests Made, but No Statement Given Out as to Capture of Authors of Crime.

By the Associated Press.

MILAN, Italy, March 25.—The latest reports concerning the bomb explosion in the Diana Theater show that 31 persons were killed and 100 injured.

The explosion was a terrific one. Great excitement prevailed inside the theater following the detonation. This was rendered more frightful by the screams and moans of the wounded in the darkness, all the lights having been extinguished.

Many arrests have been made, but it has been impossible to ascertain if any of the authors of the crime are among those taken into custody.

It was reported that nine of the wounded were dying. The city was calm yesterday. All the factories were working.

Among those injured in the explosion was the well-known actor, America Guasti, who was in a box with Dina Galli, perhaps the most popular actress in Italy, watching the performance. Dina Galli was not injured.

HARDING SAID TO FAVOR 'BRIEF, CONCISE' TARIFF BILL

President for Including Only a Few Farm Products, Senator Willis Declares, After Conference.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—President Harding favors passage of a "brief, concise" emergency tariff bill, "applicable only to a small number of farm products," Senator Willis, Republican, of Ohio, declared after a 45-minute conference with the President yesterday.

The bill, which will be introduced early in the special session of Congress and given administration support, Willis added, probably will not provide for duties on all the products covered in the Fordney emergency bill passed at the last session.

"Some things," he said, "were dragged into that bill which ought not to have been there." The new bill, he predicted, would be designed to have the effect of an embargo.

SIX ALLIED SOLDIERS SLAIN BY MOB IN UPPER SILESIA

Poles Alleged to Have Attacked Alpine Troopers Who Put Up Flag of Truce.

By the Associated Press.

BEUTHEN, Upper Silesia, March 25.—Six Alpine troopers in the service of the Inter-allied Plebiscite Commission were killed at Kaaf Tuesday by a mob alleged to have been made up of Poles. Troopers were summoned from Beuthen to suppress the rioting.

The Alpine contingent took refuge in a private house, which was besieged. The troopers hung out a white flag and were permitted to leave the house under a guarantee of safe conduct. No sooner had they reached the street, however, than the mob pounced on them, killed six and seriously wounded three others.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., March 25.—Harry S. Black, New York millionaire, was acquitted by a jury in the Dade County Criminal Court yesterday of having had a large quantity of liquor aboard his private car at Cocoanut Grove, five miles from Miami. The jury returned the verdict in three minutes.

All members of the jury were allowed to drink from the seized stock of whisky by the prosecution in order that they might determine whether or not it was intoxicating.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

The Coal-Ferrying Bill.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The past calendar year 8,000,000 tons of coal were hauled from East St. Louis across the river at a cost of 30c per ton, making the cost of coal for transportation alone $2,400,000—the difference in price of coal on the East Side of the river to the west tracks for delivery to the consumers of St. Louis. We have a free bridge that has cost the city $7,000,000, paid for in bonds of the city at 5 per cent, making a cost of $350,000 per annum. Now what is the remedy and the relief from this burden? Here is a cost of $2,400,000 for transportation of coal, interest on the Free Bridge of $350,000, making $2,750,000. There is but one road—the building of public coal yards at the end of the Free Bridge on the west and south side of the present railroad tracks.

I have to suggest on Twenty-second street and the Mill Creek Valley the entire railroads of the valley pass through 150 feet width in space and from that point to Chouteau avenue, Twenty-first street bridge and Jefferson avenue bridge. There are 25 to 30 acres of flat land occupied by old buildings perhaps more than a third of a century old; this space could and should be condemned by the city for the use of public coal yards. The Board of Aldermen have already passed an ordinance giving a double railroad track on Gratiot street to Jefferson avenue, midway in this property. The entire cost of building coal yards properly equipped with tipples for easy and ready delivery of coal so that the owner of a one-horse wagon could buy coal at cost. I earnestly believe that it would be a saving to our entire city of $1 a ton to consumers of coal. The rich and the poor would have advantage of obtaining their fuel at absolute cost, thereby saving more than $1 a ton on its entire consumption. It would break the padlock that has held back the load and retarded a larger manufacturing development of St. Louis.

The city also owns double tracks, rails from Carondelet to the waterworks, and ought to build public coal yards in South and North St. Louis and also in West St. Louis, if necessary. Commerce flows in channels of least resistance. Give old St. Louis a chance with her throbbing manhood and it is my judgment that in a few years we will add from 10 to 20 millions of development and save to the people millions of dollars annually. I have several times brought this to the attention of the present city government; have always met with a smile of the night reveler and the day sleeper—the same old sun shines, and nothing done.

NICHOLAS M. BELL.

Hoping Byrnes Will Act.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

One of the worst developments in the Kiel administration is the Rent Hog. I know, of course, that the Rent Hog is found in other cities, but other cities at least have tried to curb him.

Has Mayor Kiel ever said a word against excessive rents? Has he ever lifted a finger against the Rent Hog? Why even Big Bill Thompson of Chicago, generally regarded as the worst type of Mayor, has matched fight after fight with the Rent Hog and is still fighting. But Mayor Kiel does not seem to know that such a species as the Rent Hog exists in St. Louis.

But if Kiel does not know it, you can take it from me that thousands of us do know it. And what we want to know is, What will Byrnes do about the Rent Hog? We know Kiel won't do anything. And thus far Byrnes has not said a word on this subject. We are waiting for him to speak.

To many of us, probably the majority of us, the rent question is the biggest issue. What has Byrnes to offer on this question? Won't he put up a fight against the rapacious landlords? Shall we continue to be at the mercy of merciless profiteers, with the consent of the administration?

I am one of thousands of rent victims who, without hope in Kiel, are hoping for action from Byrnes.

Why Building Will Not Revive.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Competition in material and labor has not been restored. All commodities except building material have gone down, but the material profiteers are still holding tight, and the subcontractors that also profiteered have not come down off their high horse.

Sand still is $3 a load; crushed rock, $12 a square; building rock, $4 a perch, worth not over $2.25 a perch; brick $20 to $40 per 1000, worth not over $12 per 1000; millwork as high as when lumber was $125 per 1000; lumber, $45 per 1000, worth not over $27.50 per 1000; plaster, 65 cents a yard, worth 40c a yard; plumbing for small house, $800, worth $350; glass out of sight; white lead, $13.25 per hundred; pig lead selling at 3½ cents per pound; labor, $10 to $12 per day, worth $6, and actually doing $4 worth of work.

Mr. Strauss says building is going to revive, but I say not until competition is again restored, not only in the building line, but in other lines.

The people are tired of being robbed by a small majority of unscrupulous Americans and a great many foreign Americans.

A. A. SCHARFF.

"CONTEMPTIBLE AND PITIABLE."

Because our esteemed contemporary, the Globe-Democrat, finds that it cannot conscientiously support Mayor Kiel for a third term, the Mayor's supporters are digging more holes in the streets for mud with which to bespatter it. Senator Blodgett called it last night "a contemptible and pitiable thing."

The old Globe-Democrat, back in the days of McCullagh, which Mr. Blodgett and other friends of the Mayor praise so highly, never hesitated to swat an unfit Republican candidate or to smash a menacing party machine.

The contemptible and pitiable newspaper is the newspaper that abandons conscience and convictions and the public welfare and takes orders from the party bosses.

As a further exhibit of the kind of argument to which the Mayor's advocates have descended, we quote the following reference to James W. Byrnes, to whom Senator Blodgett referred continuously as "this fellow" and "that fellow":

> And then they praise this fellow Byrnes. I warn you of this fellow as my countrymen. He is a descendant of the men who are making such a mess of their government over there, and who are not fit to govern anything.

Our esteemed morning contemporary and Mr. Byrnes can take care of themselves; we merely cite these amiable references to them as evidence of what a terrible crime it is in the opinion of the barkers and spoilsmen of the party machine to oppose the party nominee and the machine boss. Independence in politics to serve the public is the basest thing in the world; to refuse to suppress convictions because the party boss and his henchmen demand it is treason. To fight for the public welfare instead of the machine interest is "contemptible;" to oppose the will of Nat Goldstein and Bobby Moore and Hank Weeke and all the other ward bosses and their political dependents is "pitiable."

The Mayor's campaign aptly illustrates the evil to which Washington referred when he remarked that "party politics is the curse of the country." He referred to the incredible degradation to which blind partisan interest and prejudice leads men—it leads them to damn the good and praise the bad and even to appeal to race passions and prejudices.

CARDINAL GIBBONS.

Signally honored by and signally honoring the church whose robes he has worn with princely grace and dignity and power, James Cardinal Gibbons has for many years been incomparably more than a prelate. He has been in a real sense a public official, whose intellect was sought by the highest, whose heart was appealed to by the lowliest. It is with his service, not as a churchman but as one of the great men of his time, that we are concerned.

For years no symposium on any issue of national moment has been complete without an expression from Cardinal Gibbons. Those opinions were almost invariably rooted in the sure knowledge of the fundamentals. He knew the Constitution of the United States, the letter and the spirit of it, as thoroughly as he knew the ritual of the mass. We think it may be said, in all propriety and reverence, that he believed as implicitly in our democracy as he did in his theology. The Americanism he preached and practiced was a militant, rugged, virile Americanism that held man to be a free agent, a creature endowed to distinguish between right and wrong and accountable to his Creator for his choice. With the fads and phylacteries that shift our moral responsibility to new and strange commandments he had no sympathy because they were at variance with the fundamentals.

Cardinal Gibbons was the first Roman Catholic prelate in the United States to take part in the election of a Pope. He voted for Pius X. Is it permissible to speculate on how different history might have been had the distinguished and trained American been chosen to succeed the brilliant Leo instead of the "simple parish priest"? With the Vienna of the Hapsburgs so close to Rome, would the Austrian ultimatum to Serbia have been sent had there been a statesman like Cardinal Gibbons in the Vatican? The reeling, bloody years have ground such speculation into idle dust, but one may wonder, nevertheless, at the agonies that might have been spared mankind had that College of Cardinals looked to Baltimore rather than to Venice.

A long life, vigorous almost to the last, ennobled by ever broadening service, repaid for its efforts by the esteem and affection of a nation, is now ended. To the last there was scarcely any diminution of powers, the zest for living and doing persisted, the courage of his counsel was never blurred by age. "The green leaf turned to gold." Cardinal Gibbons has stepped out of the day into a high place in our history.

THE EASTER CHICK SACRIFICE.

The annual slaughter of the innocents is on. The innocents, in this connection, being the baby chicks that are being sacrificed as Easter "pets," at 15 cents per pet. Hundreds of them, just hatched, are sold to shoppers to be carried home in punctured pasteboard boxes and there promptly squeezed to death by the younger members of the family or incur a more lingering fate from exposure and lack of necessary warmth and attention.

Very young chickens are very fluffy and very cute, but no hen ever hatched a chick to be a pet, and every hen that ever hatched a brood flies into the face of the foolish person who tries to make pets of them. Brooders, those mechanical mothers, which hatch hundreds at a "setting," have no maternal instincts to protect their product, but brooder chickens are no more adapted for pets than the chicks that are born in the old fashioned way. If they are not fondled to death they quickly lose their fluffiness and become a household nuisance.

Few of the baby chicks that are offered for sale as pets survive. Many die in the sale pen while struggling for warmth from an incandescent bulb, which is a poor substitute for the maternal feathers or the mechanical hover. The rest succumb to petting and neglect. The food loss is considerable. The misuse of the young birds that are not suited for pets is not only waste but cruelty. The traffic in baby chicks is one form of Easter sacrifice which should be stopped.

APPLES, PEACHES AND GOOD ROADS.

Fruit prospects in Missouri surpass anything known before. Berries, peaches and apples "will be a drug on the market," according to Jewell Mayes, secretary of the State Board of Agriculture. The Ozark strawberry belt estimates a yield of 1800 cars. The danger of a frost is recognized. But if frost does not intervene "the facilities for moving it (the fruit crop) will be hopelessly inadequate."

It is to the "inadequate transportation facilities" that the attention of Missourians—city and country—is directed. The bounty of nature means little to the producer or consumer. Bumper crops mean low prices at the orchards, but they don't mean low prices at the city stalls.

Fat years or lean years, we lose, anyway. That is the blight of inadequate transportation facilities. The unnecessary middleman and his unscrupulous practices aggravate the condition, but the basic trouble is transportation. Until that is remedied there will be no real and permanent relief.

There is just one remedy. Good roads. In some parts of our own country—New England, for example—the railroads are now considering the advisability of discontinuing short-haul freight service. They cannot compete with the truck. The railroads of Switzerland have appealed to the Government for protection against the truck. It sounds preposterous for a vested interest selfishly to seek to stay progress, but vested interests have a penchant for being preposterous. Our tariff laws, for the most part, are a record of selfishness and stupidity combined against progress, for the benefit of a few at the expense of the many.

An exhibition of the same short-sighted selfishness is being given in Missouri in the agitation for squandering the road funds. Let that fund be prorated among the counties and it will practically be wasted. A good road that serves an economic purpose must connect the farm with the city.

St. Louis pays almost prohibitive prices for peaches and apples when the orchards of Missouri are bending under their loads and the price to the farmer is so low he cannot afford to pick them. We did it last year, we'll do it this year, and we'll keep on doing it until St. Louis and the farm are connected by good roads.

A HOPE FOR STRAPHANGERS.

Mr. Byrnes is one candidate for Mayor who has taken cognizance that we have a transportation problem. In contrast to Mayor Kiel's well known silence on the subject—and well may he be silent—Mr. Byrnes has outlined the principles to which he will adhere and by which he will be guided in his handling of the question.

He recognizes what everybody must recognize—that fares must be set to cover the cost of taxes, maintenance, operation and interest on capital, but not on watered stock or the cost of extensions. These, he says, should be financed by an increase of securities to cover actual cost of construction. Thus no abrupt burden would be placed on car riders.

The Byrnes program calls for adequate service and extended service, at a fare which could not be reduced without actually giving the passenger something for nothing. The question of the exact course to be pursued is not so important at this time as the spirit and the capacity to do. If Mayor Kiel has capacity for handling the problem he has not shown it. As to spirit, the lack of mention of transportation in his platform and his well known surrender to the U. R. are a sufficient indicator.

But Mr. Byrnes goes farther than the project of merely improving surface traction. He is looking forward to the eventual and inevitable recourse of elevated or subway service, or both. And for this purpose he proposes that the city should be enabled to lend its credit. The legal means of accomplishing these ends are not all at hand—and they never will be until we have leadership in place of bossism at the city hall.

FAITH VERSUS REASON.

Horace Book I, Ode 34.

I HAVE unwisely shunned the gods as vain,
While vaunting *Wisdom's sect and idols base;
But now I'll tack my sails amain,
And my abandoned course retrace;

For, lately, I beheld the Lord of Light,
Who often parts the clouds with fiery bar,
Come driving through the ether bright,
His thundering steeds and flying car.

And, lo, the streams and stable earth did shake,
As through the Stygian gloom the lightnings smote,
And seats of Taenarus did quake,
And Atlas, too, though far remote!

Yea, God can valleys unto mountains change,
And crush the haughty and exalt the low;
Whilst Fortune swoops like eagles strange,
Some crest to seize, elsewhere bestow.

SHRIEKS FROM THE BASEMENT.

Sir: Let no one grieve over having been unable to hear Mr. Chesterton. For of all the paradoxes of which he has been the source, the most conspicuous is Mr. Chesterton the author compared with Mr. Chesterton the lecturer. The lecture Sunday evening was, in the vernacular, nothing more than a frost. Choosing a facetious subject for a rambling, frequently boring discourse which was neither amusing nor enlightening, Mr. Chesterton converted the molehills of superficial prejudices which he attributed to the educated into mountains of faith and, in conclusion, brilliantly proved nothing.

Now, although my $2.20 has gone into those apparently boundless jeans from whose bournes it will not return, I can almost forgive Mr. Chesterton for having his little joke (if he realizes it) and for catering to that gullibility which makes the American audience beloved of the hearts of needy men of letters; but I cannot understand by what code of honor one is obliged to characterize the lecture as either "interesting" or "subtle" because one has invested therein, or to deprecate one's own appreciation merely because a famous man of letters was an obviously poor lecturer. That is too much like Aesop's fox whose tail was snapped off and who afterwards told his more fortunate brothers that he much preferred it that way.

I believe this time that Clark McAdams and his coterie of second-story thinkers owe the apology.

We now find it in soup, in rope and in dope. This association, for aught I know, or for all the word implies nowadays, may be "The Classical Association of Smith & Smith, Manufacturers of Wagon Grease."

ANTHOLOGY OF THE CITY.

Cleveland.

As the train pulled into Cleveland the dusk of evening was beginning to fall. The train porter stood solicitously near. At last he said:

"Boss, is you-all gwine to stop in this hear town?"

"Sure enough," I replied. "What kind of a burg is she? Pretty good-sized?"

"Bigges' town on eart, bos. Wus ol' worl' a elefunt, Clevelan' would be wharat he store he's hay. Boss, white folks cum here frum way over to Sent Lues jes to look at our skyscrapers. Heard one white man say th' oder day, "pear like I seed 'at building somewhar fore now. Oh yes,' he say, 'at looks like ole shack whut's built on top of Pierce buildin' back home.' We got bigges' parks in worl' here, an' everything. Boss, look out yander; you-all ever see a moon half as roun' and pretty as 'at one is? Can't beat ole Cleveland."

We are justly proud of our fair city and of the many things wherein it differs from other cities. Other cities may be famous for their skyscrapers; for their fat policemen and large-sized parks; others may point with pardonable pride to the extreme length of their dogs; but we have got the world beat in one thing: We've got the highest-priced bushel of coal. Read this sign from the 2700 block on Wash street:

Coal 45c a Bushel

Figure up how much a ton would cost at this price, and you will loosen up on your prejudice against the devil's activities.

Replying to Mr. Whiffling: I must refer you to the editor of Just a Minute for more explicit directions regarding the matter concerning which you wrote me. I can say this much, however: It will not be necessary for you to buy a truck in order to become a sign hunter. They do not deliver the whole works to the Post-Dispatch, as you seem to think—just the words of the sign.

The MIRROR of PUBLIC OPINION

THE CURSE OF ANTI-SEMITISM.

From the Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

THE sympathy of the world had been enlisted during the past six months by stories of suffering, privation and even starvation in the once gay city of Vienna. The graphic character of those stories touched the heart of America, in spite of the fact that Austria is an erstwhile enemy, and great sums of money were subscribed for relief. And yet these people find time to hold an anti-Semitic congress, at which massacre of the Jews is openly advocated, and as a result rioting and the destruction of the property of Jews is witnessed on the streets. What a commentary on "Christian" civilization! What an awful curse is this violent and ignorant prejudice which goes under the name of anti-Semitism! This incident serves to bring into glaring relief the menacing character of this prejudice. Any people that becomes the victim of it ceases to be civilized. There are those who are seeking to plant this venomous product of European ignorance in the United States. Every patriotic American should frown upon and resent this attempt to corrupt our people. It is a worse menace than Bolshevism. It strikes at the very foundation of our free institutions.

THE LEVY ON GERMAN EXPORTS.

From the Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

ALTHOUGH of less sensational character than the march of the Entente armies, the imposition by the allies of a tax on goods imported from Germany, which is one of the sanctions agreed on at Paris and now to be put into effect, is perhaps of greater practical interest. It is a wholly different matter from the 12 per cent tax ad valorem on German exports which under the Paris plan was for 42 years to be added to the fixed annuities. Germany having refused the Paris plan, the allies now take what they can get of the cash proceeds of goods imported from Germany, each of them being free to determine what percentage seems desirable. In Great Britain this must be decided by Parliament, and Lloyd George suggests 50 per cent. Under this plan each purchaser of German goods in British currency would be obliged to pay half of it to the British Government. It is obviously of importance whether the Germans are undertaking to supply goods half the proceeds of which are to apply on the indemnity, or the allies are merely penalizing Germany for its refusal to accept the Paris terms. In the latter case it is difficult to see how the flow of German goods can be kept up, for the 50 per cent left from the purchase money will not go far toward paying for raw materials and labor costs.

THE IRISH PROBLEM.

From the New York World.

"SIR PHILIP GIBBS is a friend of mine," said Father Duffy in his Sunday night lecture on the Irish question. "I admire him very much for his personal qualities and for his work." Father Duffy had already shown his friendship by pleading for fair play at a turbulent Gibbs meeting. At the same hour Sir Philip was paying a tribute to Father Duffy as "a gallant man, a gentleman and a sportsman." By thus proving that an Englishman and an American of Irish blood who favors the Irish republic can discuss the future of the hapless island in a kindly spirit, maintaining the courtesies of debate while sharply disagreeing as to politics—that they can even agree on one thing, which is that there should be no war between the United States and Great Britain—these eminent debaters have rendered a service to their countrymen and blood brothers in a troublous time. For that is the spirit in which the Irish question must be settled, whenever it is settled and no matter how. Peace will not come by shooting police officers in their beds or by equally bloody reprisals against Sinn Fein towns. The trouble must be ended by debate, discussion and decision in which the ordinary decencies are observed, or it will never be ended.

Lansing, in Book, Tells How He and Wilson Disagreed Over League of Nations

Says President Ignored His Advice at Paris Against Making Covenant Part of Treaty

Former Secretary Reveals How He Opposed Executive's Trip to France—Was in Opposition to His Chief on Nearly Everything Done There.

President Wilson to Robert Lansing, Secretary of State, under date of Feb. 11, 1920:

> "While we were still in Paris, I felt and have felt increasingly ever since, that you accepted my guidance and direction on questions with regard to which I had to instruct you only with increasing reluctance * * *.
>
> "* * * I must say that it would relieve me of embarrassment, Mr. Secretary, the embarrassment of feeling your reluctance and divergence of judgment, if you would give your present office up and afford me an opportunity to select some one whose mind would more willingly go along with mine."

Secretary Lansing to President Wilson, under date of Feb. 12, 1920, submitting his resignation as requested by the President:

> "Ever since January, 1919, I have been conscious of the fact that you no longer were disposed to welcome my advice in matters pertaining to the negotiations in Paris, to our foreign service, or to international affairs in general. Holding these views I would, if I had consulted my personal inclination alone, have resigned as Secretary of State and as Commissioner to Negotiate Peace. I felt, however, that such a step might have been misinterpreted both at home and abroad, and that it was my duty to cause you no embarrassment in carrying forward the great task in which you were then engaged."

IN THESE two quotations from the correspondence attending the retirement of Mr. Lansing from President Wilson's Cabinet, which are set forth at the beginning of the first chapter, we have the key to the plan and scope of the former Secretary's book, "The Peace Negotiations—a Personal Narrative," published today by Houghton-Mifflin Co. (Boston and New York).

Though it sets forth, as far as possible, from Lansing's information, which he admits to be very meager and often of a secondhand character on many of its most important phases, his views on the proceedings and decisions of the Versailles conference, the real purpose of the book is to present the author's appeal to the court of public opinion from the President's charge of disloyalty and antagonism to his chief.

The reader, however, will be impressed from revelations presented by the former Secretary in support of his case, with the fundamentally antagonistic natures of Wilson and Lansing.

A Lawyer Against an Idealist.

The Secretary we see, through his own words, to be essentially a lawyer, conservative, cautious, demanding precedent for every action and full and complete consideration of all the projected points in all their legal aspects and meanderings before consenting to write it into the terms of the law.

The President, on the other hand, is seen as a statesman with an exalted vision of a world ordered on a basis of justice to all nations, functioning through an organization, presenting always a threat of force to those who defied it, having back of it the most potent alliance of great Powers in the world's history, yet holding in trust the peace and happiness of the world and administering the trust upon a high plane of idealism, the only reward sought by the trustees being the resultant pride of achievement in promoting the good of the human race.

It appears that throughout their stay in Paris, Lansing did not make a single suggestion on the league matter that was acceptable to the President; indeed, almost everything he did and said touching the league was so opposite to the President's ideas that the latter was provoked and openly irritated and the Secretary humiliated by being ignored and neglected.

The book reveals that Lansing was out of harmony with the President from the time the League of Nations Idea was projected from the White House and one wonders how he remained in the cabinet as long as he did; why he did not resign even before he went to Paris, where he knew he would not be in agreement with his chief, instead of lingering in the post until Wilson asked him to quit.

Opposed Nearly All Wilson's Plans.

Here is Mr. Lansing's own summary of the principal subjects upon which he was in disagreement with the President:

> His presence in Paris during the peace negotiations, and especially his presence there as a delegate to the peace conference; the fundamental principles of the Constitution and functions of a League of Nations as proposed by him; the form of the organic act known as the "covenant," its elaborate character and its inclusion in the treaty restoring a state of peace; the treaty of defensive alliance with France; the necessity for a definite program which the American commissioners could follow in carrying on the negotiations; the employment of private interviews and confidential agreements in reaching settlements, a practice which gave color to the charge of "secret diplomacy;" and, lastly, the admission of the Japanese claims to German treaty rights at Kiauchau and in the Province of Shantung.

Of these seven subjects, the most irritating differences appear to have been over the League of Nations and the Shantung matter.

Lansing's first information that the President intended to go to Paris was conveyed through Col. House, to whom the Secretary strongly expressed himself in opposition to the plan. On the day after the armistice was signed, Lansing took it upon himself to see the President and offer his advice against the trip in person though information about it had not yet come to him directly. The President listened courteously, but turned the conversation onto other topics, without indicating how he felt about it. However, just a week later, he called at the Secretary's house at night and told him that he had decided to go to Paris and had already given to the press an official announcement to that effect. At this point, Lansing injects the following entry from his personal journal under date of November, 1918:

> I am convinced that he (the President) is making one of the greatest mistakes of his career and will imperil his reputation * * * I prophesy trouble in Paris and worse than trouble here. I believe the President's place is here in America.

Lansing expresses the belief that, from this open opposition on his part to the trip to Paris, dates the decline of the President's confidence in his judgment, and that Wilson considered that "it was an unwarranted meddling in his personal affairs."

Says Wilson Had No Program.

Lansing indicts the President for undertaking the trip to Paris because of his belief that the establishment of a League of Nations would prevent war in the future and yet not for having worked out himself a complete program for such an organization. In proof of this, the author cites the fact Wilson did not show him a copy of any plan. The only hint the Secretary was able to acquire of its scope, he says, was found in No. 14 of the famous "Fourteen Points":

> 'A general association of nations must be formed under specific covenants for the purpose of affording mutual guarantees of political independence and territorial integrity to great and small states alike.

Here, of course, is the germ of the famous Article 10 of the treaty as it was written later. Lansing, on this point, was openly hostile to the President's view. He regarded any such arrangement as a certain entanglement of the United States in European affairs.

Perhaps nothing in the book so strikingly indicates the state of mind the Secretary was in in the matter of a League of Nations, particularly the kind of league his chief wanted, as the following quotation from his journal of Oct. 28, 1918, when the war was not yet ended:

> From the little I know of the President's plan, I am sure that it is impracticable. There is in it too much altruistic co-operation. No account is taken of national selfishness and the mutual suspicions which control international relations. It may be noble thinking, but it is not true thinking. What I fear is that a lot of dreamers and theorists will be selected to work out an organization instead of men whose experience and common sense will tell them not to attempt anything which will not work.

Self-Determination of Nations.

An example of what Lansing considers "noble thinking, but not right thinking," in international affairs is afforded by his excoriation of the doctrine of "self-determination by small nations" which was so eloquently proclaimed by the President. He likens it to the doctrine of the consent of the governed which he says is very pretty and appealing, but utterly impracticable. He fears that the President promulgated, in this phrase, an idea that may yet set the world afire and which was particularly dangerous in the days that attended the end of the war. He holds that it was a matter that would have been better unmentioned if the President had given mature thought to it.

At a meeting of the American commissioners, the Secretary informed the President that he had put the legal experts at work drafting the skeleton of a preliminary treaty, whereupon the President's jaws snapped and he announced "that lawyers would not have anything to do with writing the treaty," that he did not want it "tainted with legalism."

He says Wilson was prejudiced against the advice of lawyers except on legal matters.

This preliminary treaty was of great concern to the Secretary. His idea was that peace was the greatest need of the world; that the best way to bring it about was through a preliminary arrangement by which the general conditions of peace would be established, leaving the details to be worked out later. This plan contemplated leaving the League of Nations question for settlement in the final treaty. But Woodrow Wilson, on the contrary, thought the league was the greatest need of the world, the first need, and he was determined that the league should be provided for and its scheme of organization and operation agreed upon before the treaty should be made. At that time, all America was agreed, all the nations were agreed, that there must be no more war, that the war had been fought to end war, and Wilson held that any peace that failed to make provision for the realization of this dream to humanity would mark a failure to achieve the aims of the war as he had defined them on behalf of the Allies. Then, after the league plan was agreed upon, he was determined to make it an integral part of the treaty, so that the treaty could be enforced through it. Lansing felt that all this was impractical and not only told the President so but laid his plans and worked along diametrically opposite lines, according to the revelations and documents set forth in his book.

Says Wilson Was Perturbed.

The Secretary reveals that the President was so impressed with the desirability of establishing the league before setting the terms of peace that he had worked out a plan by which the league would be set up and relations renewed through it with Germany and Austria by the allied nations while the treaty terms were being agreed upon. This plan, we are assured, was abandoned when Lansing told the President, who is represented as being perturbed by the information, that, under the American Constitution, such an arrangement would have to be submitted to the Senate for its approval. The purpose of this recital is to indicate that, in this way, the President hoped to commit the United States to a plan, an accomplished fact, that otherwise might be rejected, and, indeed, was rejected at a later date by the Senate.

Lansing did not allow the President to remain blind to his own plan for the league. His suggestion was that the treaty indorse the league idea and provide for a call at a later date for a meeting of all the nations of the world on equal terms and with equal representation, thus preserving "the equality of nations" to discuss the formation of a society. This appears to have been worked out very much along the lines of the old Hague peace conferences. Lansing says that the resulting tribunal at The Hague was looked upon with contempt by the President for the reason that it had no power to enforce its decisions and decrees. He also believed the justice of its decisions would be open to question. He considered it an utterly worthless instrument for holding rapacious nations in check.

Meantime, the Secretary's position at the conference was daily becoming more intolerable, he says, and he contemplated resigning from the commission on several occasions, but refrained because it would cause turmoil and confusion that would delay peace. He was being persistently ignored in so far as the big matters were concerned, though the President observed every courtesy when they came in personal contact. The President was handling the most important things himself and though he met the American Commissioners at stated intervals, according to Mr. Lansing, these meetings were more or less perfunctory. Lansing evidently felt that Col. House was receiving more consideration than he was, for he remarks that the Colonel's office staff knew more about the progress of treaty negotiations than other members of the Commission, referring to White, Bliss and himself.

Lansing makes the point that the covenant was drafted in its final form in 11 days and in 10 meetings. He argues that this time was much too short for the task that was being undertaken—the making of a charter of international liberty and justice that would shine through the ages.

Idealism World's Greatest Loss.

Lansing quotes an entry from his journal on the day before the presentation of the treaty, including the covenant, to the German delegates, under the heading: "The Greatest Loss Caused by the War:"

> Even the measure of idealism with which the League of Nations was first impregnated, has, under the influence and intrigue of ambitious statesmen of the Old World, been supplanted by an open recognition that force and selfishness are primary elements in international co-operation. The league has succumbed to this reversion to a cynical materialism.

Secret diplomacy comes in for hard raps, the Secretary laying nearly all the President's troubles at Paris on his alleged succumbing to the vice of private conferences with statesmen with axes to grind. It was secret diplomacy, he says, that made the President a fallen idol in Italy. Fundamentally the President was right in his position on Fiume. It was a great thing for him to refuse to consent to the Italianization of Fiume, which is not Italian at all. But the high ground of logic and justice on which the President based his decision was lost in the clouds and mists of Italian politics that were raised by the confidential conferences that he held with Italian factional leaders. A great issue was lost in later factional and political quarrels. Mr. Lansing, however, has no doubt that history will fully justify the President's stand, though it may condemn the manner in which he handled the question.

The Shantung Settlement.

The Secretary charges that what Wilson stood for in the Fiume matter was completely repudiated in the Shantung settlement. Here the Secretary finds his greatest objections to the President's diplomacy at Versailles. The President was determined that Japan must be in the league and that she must sign the treaty that provided for the league. Japan demanded cession to her of all German rights in Shantung. The President, Lansing says, was appalled by this situation, it was so repulsive to him. Here Lansing reveals that he, Gen. Bliss and Commissioner Henry White at conference agreed that Bliss should write a letter to the President pointing out the utter injustice of Japan's demand and the embarrassment that would come to America by recognizing any right on

LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTES CONFIDENCE IN ITS PRESIDENTS

PETITION DENOUNCING LEAGUE CIRCULATED

By-Laws Amended to Give Affiliated Organizations Representation in Executive Council.

A vote of confidence in the three presidents of the St. Louis League of Women Voters was given yesterday at the annual meeting of the League at Hotel Statler, following a business session at which the by-laws of the organization were amended to allow active and official participation of presidents of affiliated organizations in the executive councils of the league.

The vote was, in effect, an answer to attacks by a certain group of women, who, it was stated by ward chairmen at the meeting, were designing for political purposes to discredit the administrative officers of the league among the membership at large.

A majority of the 28 women ward chairmen of the league attended the meeting and several of them expressed indignation at the action yesterday of Mrs. Dollie Anna Loth, 2708 Baldwin avenue, chairman of the Nineteenth Ward, who circulated a petition denouncing the league as partisan, with a view to having the women of the ward organization resign.

Refused to Sign Petition.

Several chairmen said Mrs. Loth had asked them to sign the paper and that they had refused as they believed the charges of partisanship, bossism, ring control and slate-making, as embodied in the document, to be unfounded and promulgated solely for the purpose of serving a political expedient.

Near the close of the regular business of the meeting Mrs. L. L. Renfrew, Tenth Ward Chairman, arose and stated that some official notice should be taken of the "unwarranted attack by one woman against one of the presidents of the league," and Mrs. E. T. Senseney, independent president, arose and remarked that no reference be made to the officers of the organization, as the league did not deal in personalities and would not attempt to reply to attacks upon the personnel of the officials.

Mrs. E. M. Grossman then made a motion for a rising vote of confidence in the officers of the league "for their faithful and impartial administration of the business of the organization." The motion was carried unanimously and was followed by a burst of applause.

Do Not Understand Opposition.

The league leaders say they do not understand the reason for the recent opposition to the league. It is known among members of the league that several Republican women were offended by the league's fight in the "Three K" campaign against Republican Judges and later by the publication by the league of Mayor Kiel's record. It is generally believed in league circles that politicians in the Republican machine have been active with propaganda to disrupt the organization through the means of interior dissension, but whatever the reason, the women have put it down as purely political.

The attack on the league yesterday in the attempt to have the ward chairman resign was the second action against the league in the last week. The Child Conservation Conference Tuesday withdrew from affiliation with the league through Mrs. Norman Windsor, its president, who as such was a member of the league Executive Board. Mrs. Windsor is a candidate for the Board of Education. The league has indorsed five other candidates for the School Board. Mrs. Elias Michael, Mrs. B. F. Bush, W. Palmer Clarkson, H. A. Rosskopf and C. W. Johnson.

Opposition to Trade With Russia.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 25.—Opposition to resumption of trade relations with Russia by the United States Government was expressed last night in a letter to Secretary of State Hughes from the National Civic Federation and in a telegram to Secretary of Commerce Hoover from the board of trustees of the American Defense Society.

ABSURD TO SAY JAPAN IS BUILDING NAVY AGAINST U. S., ADMIRAL KATO SAYS

Minister of Marine, in Interview, Emphasizes Point That Building Program Is Not Necessarily Irreducible

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, March 25.—Assertions that the Japanese naval program was being followed for the purpose of competing with the United States navy, were denounced as "preposterous and absurd," by Vice Admiral Tomosaburo Kato, Japanese Minister of Marine, in an interview with the Associated Press here yesterday. He declared Japan was not trying to compete with the American Navy, and that the Japanese naval program had been formulated so that the island empire could be defended against any emergencies arising in the Far East alone.

During the course of the interview the Minister emphasized the fact that Japan's project to have a fleet of eight battleships and eight battle cruisers not over eight years old, was not necessarily irreducible. He indicated that if all the naval powers would agree to a "naval holiday" he would be willing to enter such an engagement, and would not insist upon the completion of the naval program projected by the Government.

Statement of Naval Policy.

In view of the popular movement for the curtailment of armaments led by Yukio Ozaki and commercial and industrial leaders of the empire, as well as the world interest in disarmament, the correspondent asked M. Kato to give as definite statement as possible of Japan's naval policy.

"Let me say in beginning," the Minister explained, "that our idea in considering the existence of the two squadrons the irreducible minimum necessary for naval defense originated after the Chino-Japanese war, and before the Russo-Japanese conflict.

"In the war with Russia we had two squadrons, each with six capital ships, and later possessed squadrons having eight battleships and six cruisers. After the Russian war Japan had planned to have her squadrons made up of eight battleships and eight cruisers, all capital ships less than eight years old.

"The condition of our finances did not permit the carrying out of this program, so we tried to maintain an 'eight-four' standard, and then an 'eight-eight.' While several Powers are trying to build great navies consisting of 30, 40, or even 50, capital ships of the first line, Japan's plan for an 'eight-eight' standard seems moderate, considering the position of the island. In counting ships less that eight years old, the examples of foreign Powers have been our guidance.

No Foreign Enemy in Mind.

"The framers of the 'eight-eight' program did not have in mind any foreign country as a probable enemy. I wish to emphasize that they merely considered our finances and decided we could afford to maintain such a navy, by which the Island Empire could be defended against any emergencies arising in the Far East alone."

M. Kato dwelt on how the advanced cost of building and the increased size of capital ships had enormously expanded Japan's naval expenditures, until the budget of 1921 carried $250,000,000 for this purpose alone. He said the cost of construction was approximately twice what it was before the war, but he explained that Japan's determination to build big ships was not due to her own initiative, but to the necessity of following the latest type of capital ship in the great navies.

"These circumstances," he continued, "combined to cause an increased burden on the national purse. While we were pursuing the long contemplated 'eight-eight' program it was inevitable that the nation must bear this additional expense, but it was very deplorable.

Attitude on Disarmament.

"I regret very much to see sinister propagandists or mischief makers trying to attribute our naval program to a desire to compete with the United States Navy. Nothing could be more preposterous and absurd than this contention. Needless to say, the Japanese navy desires the most cordial relations with the United States Navy."

"What is your attitude regarding a conference for the discussion of the restriction of armaments?" he was asked.

"The Japanese Government," he replied, "joined the League of Nations and in doing so supported the principle of the reduction of armaments. Whenever there is an international conference on armament reduction I will be only too glad to cooperate honestly with other Governments to give effect to this principle.

"Although there is a clamor for the restriction of armaments throughout the world, yet, taking into consideration the real international situation, and the present status of the naval Powers, I do not believe our relatively inferior navy should lead the way in reducing, nor that we should curtail our established plan. If a dependable international agreement comes into being, whereby all naval Powers should agree to restrict their naval forces, however, I would be glad to join to a reasonable extent, if a suitable formula could be agreed upon. Therefore I do not insist on the completion of our 'so-called' eight-eight program."

Budget Adopted by Peers.

With the concurrence of the House of Representatives, the House of Peers Wednesday adopted the budget. To the document was attached a resolution warning the nation of the general deterioration in public discipline through the growing difficulty of living, due to maladministration by the Government.

The Budget Committee of the House of Representatives brought up a newspaper report from the United States to the effect that as a result of an agreement with Great Britain, the United States would concentrate her naval strength in the Pacific. The matter was the subject of an interpellation by K. Nomura, who expressed the opinion that if the report were true it was the duty of the naval authorities to study some counter policy.

Vice Admiral Kato replied that the Government had not received any information tending to clarify the rumor, and that, judging from the reports in the possession of the authorities, there was every reason to believe it groundless. Even if it were true, Vice Admiral Kato added, the question was of such grave diplomatic import that discussion of it would be undesirable.

Troops to Saghalien.

An official War Office statement of Wednesday says that in accordance with the declarations of last year concerning the occupation of important districts of Saghalien province, Japan has decided soon to station troops on the mainland at Nikolaievsk, Sofisk, Dekastri, Mago and other important district points in the hope of maintaining peace and order by temporarily introducing a civil administration.

The Russian residents of the region have been requested to place implicit trust in the Japanese troops and show sympathy with the real motive for Japan's action, the statement asserts.

Responding to interpellations in the House of Representatives, Viscount Uchida, the Foreign Minister, said the Powers fully recognized that Far Eastern Siberia stood in special relationship to Japan, and that therefore Japan's rights and interests in that territory would receive their full consideration. Their protection would form a condition on which the Russian Government would be recognized, he added.

Trade With Russia.

A representative asked why Japan was hesitating when it was rumored the United States was contemplating opening trade with Russia, as this doubtless would include the Far East, where he declared America had long been ambitious to gain a foothold.

Masano Hanihara, Vice Foreign Minister, replied that Japan was not negotiating with Russia for a resumption of trade at present. If the United States had opened negotiations it would be important to Japan, but the reports had not been confirmed.

Admiral Gleaves Says Japan's Navy Will Equal America's by 1928.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., March 25.—The United States navy will be matched by that of Japan in 1928, Rear Admiral Gleaves, who has just returned to America after a year and a half as commander of the Asiatic fleet, says in an interview. Admiral Gleaves, who is visiting at the home of Edgar Allan Poe, termed the naval holiday talk "absurd."

"With all her liabilities and the great disparity in wealth as compared with this country," the Admiral said, "Japan is carrying out an '8-8' program, calling for eight battleships, eight battle cruisers and all the submarines and other vessels which go with them, by 1928. No one knows how many submarines she is building. That fact is kept secret Considering the differenec in wealth, her '8-8' plan is equivalent to one of '64-64' here.

"Our 'elaborate program' is not nearly so elaborate as it I ssupposed to be. Going at the present rate, our navy in 1928 will only be roughly equal to the Japanesea."

CITY CONCLUDES PRESENTATION OF WABASH CASE

Railroad's Side of Controversy to Be Heard in Jefferson City Two Months From Now.

DEPRESSION PLAN DECLARED FEASIBLE

Contractor Also Testifies Scheme of Elimination of Delmar Crossing Would Cost About $423,000.

The city at noon today concluded presentation of its case before the Public Service Commission for the separation of the street and tracks of the Wabash railroad at Delmar boulevard. The railroad's side will be heard by the commission in Jefferson City in two months from now. It will take the stenographer at least 15 days to complete a transcript of the city's testimony and an additional 30 days will be required by experts for the railroad company to go over the evidence and prepare for a lengthy cross-examination of the city's witnesses.

E. R. Pollok, a railroad contractor, testified today that the city's scheme of elimination by depression of tracks was feasible and would cost about $423,000.

Boston Engineer Heard.

H. W. Hayes of Boston, engineer for the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities, testified that a grade separation in Boston in 1894, in which the railroad tracks were elevated, instead of being depressed, as has been suggested by the city in the Wabash case, caused a decrease of from 10 per cent in the assessed valuation of tributary property.

A plaster model of Lindell boulevard, from King's highway to Union boulevard, prepared by the Board of Public Service, was submitted to the commission. It showed that if the city's scheme is accepted Grand Drive in Forest Park will be placed several hundred feet west of its present site and that instead of the drive being under the railroad tracks as at present, the tracks will be under the drive. It also showed a 12-foot embankment on either side of the depressed tracks and a wide viaduct at the intersection of Lindell and Union boulevards.

Fred G. Zeibig, a real estate dealer, stated that the Real Estate Exchange had adopted a resolution indorsing the city's proposition, and that the railroad company's proposal to elevate the tracks would cause $100,000 worth of damage to property. He said that if the city had to bear the expense of having the tracks depressed it would be justified in doing so.

City's Scheme Favored.

Testimony in favor of the city's scheme for the grade separation was given yesterday by a number of residents of the neighborhoods affected, especially of the district just north of Forest Park. Architects and city planners stated that depression of the tracks west of King's highway is the most practicable and most artistic method that can be adopted.

Edward B. Pryor of 5257 Lindell boulevard, president of the State National Bank and former receiver of the Wabash, approved the depression idea. He said that should the railroad tracks be elevated on an embankment his own and the property of others would be damaged, while depression would enhance the value of land in the district. The road is opposing any separation, but favors elevation if it must be made.

"There was a feeling when I was connected with the railroad that the operating officers opposed all improvements," Pryor said.

C. H. Rhodehaver of 5908 De Giverville avenue, president of the West End Grade Crossing Association, which was organized to favor the elimination of the Wabash grade crossings by depressing the tracks, presented a petition to the Public Service Commission bearing the names of about 150 property owners who desire the elimination and who said they opposed elevation of the tracks.

Property Owners Heard.

The following residents and property owners testified that the crossing should be eliminated, in their opinions, and that elevation of the tracks would be disastrous to property values, while depression would be of benefit:

Lon O. Hocker of 39 Portland place, an attorney; William E. Guy

FOUR WOMEN FINED $5 EACH FOR FIGHTING IN STREET

Lone Opponent of Three Says Affair Started Over Her Mother.

Mrs. Arabella Coleman, 27 years old, 1435A Montana avenue; Mrs. Irma Forestner, 3867 Shaw avenue; Mrs. Freda Dieckmeyer, 20, of 4216W Page boulevard, and Mrs. Lulu Wollet, 31, of 3434 Montana avenue, were fined $5 and costs each in Police Court yesterday on charges of disturbing the peace, which grew out of a fight Jan. 17. The cases were originally set for hearing Jan. 18, but had been continued to yesterday.

Policemen testified that in responding to a telephone call on Jan. 17 they found the four women fighting in front of 3434 Montana avenue, and separated them with difficulty. It was learned at the station, they said, that Mrs. Wollet was the single opponent of the other three women, who are sisters.

Mrs. Wollet testified she and Mrs. Coleman were friends until a year ago, when, she said, they disagreed. On Jan. 17 her mother visited her, she said, and when she started home Mrs. Wollet's 10-year-old daughter accompanied her to a car. The girl, she said, returned, and said that on the way to the car Mrs. Coleman made remarks to Mrs. Wollet's mother. Mrs. Wollet said she went outside and found Mrs. Coleman and her two sisters who were visiting her, who challenged her to fight.

Mrs. Coleman and her sisters denied that they had made slighting remarks about Mrs. Wollet's mother, and said that Mrs. Wollet started the fight.

A parole officer reported that the four women had refused to make an amicable settlement out of court, and then Judge Ittner fined them all.

LANSING TELLS HOW HE AND WILSON DIFFERED ON LEAGUE

our part thus to toy with the inherent sovereignty of China. The letter, a strong document, is quoted. It makes a complete case against Japan and for China. But the President finally consented under duress of the threat of Japan not to sign. Lansing told him this was bluff and bluster but the President did not think so. Moreover, Japan entered into a verbal understanding to restore Shangtung to China under her own volition within a prescribed time. However, Lansing found this unsatisfactory because Japan would not write the terms into the treaty because to do so would recognize the justice of the suspicion aimed at her by the other parties. Moreover, what Japan would return would be only the shell of sovereignty; by the time that was done the life and industry of the sacred peninsula would be to all intents and purposes Japanese.

He Ignores Covenant's Beneficence.

In all these objections and protests against the treaty and the league, Lansing apparently takes no consideration of the fact that the Covenant itself provides a way—an irresistible way—for righting any temporary imperfections that might have been woven into the fabric of the instrument itself.

The President seems to have kept on courteous terms with his Secretary notwithstanding the latter's hostile attitude, however, until the testimony of William C. Bullitt before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in which this former attache of the American Commission stated that Lansing told him in Paris that, if the United States Senate knew the facts about the treaty, and the Shantung settlement, it would defeat the treaty; and that if the American people knew it, they would scorn and repudiate it. Lansing says he was misquoted grossly in this testimony, but there was just enough truth in it to make a flat denial impossible. He had said that some parts of the treaty were bad, and that the Shantung settlement was bad, but he had gone no farther and had, indeed, declared that it was the duty of the Senate to ratify the pact as it stood because the world needed peace and the President had done all he could do in the interest of right and justice. He telegraphed to the President, then on his speaking tour of the West, suggesting that he be authorized to issue a statement of just what he had told Bullitt. But the President made no reply. Then came the Chief Executive's illness. Following the beginning of convalescence came the letter dismissing Lansing.

The book makes no mention of the chief acts of usurpation and disloyalty with which the President charged Lansing in his dismissal letter—calling the cabinet together during Mr. Wilson's illness and anticipating the President's decisions on matters of foreign policy—presumably the commitment of the United States to a threatening attitude towards Mexico in the case of an American who had been kidnaped under circumstances that later developed some sinister aspects. Thus the way is open for treating of them in a later volume, if the former Secretary feels justified in writing it.

Men—The Easter Suit—
Should Embody Style and Quality at a Price That Meets the New Conditions

THIS new condition means that lower prices are a prominent feature of the clothing we are presenting for your approval. But remember, also, that every garment possesses the foremost examples of style art and tailoring skill.

This is particularly true of the lines of clothing we show from the House of Kuppenheimer. They are thoroughly good—the materials are pure wool—there is a fit and finish that is of a high standard.

And we believe, also, that you are interested in what clothes of this character are selling for. When we tell you that a Suit bearing the Kuppenheimer label is priced at $35, you know that prices have been adjusted to meet the new conditions, and that you can purchase your new Easter Suit with the assurance of getting as good clothes value as is possible to obtain at $35.00.

We would like to have you come in and see these Suits and pass judgment upon them. There are better grades, too—the prices ranging upward to $75.00. (Fourth Floor.)

2 POLICEMEN CHARGED WITH NEGLECT OF DUTY

Records Show They Made Only Three Arrests Since Dec. 28 on Beat Where Gangsters Meet.

Charges of neglect of duty were filed by Capt. Doyle of the Central Police District today against Patrolman Patrick Stapleton and his walking partner, Probationary Patrolman Michael Leary. Their beat is from Twelfth street to Twenty-second street between Poplar street and Chouteau avenue. They have not been suspended, but have been cited to appear before the board at next Tuesday's meeting.

Records show that between May 15 and Dec. 18 last they made more than 100 arrests, but between Dec. 28 and March 21 last they have made only three arrests. Capt. Doyle said this seemed to show a remarkable falling off in police activity in view of the fact that many gangsters are known to gather at saloons and poolrooms on the beats covered by Stapleton and Leary. This is the beat on which, at 1457 Chouteau avenue, last Monday, Sergt. Matthews found a still in operation and a large quantity of mash.

Stapleton and Leary as an excuse for the falling off in the arrests said they had brought in many known police characters prior to Dec. 28 last, and that in most cases where no liquor or weapons were found on the prisoners they were released the next morning.

Capt. Doyle told them the responsibility for releasing prisoners rested on him, and such releases did not relieve them of the duty of making arrests.

Stapleton has been on the force about 20 years. When in the Carr Street District about 15 years ago he was noted for his activities against the Bottoms Gang. He was shot by Tony Foley, leader of the gang, and for this shooting Foley was sent to the penitentiary for five years.

During 1920, the POST-DISPATCH printed 35,719 HOUSES, FLATS, etc., For Rent ADS—13,495 more than the THREE other St. Louis newspapers COMBINED.

GRAVE OF UNKNOWN SOLDIER KEPT FRESH WITH FLOWERS

Correspondence of the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, March 7.—Flowers are brought by an unceasing pilgrimage of mourners and placed on the slab that marks the grave of the unidentified French soldier under the great Arch of Triumph that dominates the western part of the city.

The pile of flowers and wreaths is fed with fresh contributions from early morning until late at night. There seems no end to the little ceremonies by organizations held at the grave to honor the war dead. Little shop girls bring small bunches of violets that cost 50 centimes; statesmen passing through Paris place there great wreaths as tributes from their countries.

Since Nov. 11, 1920, when the unknown soldier was placed under the arch, there has always been a group or crowd of mourners at the shrine of the dead. There has always been a huge pile of flowers. On Sundays, thousands stream there from the 12 avenues that converge at the Etoile, as the circular open space surrounding the arch is called, and there is a procession of people with bared heads passing by the mound of flowers.

Many teachers bring their classes and there is a movement afoot to arrange that in each of the public schools of Paris a small contribution shall be collected on a separate day in each school to buy flowers to be placed on the slab by a delegation of honor pupils, so that there may be such a tribute of the children of France to the war dead every day of the year.

of 10 Portland place, coal operator and railroad builder; C. K. Reifsnider of 5249 Lindell boulevard, president of the Midland Publishing Co.; William F. Blanke of 5215 Lindell boulevard, president of the William F. Blanke Can & Manufacturing Co.; Robert McKittrick Jones of 6 Westmoreland place, retired; Samuel J. Keiffer of 5918 De Giverville avenue, president of the Keiffer Drug Co.; James J. Mullen of 5277 Lindell boulevard, vice president of the Moloney Electric Co.; E. D. Nims of 56 Portland place, president of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.; Frank H. Gerhart of 4900 Lindell boulevard, president of the F. H. & C. B. Gerhart Real Estate Co., and John P. Woods of 5291 Lindell boulevard, vice president of John C. Kupferle Foundry Co.

E. J. Russell, of the architectural firm of Mauran, Russell & Crowell, chairman of the City Plan Commission, said his commission had never taken into consideration the idea of elevating the tracks, in the belief that depression is the only solution and that the grade crossing should be eliminated, as a practical improvement for the city.

Best Residence Section Affected.

It was pointed out by Russell that the best residence districts of St. Louis and St. Louis County adjoin in this vicinity, with Delmar and Lindell boulevards as the only connecting thoroughfares, both crossed at grade by the Wabash. In answer to a question of Commissioner Flad, Russell said he could suggest no effective means of artistic screening of a railroad embankment. The city intends to have landscape work done on the banks of the depression if its scheme is carried out.

Testimony similar to Russell's was given by Harland Bartholomew, engineer of the City Plan Commission; Nelson Cunliff, general manager of the Home and Housing Association and former Park Commissioner; Henry Wright, chairman of the Public Service Committee, St. Louis Chapter, American Institute of Architects, and Louis La Beaume, an architect and former president of the St. Louis chapter.

H. W. Hayes of Boston, an engineer for the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities, who acted as consulting engineer for St. Louis, said the plan of the city is feasible for the railroad to carry out. The railroad has contended it it not. W. W. Horner, chief engineer of sewers and paving, said the railroad would be protected from floods and that the River des Peres would be made a clised sewer.

ROBBERS PUSH DOOR OPEN

M. J. Fleming, an landscape gardener, notified the police at University City last night that at 9:30 o'clock three robbers had pushed open the back door of his home, at 6628 Etzel avenue, and pointing revolvers at him and his wife, demanded all the money that was in the house. He offered them $10, he said, but they forced him out into the back yard and took $80 from his pockets. They ran to an automobile standing in front of the house and drove away, he said.

He said he had known two of the men for many years, giving their names. Later one of the men named by him was arrested and is being held at University City.

The MYSTERIOUS RIDER By Zane Grey

REMINISCENCES OF CHIEF OF WAR ARTISTS

Sir William Orpen Gives Impressions of Peace Conference Notables and French Belles.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, March 25.—Sir William Orpen, chief of the British War and Peace Conference artists, in a book published today gives racy intimate reminiscences of his experiences at the front and in Paris—his clashes with official red tape, his impressions of French belles, getting drunk at general headquarters; how it feels to paint a dead Tommy, close-ups of famous peace delegates he painted, and cynical word pictures of the conference and the signing of the treaty at Versailles. All colorfully told with his apparent dislike of the pompousness, pettiness and hypocrisy.

President Wilson turned down Orpen's request for a sitting, saying he was too busy with the conference. When Orpen told this to Col. House the latter exclaimed, "What damned rot! He's got a damned sight more time than I have."

Col. House arranged a sitting, which Orpen describes as follows:

"The President arrived smiling, as usual. He was very genial and sat well, but even then he was very nervous and twitchy. He told endless stories, mostly harmless and some witty. He had great admiration for Lord Robert Cecil."

Elsewhere Orpen writes thus of Wilson and the Peace Conference:

"He occasionally rose and spoke of love and forgiveness. Lloyd George just went on working. Balfour would quietly sleep. Wilson made a great hit in the press with his smile."

Lansing Drew Caricatures.

Lansing drew caricatures of different delegates. Wilson told me he had a large collection of these. Lansing was very good about giving a sitting and we had a good time, as he loves paintings. He paints himself in spare time."

The number of Orphan's "run-ins" with his superior officers showed how some of the latter were totally ignorant of art and the way artists work. Orpen writes:

"After I had been at Amiens about a fortnight, going out to the Somme batlefield early in the morning and coming back when it was dark, I received a message to ring up the Colonel at Rollencourt, who said:

"'Don't you know you must report to me and show me what work you have been doing? Are you aware that you are being paid for your services? Report to me and show me your work regularly.'

"The wonderful Colonel expected me to work all day, and apparently in the evening take what I had done and show it to him—the distance by motor to him and back was something like 110 miles."

That episode, says Orpen, sowed the first seeds of hostility against him at the Intelligence Section of General Headquarters, and "they made me suffer as much was in their power."

Verdicts On French Girls.

Orpen has liberally sprinkled his book with paragraphs giving favorable verdicts on a number of French women and girls, mostly hotel and cafe employes, some of whose fame is known to every officer and man who served in France. There is "Marguerite, who was Queen of the British army in Picardy, and Susanne—one smile and those wonderful lads would go back to their gunpits—or who knows where—proud."

Again, he writes from Amiens:

"Marcelle's black eyes smiled at us from behind a desk with its books, fruit, cheese and bottles; smiled so well that had she been different she might have outpointed Marguerite. But no! her bookkeeping and occasional smile were enough for Marcelle and she did them both exceedingly well."

In Paris his artist's eye fell on the daughter of Marquis Sinongi, whom he painted, and he writes:

"Curled up on a sofa was his daughter, surely one of the most beautiful women I have ever seen, soft and gentle, with her lovely little white feet." But his supreme mention of the gentler sex, wherein he shares honors with Lord Riddell, who was the British delegation's press representative at the Paris conference, is this passage about the famous authoress, Elinor Glyn:

"I introduced Lord Riddell to Mrs. Glyn and we had some very amusing out-of-door dinners at Laurent's. During dinner and afterward Mrs. Glyn would teach us many things about life, nature and love—why women lost their lovers; why men didn't keep their wives; the correct way to make love; the stupid ordinary methods of the male, what the female expected; what she ought to expect, and what she mostly got. It was all very pleasant, the modulated voice of Elinor under the trees and the tinkling stars. Her elocution was certainly remarkable, and Lord Riddell's dinners excellent."

COCOANUT OIL MAKES A SPLENDID SHAMPOO

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonsful of Mulsified will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.

BANKRUPTCY PETITIONS FILED BY BANKER AND STORE HE HEADED

Dunklin County Institutions Ascribe Decline in Cotton Prices as Cause for Reverses.

Following the filing Monday of a voluntary petition in bankruptcy by J. B. Hale, a banker and merchant of Cardwell, Dunklin County, Mo., similar petitions were filed today, also in the Federal Court here, for the Farmers' Gin and Store Co. of Arbyrd, in the same county, of which Hale was president, and for Vance Redman, who was secretary.

The decline last year in cotton prices is ascribed as the cause of all the petitions. The store, it is set forth, sold goods to farmers, taking, in exchange, cotton which they had raised. The cotton underwent a decline, and had to be sold at a loss. The assets of the store are given as $36,599.84, and its liabilities as $99,273.56. Redman gives his assets as $4330 and his liabilities at $96,674.55. Hale's liabilities were stated as $405,567, and his assets as $161,007.

WASHINGTON EXPECTS GERMANY TO RELEASE AMERICANS SOON

War Department Intimates U. S. Commander on Rhine Has Been Negotiating With Berlin.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—The release of Carl Nuef and Franz Zimmer, American detectives sentenced to jail in Germany as a result of their efforts to capture Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, American draft evader, is expected by the War Department. Officials intimated today that Brigadier-General Allen, commanding the American forces on the Rhine, had been in communication with the German authorities on the subject and that favorable action on the request for the release of the men was to be expected.

This was the first intimation from the War Department that negotiations for the release of the men were under way.

RISK ALLOTMENTS TO END

Ruling Congress' Action Will Cut Off Payments July 31.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 25.—Military allotments and allowances under the war risk insurance act will expire automatically on July 31, Comptroller Warwick of the Treasury holds in a ruling made public today.

The ruling was based on the resolution adopted by the last Congress repealing most of the special war-time acts. War Risk Insurance Bureau officials were unable today to give accurate figures concerning the number of soldier, sailor and marine allotments which would be affected, but they said thousands of men still in the service, both at home and in the American army on the Rhine, were maintaining the allotments to their relatives and that the Government likewise was supplying an equal amount.

JUNIOR IN ORATORICAL CONTEST

Stanley Wallach Will Represent Washington U. in Valley Meet.

He won this distinction in competition try-out in Graham Memorial Chapel yesterday. J. B. Underwood of the same class in the same school, and S. E. Arnold, a college sophomore, were the other contestants. Prof Isaac Lippincott presided over the contest, and the judges were Profs. William R. Mackenzie, F. W. Shipley and W. B. Bodenhafer.

This was the first try-out in oratory for such an appointment ever held before the student body. Last year's representative of Washington University in this annual contest was Israel Treiman.

VERDICT IN SUIT OVER RECORDS

About $200,000 Awarded in Action Against Victor Company.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 25.—A Federal jury here today awarded $49,698 to R. M. Macy & Co. in its $500,000 suit for damages against the Victor Talking Machine Co., alleging restrictions placed on the sale of records for 1914 to 1917.

Under the Sherman law the amount will be trebled, making a total award of $149,094. Plaintiff also was given counsel fees which may equal $50,000. The Macy company charged that the Victor company would not sell it records in the years mentioned.

Body of Baby Found in Pullman Berth.

By the Associated Press.

CHILDRESS, Tex., March 25.—The body of an unidentified infant was found in the upper berth of a sleeping car on a train arriving here from Fort Worth today. Trainmen said they could not account for the presence of the body and physicians who examined it sad the baby had died from strangulation not more than two days ago. The child, a boy, was perfectly developed, weighed 10 pounds, and was wrapped in issues of a Dallas newspaper dated March 10 and 11.

Licenses Required for "Scooters."

Licenses will be required in St. Louis County for "scooters" and other gasoline propelled vehicles ordinarily used by children, according to a ruling of Circuit Judge McElhinney in the St. Louis County Juvenile Court today. He dismissed on costs cases against Alfred Budde, 13 years old, and Harry Brener, 14 years old, who were arrested on March 12 and charged with not having licenses for gasoline propelled vehicles, which in both cases were "scooters."

MENACE IN DECAY OF HOME LIFE POINTED OUT

The Rev. E. Combie Smith Stamps It as Greatest Danger Society Now Faces.

The decay of home life was stamped as the greatest danger of society today in an address last night at the Maple Avenue M. E. Church by the pastor, the Rev. E. Combie Smith. In part, his talk follows:

"The fundamental need of human society today is the re-establishing of the right home life. Out of the home, at last, flow all the forces that make our educational system, our religion, and our society what they ought to be. Is it not true that the greatest danger point in our society today is the decay of the home life of the people? We are surrendering more and more to the materialistic conditions of our modern life, and the home circle is broken up. The family altar has decayed almost universally, and more and more we are going outside of our homes for recreation and pleasure. With multitudes, it seems that home is the last place they want to be. When everything else has played out, they go home. Instead of gathering around the fireside or at the piano, as in the olden days, for loving fellowship and joyful songs, as soon as supper is over, the members of the average home today go to the theater, the movies, the dance or the card party.

Children's Attitude Shocking.

"Already we see the evil fruitage from this wrong sowing! The pertness of small children, their sophistification, and their flippant attitude toward their parents and grown up people is often shocking. A house is not a home. Home is a spiritual fact; home is an atmosphere. One poor room—the humblest tenement in the city—may be a true home if only the right spirit is there. Upon parents rests the responsibility of restoring the old home life. We need to return to the old-fashioned habits which made our fathers great and our mothers good. The age at every point is living too fast. We are grinding ourselves to pieces, body, mind and soul.

"It is my conviction that the modern theater and movie show have done more than any other single force to mar and destroy the holier things of human life. Especially have they harmed the home life and the children of today. The movie show maker thinks the public wants the wicked side of life exposed, and he makes assault upon the fundamentals of civilization. The crook is made a joke. Stealing is funny. Swearing is entertaining. The double meaning is the end of wit. Infidelity and illicit love are the real spice of life. The silly, smoking, swearing, shocking woman is the regular fellow. The home is tame. The shop and store are drudgery. Prohibition is a calamity. The clergyman is a fool and the church a misty memory of those Sunday school days. Even mother is no longer revered and father is always a silly, sly, old rascal. God is a convenient swear word and heaven is the biggest joke of all.

Selfish Mothers Can't Make Homes.

"We cannot make home out of mothers who live for nothing than the vapid vanities of social life, with its selfish ambitions, its feverish haste and the vulgar efforts at display. The type of mother who turns over the care of the children to the tender mercies of hired hands and spends her time gambling for cut glass punch bowls at bridge whist parties or attending the theater in a half-dressed condition can hardly, by any stretch of charity, be called a good and sensible mother.

"Nor can we make home life what it ought to be out of fathers flippant, selfish, luxury-loving, church-neglecting, who are inclined to smile at scantity and wink at evil. These men who play golf Sunday mornings, ride in the motor cars Sunday afternoons and lounge around their homes Sunday nights, neglecting the very institution which fosters the virtue and makes the character of their offspring, have only themselves to blame if their sons and daughters ignore the high behests of heaven for clean, moral, unselfish living."

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhance its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

CLERK IN CITY OFFICE STABBED ON STREET

He Says Young Man Unknown to Him Attacked Him on Way From Republican Meeting.

Saul Feigenbaum, 30 years old, of 3408 Bell avenue, a clerk in the office of the City Comptroller, staggered into an oil-filling station at the southwest corner of Grand and Cass avenues at 11 o'clock last night suffering from a serious stab wound in the abdomen and another on the head. He was taken in an ambulance to the city hospital.

He told policemen that after leaving a meeting of the Twentieth Ward Republican Club at 1802 North Grand avenue and when walking south on Grand avenue, between Lucky street and Cass avenue, in the direction of his home, he was attacked without provocation by a young man whom he did not know. He said that the assailant made no remark to him and ran away after stabbing him.

Policemen interviewed several men at the club, but obtained no information throwing any light on the assault. They said that Feigenbaum had left the club at about 10:30 p. m., half an hour before he appeared at the oil-filling station.

Butcher, Stabbed, Says Woman Wounded Him.

Roy Harder, 28 years old, of 3508 North Broadway, a butcher, staggered into a drug store at Eleventh street and Cass avenue at 5 p. m. yesterday and asked for treatment for a stab wound in the left chest and a scalp wound.

On the way to the city hospital he told policemen he had been stabbed by Mrs. Anna Bell, 29 years old, wife of John Bell, of 1438 North Eleventh street, when he sought to visit at the Bell home. Mr. and Mrs. Bell were arrested and taken to the hospital. Bell insisted that he, and not his wife, had stabbed Harder. He said there had been a grudge between them for two years and last night Harder visited his home intoxicated and started a quarrel. He said Harder attempted to strike him and he drew a knife and in cutting Harder broke the blade.

At the hospital Bell and his wife were taken before Harder for identification. He repeated his accusation that the wife had stabbed him and jumped from his cot and struck her in the face. Sergt. Thomas Courtney, who interfered, was struck on the chin, suffering a slight cut. Harder was finally restrained, and both Bell and his wife taken to the station where they furnished bond.

NEW JUDGE NOT LIKELY TO BE A ST. LOUISAN

Gov. Hyde to Go Outside City for Successor to Judge Reynolds.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—Gov. Hyde has about decided not to appoint a St. Louisan to the judgeship of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, left vacant by the death of Judge George D. Reynolds.

The view expressed by the Governor to some of those who have conferred with him about the appointment is that St. Louis now has two Judges of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, and that the third Judge should be a resident of the outside portion of the court district, in which 23 counties are included. Judge Becker lives within the city of St. Louis, while Judge Allen lives at 7001 Waterman avenue, in St. Louis County. However, the Governor counts him a St. Louisan.

By laying down a rule on the ground of residence, the Governor escapes the necessity for taking sides in St. Louis Republican factional politics. The influence of Mayor Kiel's machine is behind City Counselor Raues, the Mayor's relative, who is being urged for the appointment on the ground that he came near obtaining the nomination for the judgship in the primary last August. Collector Koeln and Edward W. Foristel have represented that another selection would be more acceptable to them.

The Governor's first choice appears to have been Circuit Judge John W. McElhinney of St. Louis County, but Judge McElhinney has notified the Governor that he does not deside the place. His term as Circuit Judge expires in 1922, the same time at which the term of the Judge to be appointed to the appellate bench will expire.

Wilson Cramer of Cape Girardeau County, a member of the Legislature, has been considered favorably by Gov. Hyde for the place, but a legal obstacle has been found in the provision that a member o fthe Legislature shall not be appointed to any other place during the term for which he was elected to the Legislature. Simon G. Nipper of Potosi, now serving as a Commissioner of the Court of Appeals, has been suggested for the appointment. Clarence A. Barnes of Mexico is also mentioned for the place.

Glass of Salts Cleans Kidneys

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acid so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.

City News in Brief

MISCELLANEOUS

WILLIAM ZEBROWITZ, 16 YEARS old, of 2203 Cass avenue, a patient at the city hospital, climbed down a fire escape from Ward 14 last night and escaped. A short time later policemen saw the boy attired in hospital garb entering a yard at 1604 South Twelfth street and took charge of him.

AUGUST BURJECK, 35 YEARS OLD, OF 2228 Gravois avenue, a motorman on the Lee avenue line, sufered an injury to his right eye and cuts on the face last night when a window in the front vestibule of his his car was broken by a stone hurled from a beanshooter by a boy in the street near Fifteenth street and St. Louis avenue. The boy ran away.

FRED HEGGI, 40 YEARS OLD, OF 1017A South Seventh street, was internally hurt and his right arm fractured at 11 p. m. yesterday when he was knocked down by an automobile driven by Julius Greibside of 2632A Park avenue, at Eleventh and Market streets. He was taken to the city hospital.

$27,000 VERDICT FOR POLICEMAN

NEW YORK, March 25.—A New York policeman, Walter T. Menke, obtained a verdict of $27,000 damages yesterday from a jury which tried his complaint against a retired capitalist, George F. Simons, whose rented automobile crashed into Menke's motor cycle a year ago. Menke sued for $50,000, charging that in the collision he sustained a linear fracture of the skull.

In charging the jury, Supreme Court Justice Tierney said the fact that the plaintiff was a policeman injured when performing duties did not prevent him from asserting his claim, for the policeman had the same right as a private citizen. "It is no part of a policeman's contract of employment," he added, "that he barter his life or body for the wages he receives."

RUSSIAN WORKERS SAID TO BE ABANDONING COMMUNISM

Petrograd Newspapers Report the Adoption of Extreme Individualism in Its Stead.

HELSINGFORS, March 25.—Many Russian workers have abandoned communism and have adopted the most extreme form of individualism, it is said in Petrograd newspapers received here. This step, it is said, came as a result of the abolition of the ban on trading foodstuffs with peasants, which was the aftermath of the Kronstadt rebellion. In some instances workmen have begun manufacturing for their personal use in trading, articles they believe peasants desire.

In one of his recent addresses on the economic situation in Russia, Nikolai Lenine, Bolshevik Premier, said: "We must grant freer economic relations between workers and peasants. As a matter of fact, we hitherto have acted in a too military manner, and in some cases have gone too far in nationalizing trade. If some communists thought that the organization of a socialistic state was possible in three years, they were dreamers. Freedom of economic relations means free trade, and free trade signifies return to capitalism. A practical solution of this question is most difficult, but it must be found."

WHAT A TONIC DOES FOR YOU

AND WHY YOU NEED IT IN SO MANY INSTANCES WHEN YOU ARE RUN DOWN, NERVOUS OR HAVE HAD TO ENDURE GREAT STRAIN OR WORRY OF ANY KIND.

A tonic is something which puts tone, energy, strength and endurance into you. It gives a push to your heart, making it pump the blood over your body more vigorously; it makes your lungs expand more fully and thereby take up more strength-giving oxygen from the air you breathe; it makes your kidneys work better and carry off the poisons which would otherwise accumulate in the body; it makes your digestive apparatus perform its work better and give your blood the material it needs for feeding and sustaining your body; it makes your brain act more vigorously and enables you to think more accurately and for long periods without fatigue, thus bringing you greater success in whatever business, profession or undertaking you are engaged.

When you are run down, nervous, half sick, down-hearted and about ready to give up, experience of many years has shown that one of the best remedies to pull you out of this bad predicament is good old organic iron. But be sure the iron you take is organic iron, the kind that is found in plants, and not metallic iron which people usually take. Organic iron may be had from your druggist under the name of Nuxated Iron. It often increases the strength, energy and endurance of weak, nervous, tired-out folks in two weeks' time. Beware of substitutes. Always look for the word "Nuxated" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. Sold by all druggists.

LABOR'S LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM PUT THROUGH

Passage of One Bill and Defeat of Two Others at Jefferson City Pleases Leaders.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—With the final passage of the workmen's compensation act and the defeat in the Senate on the same day of the McCullough-Bennett anti-strike law, the Legislative Committee that is representing organized labor here has accomplished everything it set out to do, it was announced by R. F. Woods, president of the Missouri Federation of Labor.

The compensation bill was passed finally in almost the shape it was introduced, with a compromise provision for competitive insurance in which the State can enter if so desired. The law originally was known as a compromise measure, having been agreed to by both representatives of organized labor and the Associated Industries of Missouri. It contains 19 amendments written into the law that was defeated when submitted to a referendum at the general elecion last November.

Bill Never Had a Chance.

The defeat of the McCullough-Bennett law also is regarded by labor leaders as a victory, although it is declared the bill never had a chance of passage. The law would have prohibited strikes by workers operating under working agreements or contracts and sought to prohibit picketing at all times.

Failure of the Vandeventer law, that was termed the "inquisition" measure, was a victory gained early in the session. The law, as drawn by Representative Vandeventer of Christian County, provided that a Prosecuting Attorney and a Justice of the Peace could constitute a court of inquiry with powers similar to those of a grand jury. The bill was reported out of committee in the House without recommendation but was defeated by an overwhelming vote when it was up for engrossment. A duplicate bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Bennett was defeated in committee.

Labor and Other Measures.

The labor leaders, while interested in child labor and minimum wage laws, centered their efforts on the three bills mentioned here, and contented themselves with an indorsement of the other measures and the lending of their moral support to a committee of women headed by Mrs. Nelle Burger of Springfield, who sought to lobby the bills through. The minimum wage laws were defeated in committee, but the Legislature passed a resolution providing for a commission to investigate and study the needs of the State and recommend and submit laws along this line at the next regular session.

A bill that would have provided bath houses for miners at all mines in the State failed of passage because it was a little too far down on the calendar at the end of the session.

CENSORSHIP BILL KILLED

Dakota Measure Passed Once, Dies When Backers Force Issue.

PIERRE, S. D., March 25.—Legislative psychology could not be better illustrated than by the temperament exhibited by the South Dakota Legislature in dealing with the recent bill to establish a cencorship of motion pictures in the state. Though passed overwhelmingly in both Houses, the measure will not be written into the statute books of the State, at least for the present.

The difficulty started when forces behind the bill opposed the liberalization of the Sunday blue laws, and endeavored to play the censorship measure to force the opponents of the blue laws into line. As a result of that effort, the lower house refused to adopt an amendment, an emergency clause tacked on in the Senate, and the entire measure died a natural death in various conference committees. The censorship bill was one of the first to be introduced and one of the last to be fought over before the session ended

No Blue Law Drive by W. C. T. U.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 25.—Plans of the Women's Christian Temperance Union for a national membership drive have caused erroneous reports that the organization contemplated a national campaign in support of blue Sundays, according to Mrs. Margaret Munns, national treasurer. Mrs. Munns explains that the W. C. T. U. is planning nothing more than its usual work in support of observance of the Sabbath. The publicity department denied that Miss Anna A. Gordon, president, had ever issued statements saying that a national blue law campaign was planned.

Auto Show Held in a Church.

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 25.—Fort Worth this week had an automobile show which was held in the auditorium of a church. The auditorium of the First Baptist Church was cleared, the pews being removed, and the interior was decorated with vines, flowers and streamers. The exhibits of automobile and accessory dealers were in the center of the room.

Refusal of Work as Suicide Cause.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 25.—Statistics showing that 254 married persons and 112 single persons killed themselves in Chicago from January, 1920, to January, 1921, were given out by the Coroner yesterday. "Domestic troubles and financial worries caused a large proportion of these deaths," said a statement issued with the statistics. "A surprisingly large number of suicides, however, were caused by the action of employers in refusing work to men over 35."

Uncle Sam Pays Only 2 Per Cent on Savings in His PostofficeBanks, But No St. Louis District Investor Has Any Excuse For Getting Less Than 7 Per Cent; Here's the Plan:

The New York Nation complains because the Federal Government pays only 2 per cent interest on deposits in postoffice savings banks, and urges that the rate be raised to 4 per cent, to encourage savings.

Here in the St. Louis district no one who is willing to invest savings for income has any excuse for getting less than 7 per cent.

Union Electric Light & Power Co. preferred stock, now on sale, pays $7 a year in cash dividends on each $100 share—$1.75 every 90 days. This income is regular and dependable.

The number of St. Louis district investors who own shares of this stock is now well over 5000. They know it is worth what it costs. They know its income can be counted on, through good and bad years alike. They know that in case of need, the Company will re-sell their shares for them, without charging a penny for the service.

You can buy these shares—any number from one share up—at our SECURITIES DEPARTMENT, room 201 Union Electric Bldg., 12th and Locust Streets, St. Louis, or at Union Electric's offices in St. Louis, St. Charles, Franklin, Jefferson and Perry counties. MAIL ORDERS FILLED PROMPTLY BY REGISTERED LETTER. The price is $100 a share for cash; $102 on a ten-payment plan, under which buyers pay $10.20 a month for ten months on each share, draw 5% interest on their payments, and can withdraw all payments WITH INTEREST, any time before the last payment is due. Mail or telephone us your address and we will send a salesman, or a circular, as you prefer, to explain this offer in detail.

The Pirates Will Give Yellowhorse a Trial, but White Mule Has Been Barred

Paulette Barred; Accepted "Loan" From St. Louisan

ZORK AND FARRAR NAMED

Dispatches from Chicago announcing the disbarment of Eugene A. Paulette, one time first baseman for the Browns and later for the Cardinals, came as a shock to St. Louis fans, no suspicion having attached to his name during his stay here.

Paulette was a member of the Philadelphia National League club and had been counted on to cover first this season. The ruling banishing him from organized baseball handed down yesterday by Baseball Commissioner Kennesaw M. Landis will force the already crippled Phillies to use a rookie at the initial station.

The story Paulette told the commissioner which resulted in his exile from the national game involved two St. Louisans, one of whom has been a conspicuous figure in "gamblers' row" at the ball park for many years, and the other a well-known pool and billiard player, formerly city and State champion. The men are, respectively, Carl Zork, president of a shirt waist manufacturing company, and Elmer Farrar.

Offered to "Betray His Team."

According to Paulette's evidence he had never "thrown" any baseball game and he added that during the last season he had held himself aloof from corrupting associations. According to Judge Landis' statement, however, the fact remains "that he offered to betray his team and that he put himself in the vicious power of alleged gamblers."

Paulette admitted to the commissioner that he received money from Elmer Farrar of St. Louis as a loan, which he has not repaid; that the money was given to him by Farrar some time after an interview with Farrar and Zork, in which interview he said that Farrar and Zork urged Paulette to co-operate with them in gambling on ball games.

Subsequently, Paulette wrote Farrar asking for more money, which he did not obtain. In this letter Paulette mentions the names of two other ball players whom he claimed he could get to co-operate with him.

In his statement to the Commissioner, Paulette denied absolutely that he had any justification whatever for thus using the names of these players and asserted that so far as he knew they were honest men.

Zork's name was mentioned in connection with the world's series scandal of 1919, but the grand jury was unable to get him to go to Chicago to testify.

Subject Painful to Zork.

Zork, who resides at the Washington Hotel, told the Post-Dispatch this morning early that he had not seen the reference to himself in the Paulette case, and that he would have had nothing to say concerning it if he had seen it.

"The less you say about this matter the better I will like it," he said. "I am all shot to pieces, due to nervous breakdown and have just returned from five weeks' trip to Florida, where I went in search of relief.

"Sure I know Farrar. I have played billiards with him. I have nothing to say relative to his connection with the incident, as I know nothing about it."

APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVER FOR HORSE IS SUSTAINED

NEW YORK, March 25.—Appointment of Franklin Brooks as receiver of the $250,000 stallion Friar Rock, with authority to take possession of the famous steed, and ship him to John E. Madden at Lexington, Ky., was sustained yesterday by the appellate division of the Supreme Court.

The order restrained John E. Rossseter, who, with Madden, is joint owner of the horse, "from anywise interfering" with the receiver in taking possession of him.

Changes at Country Club.

A fivesome composed of the most prominent golfers in the city, played over the St. Louis Country Club course yesterday afternoon, in order to make suggestions for changes which will be made immediately. The players were: Stuart Stickney, Roger E. Lord, Clarence Wolff, Sterling Edmunds and Sam Davis. It is intended to add many new hazards before the golfers of the country assemble here for the national amateur championship.

Tigers Receive Letters.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 25.—Letters, gold basket balls and sweaters were awarded to eight members of the Missouri basketball team, Missouri Valley champions, here last night. The men honored were: Capt. G. Browning, Bond, Williams, Wackher, Bunker, A. Browning, Knight and Coffey.

Mayflower to Be Launched.

ESSEX, Mass., March 25.—The fishing schooner Mayflower, being built on yacht-like lines by Boston interests to defend the international fishing vessel cup won by the Gloucesterman Esperanto at Halifax, N. S., last fall, will be launched here April 12, it was announced yesterday. The vessel then will have time before the races next fall to qualify as a working fishing boat as prescribed by the rules.

Maranville and Good Pitching Are Expected to Make Pirates Strong Factor in Pennant Race

Uncertainty at Third Base Is Only Weak Spot in Team's Make-up; but Pirates, in Order to Fly High, Must Again Be Supported by Sensational Pitching From Adams.

No. 8—PITTSBURG PIRATES.

THE acquisition of Walter Maranville, shortstop, has made the Pittsburg Pirates a real pennant contender for the 1921 season. However, this player alone, will not make a flag winner of the Dreyfuss entry. There's a reason for this. In order to get the Rabbit from the Braves, the Corsairs had to give up Southworth and Nicholson, a pair of .300 hitters.

However, on paper, the team that George Gibson will send against the Chicago Cubs in the first game of the season, April 13, looms up as one of the best balanced in the big tent.

The Pirates have pitching strength; behind the plate they have Walter Schmidt, one of the best catchers in the N. L.; on the infield, only one position is really uncertain; while the club is still well supplied with outfield talent despite the loss of Southworth and Nicholson.

There is one real worry for Gibson in regard to his pitchers. Charles "Babe" Adams, the right-hander, who pitched sensational ball during 1920, is nearing the 40-year mark, and may be unable to turn in the same brand of baseball he did last season. Reports from Hot Springs, the Corsairs' training camp, however, indicate that the hero of the 1909 world's series is ready for the opening contest. Adams ranked second to Grover Alexander in efficiency in 1920.

Cooper Is Real Star.

Wilbur Cooper is regarded as one of the best left-handers in the Heydler circuit. He can be counted upon to hold up his end. Other regulars for Gibson are Carlson and Ponder, right-handers, and the former Brown, Earl Hamilton, southpaw.

In addition, Gibson has a flock of newcomers trying for positions. Among these is Yellowhorse, the Indian, who last season was with Little Rock, and who has been showing well in practice. Drew Rader, a young left-hander, also is doing well. Zinn, Herbst, Eberhart and Mangum loom up as the most likely candidates among the others.

With Schmidt to do the bulk of the catching, there is a lively fight on for the other places. Lee, Wilson, McCormick and Zinn are those striving for the other two jobs. Haeffner, who was with the club in 1920, has not reported because of salary differences and recently announced that he had retired from baseball.

If there is a weak spot on the Pittsburg club, it is in the infield, and this despite the addition of Maranville. "Lefty" Grimm, the St. Louis boy, will again cavort at the first sack, while Maranville is a certainty at short.

Tierney May Be Regular.

However, at second base there is a fight on. George Cutshaw was late in reporting and may have his hands full keeping Tierney, a Western League rookie, off the regular lineup. Cutshaw is a veteran and for a time it was figured that he would not join the club. Tierney has been used at second in all the games the Corsairs have played this spring.

Barnhart, a newcomer, who played a few games at third base for the club in 1920, is slated to start the campaign at that position. He is a good batter but an erratic fielder. If he falls down George Whitted, who is slated as a regular in the outfield, will be placed on the hot corner. The former Cardinal played the position the greater part of last year.

Max Carey, captain of the team, will again play center field, while Carson Bigbee is almost certain of the left field berth. These two players alone form an outfield, as they rank with the best ni the circuit when it comes to getting drives. Whitted, unless placed at third, will play right. Summa and Mokan, from the Southern League, and Rohwer, a University of California sensation, are the others striving for places.

If Gibson's pitchers hold up, and second and third are acceptably covered, the Pirates will be in the hunt at the finish.

The 1921 Pirates

WRAY'S COLUMN

Concerning Mr. Rocco Tozze.

MANY meteors have flashed unexpectedly across the fistic firmament, but few under circumstances as surprising as those attending the recent flare-up of one Rocco Tozze of Buffalo, who recently astonished the world and Richie Mitchell by his quick knockout of the Milwaukee person; and who later made good by beating Willie Jackson to the verge of cuckooland.

Rocco's battle name is "Rocky Kansas." The immediate consequence of his recent successes is a match with Benny Leonard for the lightweight championship. Coming after 11 uneventful years in the ring, Tozze's belated advent to fame enlists more than casual querry as to where he has been all these years, and to what detained him on his way up.

Investigation into Mr. Tozze's past reveals Sicilian ancestry, a cave-man physique and a reputation for rough and tumble gameness. Rocco also in his ring career acquired a list of no-decision bouts in his record longer than a referendum petition, a list singularly free from evidences of the knockout punch that won him fame against Mitchell.

• • •

One Kayo in Three Years.

ALTHOUGH a mauling fighter, year after year he went through his performances with scarcely a kayo to his name. From 1915 to 1918, inclusive, he scored but one knockout, and then over a party named Harry Cherry, unknown to fame, locally at least.

And yet, now we have Rocky all dolled up in a reputation for sleep-producing that would make a quart of ether jealous. How come?

As Kansas has met most of the good boys of the day, including both Benny Leonard and Willie Jackson, without exciting any great furor, the inference is that he is a late-blooming wonder and, with his powerful frame, may be just coming into his own, at an age when many of his class are beginning to slip.

• • •

Champion Not Trembling.

NEW YORK critics already visualize the crumbling of Benny Leonard before this Buffalo gorilla. One commentator writes:

"Leonard, while still a young man, is getting along in years and will sooner or later go the way of all title-holders. Rocky Kansas is the most likely member among all contenders to bump him off."

The fact of the matter is, Bo, that unless Kansas reverses all history he is more likely to be bumped off himself, when he meets Benjamin. Instead of getting along in years, Leonard is one year younger than Kansas, being still under 26. Benny has been in the ring one year less than Kansas.

With science, punch, experience, even years in his favor, Leonard need have little fear that the caveman will get him.

• • •

Too Far to Smell It.

ANNOUNCEMENTS state that Willie Meehan and Bill Brennan are expected to box in the city of Mexico April 13. As a pugilistic tid-bit this match ought to make Ptolemy II's mummy loosen up with a laugh. Judging by the way Willie slaps, he ought to put up a spanking fight.

This is one of those rare occasions when distance lends enchantment.

• • •

Murchison in Two Events.

AFTER surprising everybody by failing to defend his titles at the National A. A. U. indoor championships, Loren Murchison of St. Louis, now a member of the Illinois Athletic Club, will compete in the central championships Saturday night at Chicago in the 70-yard dash and the 440-yard run. At least he is entered in both.

Murchison's best distances have been under 300 yards, although he can go the 400 and run well. He made a creditable showing against the champion in this class, on one occasion, and will probably dominate the Central A. A. U. in both events. Jo Loomis appears to be his strongest rival in the dash.

• • •

Look Out for Paddock!

MURCHISON in the past has shown special adaptability for indoor events and his record this year is without a blemish in scratch races. In a medley sprint he won two of the three features and was tied in the third. That was his closest to defeat.

When the outdoor season comes it may be a different story, with Paddock, Scholz, Woodring and others in the field. Murchison is good, but not supreme on the cinders.

Rickey Releases Three Receivers And an Infielder

ORANGE, Tex., March 25.—Three young catchers and a first baseman were released by Manager Branch Rickey of the Cardinals today. The backstops turned loose are Tim Griesenbeck, Paul Eiffert and Frank Gerlach. Lucius James, the first sacker, drew his unconditional release.

The release of Griesenbeck, who returns to the Cisco (West Texas League) team, came as something of a surprise, as he was touted as a whirlwind last fall when he reported to the Cardinals. He had experienced a great season with Cisco and as he had the size and speed, together with an unpolished ability to catch, throw and hit, Rickey said last fall that he believed he could convert Griesenbeck into a major leaguer. However, Griesenbeck displayed no ambition this spring.

Eiffert, who hailed from the Sioux City (Western League) team, goes to Houston. Gerlach is a former Rice Institute boy. He is sadly lacking in experience.

The release of three catchers leaves the battle for the third backstop job on the club between McCarty and George Gilham, the youngster bought from the Suffolk (Virginia League) club.

Cardinals Shut Out Beaumont.

For the first time this season yesterday the Cardinal pitchers shut out the opposition. They defeated Beaumont (Texas League) club in the final of the series, 6—0. Our old friend, Marvelous Marvin Goodwin, was trotted out and he dished out a row of goose eggs for three rounds. Next came young Earl Brown, the Pittsburg semi-pro. He followed suit for two sessions. Bill Sherdel and Jess Haines each performed for two frames and showed the Texas Leaguers a lot of stuff.

Manager Rickey used almost every player on the squad in the game. He used four pitchers and as many catchers. There were also two performers for every outfield and infield job, save second base, where George Toporcer was kept all afternoon.

It was a treat to see Haines whizz them through. He fanned the second and third batters in the eighth frame, on three pitched balls to each.

This is an off-day in the schedule for the Cards. Tomorrow and Sunday they play the Buffaloes at Houston in the final games of the training camp schedule. After that they will return to Orange for three days' rest prior to departing for St. Louis to open the spring series against the Browns a week from tomorrow.

WOHLER WINS 3 EVENTS IN M. A. A. INDOOR MEET

The juvenile athletic competition at the Missouri A. A. last night, resultsulted in some excellent marks, considering that the participants ranged from 12 to 16 years of age. Wohler easily led in point scoring with three firsts and one second. The summary follows:

HOW doth the busy son and heir
He pulls his daddy's watch apart
To see what there is in it.

Which doesn't seem to worry dad
Or throw him in a panic;
He swells with pride and says,
"That lad
Will be a great mechanic."

WELL, WELL!

Now that the boxing game is mostly conducted by Boxing Commissions, Dempsey and Carpentier have decided to fight on a commission basis.

ONLY THREE VETERANS OF 1920 BASEBALL TEAM BACK AT YEATMAN HIGH

With only three letter men from the 1920 team back, Coach Hill of the Yeatman High School baseball team is at present working with a squad of 30 tossers in an effort to get together a formidable aggregation to send against Central in the first game of the Interscholastic League campaign, April 9.

Hill's chief duty will be to develop a battery to replace Roettger and Klausner, stars of last season's aggregation. Roettger was rated as the best pitcher in the league.

The most promising candidate among the pitchers is Strommell. He has plenty of speed and control and in addition is a good batter. "Fatty" Albrecht, second string catcher in 1920, is expected to do the receiving.

Schur, a recruit, is making a strong bid for the second base position vacated by Oetzel. Steinman will again be at short stop. This is his third season in the High School League. Yeck, a veteran, will again play right field.

PETE HERMAN KNOCKS OUT ADAMS IN FIRST WITH HARD BODY BLOWS

NEW YORK, March 25.—Pete Herman, former bantamweight champion, last night knocked out George Adams of New York in the first of a 15-round bout. It was Herman's first match since he knocked out Jimmy Wilde, British flyweight champion.

Augie Ratner of New York won the judges' decision over Jack Stone of New York in a 10-round preliminary bout. Ratner weighed 154 pounds and Stone 160¼. Stone was punished severely by Ratner's hard lefts.

Brownies to Quit Bogalusa After 31 Days of Practice

Regulars Defeated Yannigans in Benefit Game Yesterday By 8-2 Score.

BOGALUSA, La., March 25.—The Browns broke camp here today, the second team departing for Memphis, while the regulars will board a train this afternoon for New Orleans. A record was established for the Bogaluso training camp, the Browns not missing a single day's practice since arriving Feb. 21.

The Browns yesterday finished their work here with a charity ball game, the regulars defeating the Yannigans, 8 to 2. A total of 31 days continuous play was the record established by the club.

Urban Shocker and George Boehler worked on the firing line for the regulars yesterday and had little trouble holding their opponents safe. Shocker was found for three hits in five innings, while the Yannigans failed to get a single hit against Boehler in the last four rounds of the game. Big George displayed wonderful speed. He gave three bases on balls, all widely scattered and of no value.

Jacobson Heads Attack.

Baby Doll Jacobson led the regulars at bat, getting three hits against the offerings of Joe Deberry and Ray Richmond.

The regulars put over a pair of runs against Deberry in the first round on two walks, a single and an error. In the second Deberry was found for a pair of singles and a walk, resulting in two more runs for the regulars. Two hits in the fifth and a walk sent over another pair against Deberry.

Ray Richmond went to the hurling hill at the start of the sixth. He had plenty of speed, but was a trifle wild. Three walks in the sixth was followed by a double play and saved him from being scored against. He managed to get by safely in the seventh, but a pair of hits and two walks in the ninth allowed the regulars to score twice.

The regulars will have an off day at New Orleans tomorrow, and the players will take in the game between the New York Giants and the New Orleans club. Sunday the Browns will play the Giants, Monday and Tuesday they will play the Brooklyn champions.

Kenneth Williams is still out of the game with a bad throat, but the big outfielder states that he is feeling much better and that he expects to get into the games at New Orleans. John Tobin is at New Orleans. He informed Manager Fohl that his arm is feeling much improved and he is practicing with the New Orleans club.

FOLEY WILL HANDLE ST. LOUIS ALL-STARS

Willie Foley, manager of the Innisfails, will handle the St. Louis All-Stars in tomorrow's game against the Erie A. A. soccer eleven of Kearny, N. J., at Cardinal Field. Tate Brady will be in charge of Sunday's outfit. The Erie aggreagtion is scheduled to arrive here tomorrow morning.

It was announced yesterday by President Winton Barker that the games would be started at 3 o'clock. Paul McSweeney will referee tomorrow and Phil Kavanaugh Sunday.

Members of the Memphis municipal team have been invited to the grand and are expected to attend in a body.

NEW YORK, March 25.—Larry McLean, former major league backstop, who was shot and killed during a quarrel yesterday in a Boston saloon, was born in Frederickton, N. B., in July, 1881, and first drew attention in basball as a first baseman for the Newton, Mass., club in 1899.

He weighed 220 pounds and was 6 feet 5 inches tall. Part of the 1899 season and the following one McLean caught for the Frederickton team, and in 1901 was catcher for the St. John, N. B., club.

After half a season in St. Louis McLean was sold to the Portland (Pacific Coast League) club. He remained there until 1907, when the Cincinnati Nationals purchased him.

McLean played with the Reds until 1913, when he was transferred to the St. Louis Nationals, from whom the New York Giants bought him in August of that year. McLean played for the Giants until 1915.

Cochran All But Overtakes Belgian In Balkline Match

NEW YORK, March 25.—Welker Cochran, following a display of mediocre billiards and a bit of temper in the afternoon round, came back last night in his 4800-point match with Edourd Horemans at 18.2 balk line billiards at Daly's Academy. He scored a total of 883 points, while Horemans was running out his string of 400, and is now but a scant 94 points behind the Belgian.

As matters now stand, Horemans is leading, 3200 to 3106, but he must play sounder billiards in the closing blocks, to forestall Cochran's rush.

Thanks to the fact that he led the temperamental Welker, 400 to 237, in the afternoon match, Horemans came to the table last night intrenched behind a lead of 2800 to 2223, and with a run of 199 in the third inning further increased his advantage at that time by a matter of 157 points. But immediately thereafter the Belgian played the worst billiards of the match, and was outclassed by Cochran's sound display.

Horemans averaged only 25 in the evening, Cochran 55 3-16, and both are now nearly equal in grand averages, Horemans' being 51 38-62, and Cochran's 50 56-62. Both grand averages are well above Jake Schaefer's record.

Horemans Runs 264.

In the afternoon Horemans was in top form and scored his highest run of the match in the seventh inning with a cluster of 264. He missed with only 3 to run out his string, and his average for the afternoon was appreciably cut when it took him three innings to get these three points.

Young Jake Schaefer, who defeated Horemans in an exhibition match three weeks ago, left last night for his home in California after refusing to meet the Belgian in a return engagement.

On hearing this, Albert G. Cutler offered to play Horemans a handicap match at 18.1 balkline at Kline's Strand Academy next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. It was stipulated that Horemans play 2400 points to Cutler's 1800 and, so far as can be recalled, it will be the first professional handicap match in 10 years.

Wool Demand Increases.

BOSTON, Mass., March 25.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"The demand for wool has increased during the week, manufacturers apparently being convinced that the emergency tariff will be passed in the not distant future and deeming it wise to cover some of their needs at least now. Prices do not appear to have advanced particularly, although the market is steadier.

"The foreign markets have receded everywhere, with American buying very limited in the foreign primary markets, although buying of wool tops continues in England at lower prices. The mill situation is steadier and some business is being done more or less regularly. There is little new reported from the West. Mohair is dull and unchanged."

Chinch Bugs in Missouri.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 25.—The warm weather has brought forth an unprecedented crop of chinch bugs and Hessian flies, according to a statement issued by Jewell Mayes, Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture. The wheat fields in many counties are being invaded by insect pests, he says.

The farmers have been able to graze their livestock all winter on the heavy crop of grass that has flourished through the cold weather months, according to Mayes.

IRREGULARITIES IN SALE OF LIQUOR BY DRUG STORE ALLEGED

Revoking of Permit Considered Following Arrest on Drug Act Violation Charge.

Following the arrest Wednesday evening of Jacob Birenbaum, son of Dr. Max Birenbaum, president of the Carr Street Pharmacy Co., on the charge of violating the Harrison act by selling narcotics at the company's store, Fourteenth and Carr streets, the prohibition enforcement director yesterday took under advisement a citation to show cause why the company's permit to sell liquor at retail should not be revoked on account of alleged irregularities. The company has another store at Eighteenth and Carr streets.

Narcotic inspectors Wednesday evening sent a woman addict into the Fourteenth street store with two $5 bills, the serial numbers of which had been noted. She came out with 10 grains of morphine and 10 grains of cocaine. The two bills were found in the cash register. The woman said that Jacob Birenbaum sold the drugs to her. He was arrested. Later he was released on bond signed by his father.

Yesterday Fred Goldwasser, secretary and treasurer of the company, was examined with reference to the alleged liquor irregularities. Suspicion concerning narcotics was aroused when inspectors discovered that the company was buying more at wholesale than were being dispensed on prescriptions. They also observed numerous women visiting the stores in limousines. The wholesale price of the drugs for which the woman paid 50 cents a grain, is $9.60 an ounce. At 50 cents a grain the price obtained for an ounce would be $218.75.

TAX RATE INCREASE INDORSED

Safety Council Approves Proposed Raise in School Levy.

The proposed increase in the school tax rate, to be voted upon April 8, was indorsed by the St. Louis Safety Council at its latest monthly meeting. Resolutions adopted by the safety organization call attention to the present overcrowding of school buildings, and the use of inadequate portable buildings.

Speakers at political meetings next week will urge voters to go to the polls April 8, as well as for the city election of April 5, and to support the tax proposal.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

As we have no information bureau, it is impossible to answer queries by mail or telephone. Query for Sunday must be mailed a week beforehand.

I THANK YOU.—A Lincoln penny of 1909 is worth 1c to 2c.

LUKE McGLUKE.—We would say "I went down the street, she after me."

CLARE.—We think it would be much better if you did not wear a hat when you sing at the recital.

SCHERMER.—A half dollar of the year 1807 is worth from 55c to 65c. Jan. 14, 1886, fell on a Monday.

BLANDIE.—It is proper for the woman to speak first when meeting a man acquaintance on the street.

UNEXPERIENCED.—If you place a switch of the hedge in the ground, it will sprout again and in the course of time become a strong and sturdy plant, providing it is given the proper care.

A READER.—The following are the names of some inexpensive garden flowers that will grow tall and do not need much attention: Hollyhocks, cosmos, harty habiscus and the golden-glow. The hollyhocks, hearty habiscus and golden-glow come up every year from the roots of the plants, but the cosmos drop their seed and if the winter is not very severe, will reappear in the spring.

A. B.—Helen Keller is now living. She has been deaf and blind since the age of 19 months as a result of illness, was also dumb, but has made great improvement in speech under careful instruction of her teachers.

I. T. Z.—The area covered by the Capitol at Washington is 153,112 square feet. It consists of the rotunda, the Senate chamber, galleries, the Representative's hall and a law library. The dimensions of the White House are, length or frontage, 170 feet; depth or width, 86 feet. The principal apartments in the White House are: The Red Room, Blue Room, Green Room, State Dining Room, Family Dining Room and Usher's Lobby. There are a family floor, a main stairway and a private staircase and elevators.

LEGAL INFORMATION.

HILLBILLY.—A private detective requires a city license.

B. B. M.—We advise you to consult a good lawyer about your case.

THANKS.—You can take your regular ticket and write in the opposing candidate's name.

BENJ. F.—A police officer has not the right to enter a home and make an arrest without a warrant.

A. W. H.—The estate you speak of should be settled one year after the death of the owner of the estate.

WM. C. N.—We advise you to file suit in Justice Court and levy on the possessions of the man you speak of.

WALTON AVE.—Black smoke for a period exceeding 20 minutes in any one hour, violates the smoke ordinance.

I. M. P.—If you can prove the fraud in selling you the goods, you can compel them to take the furniture back.

A. T. J.—Your wife has not the right to take the furniture from your home when she leaves you if you paid for it.

P.-D. READER.—The girl can resist payment of the note by pleading infancy. Her husband will not be liable for the payment.

G. A. B.—A person has the right to make such a remark if it is true. The expulsion from the lodge all depends upon the rules of the lodge.

ANXIOUS.—Take the deposition of the man who is in another state if you wish his testimony as a witness. You should get information as to the amount sent by money order from the Postmaster, if you have lost the receipts.

MEDICAL QUESTIONS.

(Answers prepared by a physician of authority. Health and sanitation questions of public interest only will be considered. Diagnoses or treatment of individual cases will not be given. Questions that cannot be publicly discussed, if showing evidences of sincerity, will be answered when accompanied by stamped envelope.)

DOLLY D.—Peroxide of hydrogen will serve your purpose and is harmless when so used.

STUB.—The description and illustration indicates a hernia (rupture). If when lying on your back it disappears, or can be caused to disapear by gentle pressure, this would confirm it.

MISS SCARLET.—Any lump in a woman's breast is a danger and should be removed. It may not be malignant now, but may become so at any time. Marriage will not affect it one way or another.

OLEANDER.—Rectal fistulas rarely heal without operative interference. No doubt, however, exceptions occur, and this may be one. If such a condition is improving and seems to promise recovery it would be well to wait developments.

J. B. S.—Most babies are troubled at times with constipation. The simplest and most effective measure of relief, we think, is a plain enema of quite warm water when necessary. This is given best with a soft rubber syringe, an ear syringe is very good, holding about two ounces.

UNHAPPY GIRL.—Ruptures do sometimes disappear with the use of a truss, but these cases are rare. If the rupture still exists, the truss should be worn, otherwise there is danger, also the rupture grows larger. Rupture has no influence one way or the other as to marriage or child bearing. The best thing to do is to have it cured by operation which is safe and effective.

FAN.—The best remedy for an arm that has become sore from playing ball, is to prevent this by exercising the arm gradually and not put it to full effort at once which causes strain. After exercising, rest and counter irritation by linaments do good. The best remedy of all is a spray and sparks from a static electrical machine.

READER.—Even granting the disease you mention exists, the headaches do not necessarily exist because of it. It would be well to examine carefully for a separate cause, such as the nose, throat, teeth and ears. It might be well to take two or three injections of 606, but we think at this stage most reliance should be placed on mercury and iodide. Stick to treatment and check the progress from time to time with Wassermans.

VERY THANKFUL.—In order to preserve your hair, keep the scalp clean and brush daily with a good bristle brush. Massage the scalp for 5 minutes night and morning, moving the scalp freely over the bone. At night friction with the following, used lightly at first, will be found beneficial: Tincture aconite root, 4 drams; chloroform, 2 drams; liquor ammonia, 1 dram; pulverized camphor, 1 dram. Add to this enough olive oil to make 2 ounces of the mixture. Apply with the finger tips.

The difference between the m culine and the feminine tempe merely the difference between balkiness of a mule and the ca ciousness of a flivver.

Why is it that Mrs. Grundy alw thinks that a woman's soul "saved" the minute she stops d her hair becomingly?

Somehow, when you think of Blue Law advocates who are tr to make the whole world miser it makes you feel almost tender ward Lucrezia Borgia, who wanted to wreck a few lines.

When a woman says "No," may mean "Yes," but when she "Ho-hum!" she means "Run a and roll your hoop!" In other w her "No" may mean anything, her yawn means "Good-by."

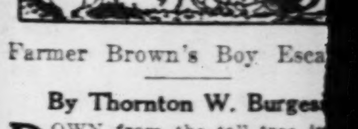
Of course, the movies are ed tional! Many a girl would n have known what it is to be love to, artistically, if it had not for the influence of Lou Telle Wallace Reid or William S. Ha the masculine imagination.



Farmer Brown's Boy Esca

By Thornton W. Burges

DOWN from the tall tree slender top of which Fa Brown's boy was cli climbed Mrs. Bear. When she dropped to the ground she looke and growled her deepest, grumbly, rumbly growl. Then shuffled straight over to the windfall, turning her head now then toward Farmer Brown's and throwing a growl of wa over her shoulder.

When Mrs. Bear had change mind up in that tree and had st down instead of keeping on up Man Coyote had been standing the entrance to her bedroom the great windfall. But whe landed on the ground Old Man ote was nowhere to be seen. was to be seen. That is, no those who wear fur was to be Sammy Jay and Blacky the were in nearby trees, but both silent. Eagerly they were wa Mrs. Bear to see what she wou next. But they were not wat any more eagerly than was Fa Brown's boy.

When Mrs. Bear reached the windfall she put her nose t ground and sniffed until she ca the place where Old Man Coyot stood. When her nose picked u scent he had left the hair o shoulders and along her back on end and made her look and fiercer than ever. With a of anger she rushed around th of the windfall as if she expec find Old Man Coyote hiding If she did she was disappointe he wasn't so far away th couldn't and didn't see all tha Bear did, and, perhaps, afte this was all Mrs. Bear expecte

"My, my, my, what a tem muttered Old Man Coyote. " Bear was never like this. W her, anyway? I guess this old fall is a place to stay away fr long as she makes her home She's welcome to it, as far as concerned. I'll just hang a until I see if Farmer Brown gets away and afterward I'l away from this part of the Forest. Such a temper! S temper!"

Mrs. Bear walked back and back and forth in front of the windfall, growling and mutter herself, keeping an eye on th in which was Farmer Brown and glaring suspiciously int brush where Old Man Coyote h appeared. Twice Farmer B boy started down from his u fortable perch and each time bled up again as Mrs. Bear m short rush in his direction.

He began to wonder if Mrs would keep him up in that t day. It made him uncomforta

Do Fine Clothes Handicap a Business Woman?

Men Judge Your Mental Ability By Wearing Apparel, Says Expert

By FAY STEVENSON.

Beatrice Elizabeth Carr

ARE fine clothes a ban to success?

Are too many feathers and frills a handicap to the ambitious business girl?

Miss Lena Phillips, executive secretary of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, is making a tour of the West, and while addressing a group of club members at Salina, Kan., the other day, intimated that fine clothes rather than lack of brains put a ban to the success of many a business girl.

"When women quit wearing their old Sunday clothes to work and adopt a simple, pretty style of dress which does not emphasize their sex, then and then only will they succeed in business," declared Miss Phillips.

If this is true then the Flossie-Mays who trip to business in white kid gloves, big fur coats, fancy silk frocks and dancing pumps better sit up and take notice.

"What do you think about fine clothes handicapping a business girl?" I asked Miss Beatrice Carr, one of New York's leading business women.

"I think that clothes help to make or break a girl's business career," replied Miss Carr without a moment's hesitation to my question. She, herself, was attired in a becoming serge frock which was "just the thing" for business.

"I very much dislike to see a girl with brains, one I know who really wants to succeed," continued Miss Carr, "come down to business in party or Sunday clothes. I almost feel like speaking to her, because I know her clothes are bound to handicap her in her progress. In fact, I know a young girl who was doing very well in Wall Street. Her employers valued her judgment and ability very much, so much, in fact, that they doubled her salary, and that was the ruin of her."

"I suppose she became dressy," I laughed.

"Yes, she went in for fur coats, a huge diamond ring and silk frocks," said Miss Carr, "and three months later lost her position. I was told that she misrepresented the firm. And I am afraid many employers feel that way about the overdressed girl.

"Of course, I don't mean that the business girl must wear tailored suits and stiff blouses if her tastes do not run that way. In fact, I think the average business man wants to see his secretaries and business women very feminine. I rather imagine they like to see women about who are dressed exactly like their wives and daughters at home. However, I know that many business men do not like the idea of evening gowns at 9:30 in the morning, and one of the first things they judge a girl's mental ability by is the way she dresses.

"It seems too bad," continued Miss Carr, "that so many girls tell their mothers they have to spend nearly all their salaries for clothes. They tell them that they MUST have clothes to succeed in business, and yet those very clothes are apt to be their worst handicap."

"Don't you think the great trouble all lies in the fact that most girls want Sunday and party clothes and they have an idea they can make the frilly, fancy ones do for both occasions?" I asked.

"I never feel sorry for that type of girl, because she usually marries within a year or so," laughed Miss Carr. "Her wardrobe is sort of a pre-trousseau affair. But I am decidedly sorry for the girl who copies her mode of dressing but still clings to her business career and wants to make a success of it.

"If a girl wishes to increase her pay envelope she must think of her business wardrobe first and her social one afterward. 'Can I wear that in the office?' should be her first thought.

"Of course, on Saturday I think a business woman is excused for really being 'quite dressy,'" concluded Miss Carr. "Lots of business women go to the matinee, and then there are the girls who commute and live way up town. If Jack or Bill has invited them to go to a show or dance on that half holiday I think the average business man is keen enough to sense the situation. But a young woman who wishes to succeed will appear on Monday morning in crisp, fresh business clothes which smack of energy, taste and good judgment."

Fathers and Sons

By Charles F. Powlison
General Secretary of the National Child Welfare Association.

THE 4-year-old son of a friend of mine was once asked what he intended to be when he grew up. He was silent for a moment. Then looking up with great earnestness, he said, "well, I fink when I'm growed up, I'll hunt around and pick up a lot of thticks and build a house wiv 'em, and be a farver."

Of course the little would-be "father" was greeted with peals of adult laughter. Yet what finer or more natural ambition could he have voiced? We do not laugh when our little daughter talks of the day when she will have a home and children. Why does it strike us as comic that our small boy should also long for fatherhood?

One would almost suppose that there was something shameful and unmanly about fatherhood, so thoroughly do we discourage the fatherly spirit in our boys. The tiny lad who loves to take his battered old doll to bed with him is teased and shamed out of his allegiance. The youngster of 8 or 10 who likes to play "house" is frowned upon—he ought to prefer building a fort and playing at soldiers. We are far more afraid of making our boy a "sissy" than of permitting him to be a bully. Yet, if we study the grown men about us, we find that "sissy" is a pretty rare supecimen, while the coarse-grained, selfish, callous bully is all too frequent. There is no great danger of our boys developing into cowards. There is the greatest danger of their growing into business men and money-makers rather than fathers and home-makers.

Perhaps the words "greatest danger" may seem exaggerated, but let us consider what the right sort of fatherhood means to men, to boys and to the nation.

To a man himself, being a good father—a wise father and an understanding one—means the greatest possible happiness and satisfaction. It means that he can watch the miracle of an unfolding personality, that he can renew his own youth in his children, and that he can be a co-worker with God in aiding, guiding and inspiring them.

To a child, a good father is, next to a good mother, the best of all heritages. His father is his playmate, his chum, his ideal. His father's political opinions, business principles, and ethical standards are accepted unquestionably by his admiring son. Someone has wisely said that through loving and admiring the father whom he has seen, the child takes his first step toward worship of the Father whom he has not seen.

To the nation and the future world, good fatherhood means everything. It means that men shall henceforth think not merely in terms of "big business" but of better human lives, that they shall strive not only to bequeath wealth to their children after death, but shall devote their lives to giving their children a treasure of sympathy, love and guidance. It means that through mutual understanding, fathers shall be more progressive and sons less anarchistic—that the two generations shall work hand in hand for a finer future world.

Therefore I would say to every father, "Know your boy. Begin today to play with him, hike with him, discuss with him, camp out with him if you possibly can. He needs you and you certainly need him. Don't let his mother have all the responsibility and all the joy of parenthood—get some of that joy yourself. For your boy's sake, for your own sake, for your country's sake, join the Ancient and Honorable Order of Fatherhood!"

SECOND INSTALLMENT.

"AN' right there—at that moment something happens to him. Once I was shut up in a cabin, snowed in, an' not havin' anythin' better t' do I reads a article by one of these scientific Johnnies on heredity. He says that nobody is theirselves. They might think they is, but they ain't. They're made up o' little job lots an' sample bits o' all their ancestors.

"Well, with Sam it was that same way. All these years he'd been his ma's boy, smart, quick, and hard as nails, but meetin' up with that Alice Girl had done somethin' to him, an' a whole new side of him rose t' th' top an' that side was his pa all over. When he gets home he takes a guitar off a shelf where it had been lyin' all covered with dust, an' sits out under the roses by the side of the house and sings all th' songs he'd learned from old Pedro Sepulvida. An' every mornin' 's soon as he'd settled things at th' ranch he starts off up th' trail t' th' Flats.

"Now nobody in town knew anythin' about what h'd happened, 'cause when Sam rode off swearin' he'd run th' snoozers off the map it was as good as done. But one day Jud Townsend comes in to town an' says when he was riding down the Primo Pass he looked across the Flats an' th' sheep was still there. That coupled with the fact that nobody'd seen nor heard o' Sam for most two weeks looked kind o' queer. So some o' the boys that was in Jeff Peter's saloon 'lowed they'd go look into it theirselves. They starts out up the trail to the Flats.

"When they gets there they leaves their horses and starts real quiet-like for the tent, figurin' to catch th' snoozers unawares, but when they gets half way there they stops because they comes around a little oak-covered hill, and on the other side they sees a moving picture an' that picture is Sam, standin' in the middle of a dozen lambs, holdin' one of 'em in his arms while a girl with yellow hair is feedin' it something out of a spoon. She's got a book on lamb-raisin' or somethin' an' she's holdin' it in one hand an' reading instructions while he's followin' too, with his head real close to hers.

BUD PETERS is the first to see it an' he calls the others, and they stands there, starin' at the scene an' swearin' somethin' scandalous. An' if they was mad at Sam it wasn't because he hadn't run the snoozers out, you bet. Alice is standin' so the sun shines kind o' gold on her hair, and she's got on a little green ridin' suit, an' she's stuck a bit o' blue lupin in her belt that sort o' reflects the blue o' her eyes, and takin' it all an' all, she ain't the kind o' person nobody'd run out o' town.

"Jud Townsend is the first to get his breath. Jud always was a ladies' man. He gets down the hill first o' any o' 'em.

"'Low, Sam!' he says, real sweet, 'an' how is little Bo-Peep? Won't you introduce me to the little lambkins?'

"Sam turns 'round real sudden and he don't look half pleased, but Alice, she smiles up at them pleasant and sweet.

"'Oh!' she says. 'How do you do! I suppose you'r some more of my neighbors.'

"'An' do any of you know anythin' about sheep?'

"Now if a man had ast 'em that, bein' dyed-in-the-wool cattle men, they'd have hit him, but those great ganglin' mutts only smile, and each an' every one o' them tries to make her think he invented sheep.'

"'Mr. Sepulvida's been awfully helpful,' she tells 'em. 'But he don't seem to know an awful lot about 'em,' she says. 'Although he's learnin'. He's studyin' nights, an' I think in time he'll make an' awful good sheepherder.'

"Nobody pays any attention to Sam, bein' all too busy tryin' to get in strong with the little lady. And pretty soon she takes 'em over to th' tent and feeds 'em tea, which they endeavors to swallow lookin' as though they liked it, an' introduces 'em to Bud, who smiles at 'em all and listens to their talk about the healthful quality o' the air like he believed it.

"But that Alice Girl just glows with it all and every time someone tells her about how Bud will be up and around by Christmas she smiles a million dollars' worth on him. In the end she shoos 'em all off, tellin' 'em it's time for Bud to take his nap and they all rides away toward Gulch City.

"'Look here!' he says, real venomous like, 'I got just one word to say. If any o' you fellows says one word to that girl about snoozers or about not carin' for mutton in this locality—or so much as whispers that folks don't always get well o' the T. B.—' he sits there glarin' an' Jud says, growlin' in his throat,

"'Aw, shut up!' he say, 'we don't need any bloomin' Little Bo-Peep to teach us manners!' and they all rides on.

"Well, after that you couldn't ride a mile on the Purissima trail, 'thout runnin' across some blamed Romeo a-gallopin' up there to carry some little offerin' t' th' North family, and wearin' the hoofs off his horse on th' trail to th' flats, hopin' t' have th' honor o' chasin' a bunch o' sheep 'round th' pasture an' watch 'em eat all the grazin'. There wasn't hardly one o' those muttons but was fair brushed and combed and had its face washed by hand. And when it come to dippin' time there was about three personal valets to every sheep, not countin' the ones that was allowed to hold th' book o' directions and read out loud how it was done. Sam wasn't in it, because Alice'd picked him t' sit by Bud and Watch him, Bud havin' reached th' stage where he needed some one most th' time.

"There wasn't a bit o' doubt that he was gettin' worse instead o' better, but Alice claimed that now he was better he needed someone to amuse him, so she most generally kept someone beside him, and most always it was Sam, Bud havin' taken a real likin' to him and his guitar.

"The day of the dippin' Sam was singin' to him real soft, thinkin he was most asleep, but just as he got through a little Spanish song all about mantillas and gypsies and dancin' the bolero, Bud opened his eyes and looks at him like he wants to say somethin'. So Sam puts down his instrument an' goes over beside the bed.

"'Look here'—says Bud. 'I want to talk to you a bit about Sis.'

"'I ain't goin' t' last long,' he says. 'An' after I go I don't know what's goin' to become o' her. We haven't a relative in the world, and we cut our last ties to come out here. She can't go on living—alone.'

"'I dunno as I have,' he says. 'Unless she'd be willin' t' move over t' my house as Mis' Sepulvida.

"Bud gives a sigh of relief.

"'I just wanted t' make sure it was all right, so I could die easy.' When Alice comes in even she can see that he's pretty far gone, but she don't lose her head none, just stands there with her cheeks flushed and says she guesses they'd better send for a doctor.

"Now the nearest doctor, barin' a veterinary, was 60 miles off, but Jud and Peters offers to ride over t' get him, and Sam strides out o' the tent.

"It's beginnin' t' get cold and there's quite a wind. It comes over 'em all of a sudden that it isn't no place for a man as sick as Bud.

"'What you goin' t' do with the girl?' he asks. 'Gulch City ain't no place for her!'

"And then there was an awful silence, all of 'em knowin' it was so. Because Gulch City, however it may be for men, was no place for a lady, consistin' as it did o' four saloons, a dance hall, a restaurant that served drinks, an' Mis' Bascomb's place. They weren't any too particular, but somehow the thought o' that Alice girl knowin' about it all didn't make a hit with 'em.

"And then suddenly Sam speaks up, and his chin is set as hard as cement.

"'It's goin' t' be a place for her or there won't be no town,' he says. 'Give me half an hour.' And with that he rides off down the trail.

"I was down at the Peters bar when he comes gallopin' into town, and at that moment there wasn't an ounce o' his pa in him. Jeff goes out t' talk with him and he looks him over and speaks, usin' words as hard as pieces o' granite.

"'Jeff,' he says, 'I want you to take down your sign out here and put it in your back room pronto, and if any o' the boys get inclined t' take a drop too much, I want that you should hit 'em on the head. If [illegible] anyone on the streets that ain't [illegible] actly in their right mind I'm [illegible] to hold you responsible—d'ye get me?' An' without waitin' for an answer he rides down th' street t' the next gin house an' makes th' same little speech to Old Man Morgan. No explanations,' yunderstand, just a plain statement, but there was somethin' in his eye that kept 'em from askin' questions, an' inside of 5 minutes Jeff and Morgan an' Bob Wells was takin' in their signs while down the street Sam was layin' down th' law at the Crystal Palace dance-hall. I heard him tell 'em that while they might dance Saturday evenin's they did it in a lady-like an' gentlemanly manner, after 10 he didn't want to hear a chirp of 'em an' no questions asked.

"Then he turned 'round t' tackle Mis' Bascomb's boardin' house. Now Mis' Bascomb was a kind of character. She was a great big fat woman with a face like a chunk o' cement. Nobody's ever got the better o' her yet. She's got the only real house in Gulch City which same was most generally lit up from garret to cellar with various kinds of drink and games o' chance goin' on inside, not to speak o' the girls that stayed with her.

"Well, when Sam gets to her door he doesn't get down, just stands there yelling till she hears him and comes out on the steps. Behind her a lot of the girls stands laughin'. Sam addresses them like a judge from th' bench.

"'Mis' Bascomb,' he says, 'in half an hour the boys is bringin' a sick man to your house to board, an' with him is a young lady. An' when I says lady, I means that same—do you get me?' he says.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Farmer Brown's Boy Escapes.

By Thornton W. Burgess

DOWN from the tall tree in the slender top of which Farmer Brown's boy was clinging climbed Mrs. Bear. When she had dropped to the ground she looked up and growled her deepest, most grumbly, rumbly growl. Then she shuffled straight over to the great windfall, turning her head now and then toward Farmer Brown's boy and throwing a growl of warning over her shoulder.

When Mrs. Bear had changed her mind up in that tree and had started down instead of keeping on up, Old Man Coyote had been standing near the entrance to her bedroom under the great windfall. But when she landed on the ground Old Man Coyote was nowhere to be seen. No one was to be seen. That is, none of those who wear fur was to be seen. Sammy Jay and Blacky the Crow were in nearby trees, but both were silent. Eagerly they were watching Mrs. Bear to see what she would do next. But they were not watching any more eagerly than was Farmer Brown's boy.

When Mrs. Bear reached the great windfall she put her nose to the ground and sniffed until she came to the place where Old Man Coyote had stood. When her nose picked up the scent he had left the hair on her shoulders and along her back stood on end and made her look bigger and fiercer than ever. With a snarl of anger she rushed around the end of the windfall as if she expected to find Old Man Coyote hiding there. If she did she was disappointed. But he wasn't so far away that he couldn't and didn't see all that Mrs. Bear did, and, perhaps, after all, this was all Mrs. Bear expected.

"My, my, my, what a temper!" muttered Old Man Coyote. "Buster Bear was never like this. What ails her, anyway? I guess this old windfall is a place to stay away from as long as she makes her home here. She's welcome to it, as far as I am concerned. I'll just hang around until I see if Farmer Brown's boy gets away and afterward I'll keep away from this part of the Green Forest. Such a temper! Such a temper!"

Mrs. Bear walked back and forth, back and forth in front of the great windfall, growling and muttering to herself, keeping an eye on the tree in which was Farmer Brown's boy, and glaring suspiciously into the brush where Old Man Coyote had disappeared. Twice Farmer Brown's boy started down from his uncomfortable perch and each time scrambled up again as Mrs. Bear made a short rush in his direction.

He began to wonder if Mrs. Bear would keep him up in that tree all day. It made him uncomfortable to think of being up there after dark with a savage Bear waiting for him down below.

"I don't understand it. I don't understand it at all," muttered Farmer Brown's boy. "Buster Bear never has acted like this. He is as timid as Peter Rabbit when he suspects I am about. I wouldn't be in the least afraid to meet Buster Bear, because I know he would run the instant he saw me. But this strange Bear with a brown coat seems to have no fear at all. I don't wonder Bowser the Hound was scared half out of his wits. I felt just the same way when she started for me, and I don't feel much better now. My, but she has a temper!"

After what seemed to Farmer Brown's boy a very long time, Mrs. Bear stopped her restless tramping back and forth. She sat down, and for some time looked and listened and tested every Merry Little Breeze that came her way. Finally she turned and disappeared under the great windfall. Farmer Brown's boy waited just as long as he could. Then he began slowly and carefully, to climb down, trying to make no sound. As his feet touched the ground he held his breath. There was no sign of Mrs. Bear. Slowly, setting each foot down as carefully as if he were walking on eggs, Farmer Brown's boy crept away. As soon as he felt it safe to do so he ran. My, how he did run!

Harding Blue for Easter

PRESENT fashion displays are making the most of the new, fascinating shade of blue. Harding blue is very pretty, being a light tone of the long favorite Alice blue with just a slight tinge of green. A showing in one of our jewelry shops fairly scintillated because this exquisite color in jewelry is really quite iridescent.

The "First Lady of the Land" will hardly be to rights in her new home when the favorite color will run riot throughout the country, for Harding blue promises to be the favorite shade for Easter.

In one shop window there is an exquisite evening gown in Harding blue satin combined with blond lace. A tailored hat in Harding blue straw has a large buckle of the same shade.

This popular color appears in the new parasols. Sometimes it is just the handle of the umbrella that is blue. Silk petticoats in this color are beautiful. Opalescent combs, lorgnette chains, earrings, bracelets, pendants, hatpins—in fact, all the fashionable jewelry is now made up in the new color.

In the neckwear department one sees novel collars, gilets, jabots, etc., either in Harding blue or with touches of it, and at the veiling counter it is prominent.

In fact, manufacturers, in anticipation of the demand, have introduced it wherever possible, so it is much in evidence in the shops and we shall probably have a Harding blue Easter parade.

REPAIR CHAIR SEATS

WHEN the cane seat of a chair gives out cut a piece of inlaid linoleum two inches larger than the opening in the chair. Paint this a leather brown on the top and the edge. Let dry for two days; then tack in place with regular upholstering tacks. The chairs prove very serviceable and attractive.

SELECT PROPER LINES FOR GRACEFUL GOWNS

IN choosing clothes for the varied events of the day, the well-dressed woman seeks first to obtain the lines that will accentuate the beauty of her figure.

If she is of rather portly proportions she will strive to attain a slender effect by affecting long, graceful lines. If, on the other hand, she has an attenuated figure, she will soften its angles by adopting ruffles and more bouffant draperies.

But if she would achieve greater individuality she must consider color in its relation to her eyes or hair. To enhance their beauty is an important consideration, for color reacts not only on the spirits of the person who favors certain shades, but it also exerts its influence on those around.

Each different type of coloring demands particular shades. But if their values are once learned and appreciated, any woman may possess distinction in her attiring. The brunette possesses quite a wide number of colors from which she may make her choice.

Care, however should be exercised even in their selection, for the girl with brunette hair may have a lovely skin.

As a rule, intense and brilliant colors are those best suited to the coloring of the brunette. Green must be avoided, otherwise a rather sickly tone pervades the complexion. Brown, too, takes away from the beauty of the face and suggests a muddiness that is far from pleasing.

Salads serve a double purpose. They are tempting to the appetite and they aid digestion. No dinner, however good, is complete without a salad.

BRACELETS STILL IN FAVOR FOR WOMEN

BRACELETS are still in high favor with the fashionably attired woman. Many are worn together, but they need not be of the same metal or enriched with similar jewels. When two are used on one arm very often the combination of one ivory bracelet and one of tortoise shell is noted.

Another type of bracelet is that made of tiny pearl beads strung on a small chain. Such bracelets may be of great length, for they are wound around the arm a number of times and fastened at the wrist.

Egyptian and Oriental motifs are shown in the new neck chains. The pendants are imitations of the scarab, sometimes enriched with tiny colored stones in fascinating color combinations. The colored silk cords to which they are attached often match these stones.

Cut crystal is also much in request this season. Neck chains, pendants, bracelets and hatpins show most pleasing use of the stones. The hatpins are both large and small in shape.

ORGANDIE POPULAR

GRAY organdie is supplanting white in the accessories of dress. In collar, cuff and vest sets it is being used ornamented with bits of real lace and a conservative use of dainty embroidery of the Madiera type. Such sets have become a belated portion of the vogue for gray which has swept the nation and clad the feet and ankles in sheer gray silk and suede.

UNCOMMON SENSE

By JOHN BLAKE.

Be Sure You Can Get There Before You Start

NOW that the Government of Afghanistan has given permission to approach Mt. Everest through that country, adventurous Englishmen are preparing to scale the highest peak in the world.

This has long been their desire. Much can be learned of atmosphere conditions from instruments set firmly at an altitude of 29,000 feet that could not be learned from the same instruments carried on a rapidly moving airplane at the same height.

But important as it was to scale Mt. Everest, it was not sufficiently important to make war upon and destroy a very savage people in order to do so.

Ascent of the mountain by any other route was impossible. Now it can be done, and it will be done.

There are a good many things that are worth doing that ought not to be done because of the difficulties that stand in the way.

And it is always well before setting out on any journey to be sure first that you can get there.

For a boy with a flat chest and a feeble constitution to try to make a college football team would speak well for the boy's ambition, but badly for his intelligence.

There is something in the world, something useful and important that you can do, unless you are heavily handicapped by physical illness.

Find out what it is and go after it. But don't waste your time trying to be an engineer, if you have no head for mathematics; don't attempt to be an actor if you have a bad voice; don't try to be a doctor if you faint at the sight of illness.

You are starting on a long and important journey which will require a whole lifetime of effort and energy.

Be sure that the destination is attainable. Then bend every effort you possess to attaining it.

MORE TRUTH THAN POETRY

By James J. Montague.

CHILDREN, BE QUIET!

When Europe suddenly went mad,
  And brother walloped brother,
We couldn't do a thing—we had
  To let 'em soak each other.
And while the Germans Belgium stole,
  And fought all over Flanders,
For three whole years we played the role
  Of innocent bystanders.

But when wee Panama upsets
  The bellicose paprika,
And, as she quite expected, gets
  A rise from Costa Rica,
And both an eagerness display
  The dove of peace to trammel,
Without a moment of delay
  They hear from Uncle Sam'l.

"This row," he says, "has got to stop,
And sends a gunboat for a cop
  To quell the rising riot.
And instantly the guns are still
  That roared along the border,
As both the nations gulp the pill
  That's known as law and order.

Big nations still may break the peace,
  As in the days departed,
  When they get good and started.
But with the world fed up on gore
  And tragic situations,
At least we're going to say that war
  Is not for baby nations!

He was a sentimental youth who had been suffering for some time from severe love-sickness. One morning he turned up at his father's office looking the picture of abject misery.

"What's the matter?" asked his father.

"I can hardly tell you," he faltered. "I—I—I have at last proposed—and I have been turned down."

"Tut-tut," replied his father, cheerfully. "It will turn out all right in the end. A woman's 'No' often means 'Yes.'"

"Perhaps it does," was the sorrowful reply. "But this woman didn't say 'No.' She said 'Rats!'"—Houston Post.

"No," answered the Magistrate, "but I've tried a number of men who have."—Tattler, London.

A Courteous Formality.

"I have sent word to my constituents that I will welcome advice at any time," remarked Senator Sorghum.

"But you'll get so much you can't remember it."

"All I am saying is that I will give it a polite welcome. I'm not promising to stay awake and listen."—Washington Star.

TOO MUCH TO BEAR.

Lenine and Trotzky forced the Russians to attend the theaters. And now a revolution is under way.

THE WAY TO INSURE IT.

We believe the early spring is due solely to the fact that so many women, attracted by low prices, have just bought new fur coats.

CLEARING UP A MYSTERY.

Since we have learned that ducks are hunted in airplanes we begin to understand why they cost $10 a portion in the restaurants.
